BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — A British charter airliner flying 139 tourists to Basel's spring fair crashed in a blizzard outside Basel today and police announced 106 were killed. The plane had a crew of seven.

Some of the 40 survivors escaped without injury, the report of the Solothurn cantonal police said.

The plane apparently overshot the airport.

About 15 persons were reported to have escaped without any injuries.

The Swiss army and police joined in the rescue efforts hampered by deep snow and a cutoff of telephone lines.

Rescuers reached the crash area on foot. Survivors were flown out by helicopters.

Police quoted one survivor as saying that one wing of the plane hit the top of a tree and the aircraft spun sideways in the air. After the crash, a fire broke out in the front section but died down before it could spread, the survivor said. He made no mention of an explosion.

The passengers were from Bristol, England. The aircraft was reported to have had a crew of seven.

The plane, a four-engine turboprop Vickers Vanguard of the charter company Invicta, approached Basel airport from the north for an instrumentaided landing in heavy snowfall.

Then, the airport said, the pilot changed his mind, pulled up and roared away to the south disappearing quickly in the blinding snow drive. Ten minutes later radio contact broke off.

Veto override attempt set

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the odds favoring the President, Congress hopes to even the score this week in this year's battle of vetoes.

Carrying the ball for the first time, the House scheduled a vote today on President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer-grant bill. The bill would direct the Nixon administration to spend about $120 million already appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30.

It was passed after the administration terminated the program by executive decree last January.

Peace force grounds copters

SAIGON (AP) — The International Commission of Control and Supervision temporarily has grounded all helicopter flights for its representatives, curtailing observation of ceasefire violations in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the commission said all four members—Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland—agreed to the ban. It was ordered because of the deaths Saturday of four members of the commission in a chartered helicopter downed in Communist territory in northwestern Quang Tri Province.

The Viet Cong claimed the helicopter crashed accidentally, but the Canadian delegation said it was hit by a missile. The two American pilots, a Filipino crewman and two Viet Cong liaison officers also died in the crash. Ground fire forced an accompanying helicopter to land, but there were no casualties aboard it.

Resumption of meat buying said mixed

Butchers generally agree that it is too soon to know whether housewives are returning to normal meat-buying after last week's consumer boycott.

"It's better than last week but still off 20 per cent," said a spokesman for Fed Mart Stores, Inc., in San Diego.

An Associated Press spot check Monday showed mixed results at meat counters, but even stores reporting brisk meat sales said any lasting effects of the week-long boycott would not be known until later.

The Acme Food Market Chain, with 529 stores in seven states along the Eastern Seaboard, said meat sales were up "sharply," and Grand Union said a check of stores in the Washington, D.C., area indicated "a Monday like we can't remember. Things are jumping."

However, Acme Markets, Inc., in Philadelphia reported sales slightly

Record snowstorm grips Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter-cold weather drove deep into the midcontinent today in the wake of a record April snowstorm that left large sections of Iowa and Wisconsin paralyzed.

Temperatures dropped near zero in western Nebraska overnight. Readings below freezing extended south into Texas, and the 20s were common throughout the nation's midsection.

The storm that preceded the cold dumped heavy snows in portions of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Wisconsin. But the hardest-hit areas were Iowa and Wisconsin, where long stretches of interstate highways remained closed today.

Twenty-five storm-related deaths were reported in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Most were caused by heart attacks possibly brought on by overexertion in snow shoveling or pushing stalled cars.

Ohio Senate eyes ERA, teen rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate turns its attention to the rights of teen-agers today while awaiting another big crowd to testify on the women's equal rights amendment.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, is a central figure in both issues. He is sponsor of the measure to extend the legal age of majority to teen-agers and is chairman of the committee which hears testimony tonight on the House-approved U.S. constitutional amendment on equal rights.

No major floor action was expected in the House, but Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, of the House Finance Committee called a meeting of his panel to begin a hopeful stretch drive on the Gilligan administration's two-year budget bill.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said he hopes to have the House finish its work on the spending document before the legislature takes a planned 10-day Easter recess starting April 19.

The Finance Committee's work was complicated late last week by Gov. John Gilligan's announcement that he would seek to increase the original $9.7 billion budget by $118 million. The additional amount resulted from a revision by Gilligan in expected tax revenues for the 1973-1975 biennium.

Aronoff's bill to extend full adult rights to persons 18 and over died in the House last year after being approved by the Senate. Its death was attributed to a provision that would have allowed them to purchase liquor and high powered beer.

He left the provision out of the measure this year, but an attempt was expected to amend it on the Senate floor to put it back in. Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, and others contend the bill, "if passed, should go all the way."

The bill's major provisions would allow Ohioans 18 and over to marry without consent, sue and be sued, enter into contracts, incur debt, and engage in other activities now restricted to those 21 and over.

A dozen new bills were introduced Monday at a skeleton session of the House.

Among them was a previously announced bill by Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-81 Laura, which would require the state to refund "overpayment" of state personal income taxes in calendar year 1972.

Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, proposed in another new House measure to require the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to notify Ohio motorists whose driver's licenses are about to expire.

Netzel also introduced bills that would guarantee the public's right to testify at hearings on extended area telephone service and prohibit telephone companies from charging for calls between exchanges in the same county or school district.

Kleindienst defends use of privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said today that a president's use of executive privilege "is a constitutionally founded, historically accepted and vital principle of American government."

"Insofar as the current executive-legislative relationship takes on a sharper edge because of Watergate, it must be borne in mind that determination of alleged violation of the criminal laws passed by Congress is uniquely the province of the judiciary," he continued.

Kleindienst voiced the Nixon administration's objections to proposed legislation as a new round of Senate subcommittee hearings began on presidential use of executive privilege to deny to Congress requested witnesses and documents.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the special Senate committee investigating last year's bugging at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building here, said in opening remarks that it is "of the utmost necessity for the executive branch to cooperate with Congress in all honesty and candor" in an investigation of the Watergate affair.

Both Ervin's and Kleindienst's comments were released in advance of delivery.

President Nixon has refused to allow present or former White House aides to appear before Ervin's committee.

Ervin said Nixon's "refusal to cooperate presents his office in such a way as to reasonably engender in the minds of the American people that he is afraid of the truth."

The gasoline shortage in Phnom Penh was eased with the arrival of the second river convoy from Saigon this week, and the government also reported that the highway to the south coast port of Kompong Som had been reopened again.

The U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh announced that Washington has authorized an airlift of petroleum products to overcome the shortage. An official said the airlift would be carried out by U.S. Air Force C130 tankers, but he refused for security reasons to say when deliveries would begin or how frequent they would be.

Because of the shortage, the government has rationed gasoline buyers to three gallons per purchase and has restricted sales of kerosene.

as to cause of high prices and added: "The threat of future boycotts could discourage producers from increasing production."

"Go meatless until prices go down" remained the cry of some Ohio housewives in a continued war against high meat prices Tuesday.

Meanwhile, food chain stores reported normal, and some increased meat sales in the first regular sales day Monday after last week's nation meat boycott.

Rosemary Cantor, head of Fight Inflation Together in Youngstown, said the Mahoning and Trumbull county groups will "go meatless for days a week until prices go down."

Mrs. Cantor said the boycott had been modified to only four days because "you can't expect people with health problems to continue a thing like this." She said, "It really works a hardship on some people."

CHRISTMAS IN APRIL? — Anyone trying to tiptoe through these tulips would probably end up with frostbite. Fayette Countians found nearly a half-inch of fluffy flakes on the daffodils and other spring sprouts Tuesday morning. The temperature situation is nearly identical to last year. Monday, the mercury reached a high of 59 and dropped 30 degrees before morning. A year ago, a high of 61 degrees was recorded with a low of 33.

Israelis raid Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli commandos invaded the heart of the Lebanese capital early today, killing three Palestinian guerrilla leaders in their apartments and attacking refugee camps.

It was thought at first that the raid was in retaliation for Arab attacks Monday in Cyprus on the residence of the Israeli ambassador and an Israeli airliner. But an authoritative Lebanese source said there were indications that preparations had been made by an advance party that came to Beirut several days ago.

Al Fatah, the biggest Palestinian guerrilla organization, said the victims included its No. 2 man, Mohammed Yusef Najjar, known as Abu Yusef. He was one of the founders of Al Fatah.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said 11 persons were killed and more than a dozen wounded in the strike that began shortly after midnight. The statement indicated the casualty total might rise.

Another group of Israeli commandos blew up a garage in Sidon, on the coast 24 miles south of Beirut, but there were no casualties there. The Israelis said the garage was used by guerrillas.

President Suleiman Franjeh held an emergency session of the Lebanese Cabinet, and a protest to the U.N. Security Council was believed imminent.

The Israelis, some dressed in civilian clothes and some in fatigue uniforms, apparently landed by helicopter at Ouzai, a village three miles south of Beirut, and split into two groups.

Boarding unlicensed cars, one party headed for the center of the city and the apartments of the three Palestinian leaders. The other went to the Shatila-Sabra refugee camp near the airport.

The Palestinian leaders lived in apartment buildings off Rue Verdun, in the center of the city. The raiders burst into these buildings, threw explosive charges and then stormed the men's apartments with machine guns blazing.

Guerrillas at the Sabra camp, which houses 5,000 Palestinians, said at least 30 persons were killed and residents were searching the debris of blown up buildings for more bodies.

Lawyer says McCord knows no high-level conspirators

WASHINGTON (AP) — James W. McCord's lawyer says the convicted Watergate conspirator has no direct knowledge that any high-level official in President Nixon's re-election effort knew of plans to bug Democratic headquarters.

Talking to newsmen Monday, attorney Bernard W. Fensterwald indicated that most of McCord's second-hand information about planning the Watergate bugging operation came from G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to the Committee for Re-election of the President.

Liddy was convicted with McCord, former security chief for the campaign, as a result of the wiretapping. But, unlike McCord, Liddy has refused to talk about Watergate with a federal grand jury.

Several stories based on news leaks have said McCord told a Senate committee investigating Watergate that various highlevel officials in the Nixon campaign and in the White House were at least aware of plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building last June.

Nixon asks for power over tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon formally asked Congress today to give him broad new powers to raise, reduce or remove tariff barriers as a lever in upcoming world trade negotiations.

Nixon also asked for expanded authority to retaliate against unfair trade practices, including authority for the government to ban completely some imports.

In a major message to Congress, Nixon sought authority to extend most-favored-nation (MFN) treatment without advance congressional approval. He made it clear he wanted to grant MFN status to the Soviet Union.

Contending that the need for trade reform is urgent, Nixon urged prompt congressional action "so that we can move our country and our world away from trade confrontation and toward trade negotiation."

Trade laws have not been overhauled for more than a decade, he said in petitioning Congress to "delegate significant new negotiating authorities to the executive branch."

There were 14 deaths in Wisconsin and nine in Iowa. Two traffic fatalities in Minnesota were blamed on snow-laden winds gusting to 60 miles-an-hour.

Up to 18 inches of snow fell on Dubuque, Iowa, through Monday, and 6 to 15 inches buried parts of Wisconsin.

The National Weather Service said it was the worst April storm in Iowa since record keeping began in 1881. Six deaths attributed to heart attacks were reported in Des Moines as residents tried to dig out or sought refuge.

The spring storm through the nation's midsection has brought new danger to weakened levees along the rain-swollen Mississippi River system and flooding along the Lake Erie shore near Toledo, Ohio.

Damage along the Mississippi was estimated at $160 million.

Although the Mississippi and the Missouri rivers continued to fall near their confluence in Missouri, the storm whipped up five-foot waves on the Mississippi and the Corps of Army Engineers pinpointed two potential trouble spots.

At Kaskaskia Island, 60 miles south of St. Louis, the Corps ordered all but 16 of the island's 300 residents to evacuate Monday as winds gusting to 60 miles per hour sent huge waves crashing into water-logged levees.

"The way it looks now, I think the levee's going to break," said Paul Johnson, district engineer for the Corps.

"I could be wrong. I hope I'm wrong."

He said the levee on the northwest side of the island was eroded so badly that patrols were not being permitted on it.

Another potential trouble spot was at Cheuteau Island, near Granite City, Ill. Although the 70 families there have not been ordered to evacuate, a

Search continues for body of boating victim

The search is still under way for the body of a 20-year-old Stoutsville man who drowned Sunday evening when his boat capsized at Deer Creek Reservoir.

Pickaway County sheriff's deputies said dragging and diving operations for the body of Darrell Wheeler resumed again about 9 a.m. Tuesday after all-day operations Monday.

Wheeler and three Circleville residents were riding in a motor boat which capsized on the lake shortly after 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The three others were pulled from the water by three Columbus men who were near the scene when the mishap occurred. None of the three was seriously injured.

Strong winds and cold were hampering the search operations near the west shore of the reservoir.

Deaths, Funerals

Ralph K. Parrett

Ralph Kerr Parrett, 77, of 14 Meyer Court, died at 9 p.m. Monday in Fayette Memorial Hospital. He had been seriously ill for the past two weeks.

Pallbearers for the burial in New Holland Cemetery were James Ladley, Sam Williams, James Brown and Eldon, Donald, Robert and Ronald Stires. The flag which draped the casket of the Korean War veteran was folded by Richard Kirkpatrick and Donald Stires and was presented to Mrs. Pollock.

Scientist named

Israeli leader

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dr. Ephraim Katchalski, one of the world's leading biophysicists, was elected Israel's fourth president today in the Jewish state's first contested election for the office.

The president-elect immediately changed his name from the East European Katchalski to Katzir, Hebrew for harvest. He will be sworn in May 23 for a five-year term, succeeding Zalman Shazar. President Shazar is retiring at the age of 73 after serving two terms.

Katzir was the candidate of Premier Golda Meier's dominant Labor party.

Weather hampers nation's farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers, encouraged by the Nixon administration to boost production this year, are being severely tested by a siege of poor weather throughout much of the nation.

As of April 1, says the Agriculture Department, farm operations in the South, Corn Belt, Great Plains and in many other regions were far behind normal.

The situation has worsened since then in many areas where heavy flooding and heavy snow have halted field work.

Commenting on the situation as it appeared 10 days ago, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday, "Very little land preparation and almost no planting" of major crops was done by April 1 in stricken areas.

"South Texas farmers were about two weeks behind schedule in planting cotton, corn and sorghum," officials said. "Only limited corn acreage was planted in South Carolina. Tobacco plant bed seeding started early in Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina and tobacco transplanting was active in Georgia but was just getting underway in South Carolina."

Other comments included: —"Excessive soil moisture brought field work to a virtual standstill in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.... many farmers were concerned that flooded lowland acreage would not dry out in time to plant cotton."

Record snowstorm

spokesman for the Corps described the situation as critical.

The Mississippi fell nearly a foot at St. Louis Monday, to 38 feet, after cresting at 39.8 feet on Friday. The Missouri was down to 33 feet at St. Charles, Mo., but still eight feet above flood stage.

Downriver, in Louisiana, the Mississippi continued a slow drop as Army Engineers siphoned off some of the river by opening the Bonnet Carre spillway 30 miles upstream from New Orleans. But higher water was on the way.

With the river 1.2 feet above flood stage at 18.2 feet Monday, the Weather Bureau estimated that the heavy water now moving down the Mississippi from its upper reaches would push the level at New Orleans to 18.6 feet by April 16.

"I can't tell you now whether we're peaking out or whether we're going to get a worse situation before we're through," said Maj. Gen. Charles C. Noble, Mississippi River Commission president.

The opening of the Bonnet Carre spillway diverted a portion of the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico through a 5.7-mile trough of low land and Lake Pontchartrain.

In Ohio, high winds sent the rain-swollen waters of Lake Erie washing over dikes along an 18-mile stretch of shoreline in the Toledo area.

Many of the Toledo residents began returning to floodbattered areas along the Lake Erie shore early today as police and National Guardsmen stood by to guard against looting.

Flood levels fell rapidly overnight as winds shifted direction and waves stopped pounding the western Lake Erie shore.

It was the second time in less than six months that residents in a five-square-mile area of Toledo had to be evacuated to escape the rising lake waters.

Early estimates placed damage at well over a million dollars.

City spokesman Ted Reams said about 2,000 persons were taken from their homes along the shore by police and firemen, Civil Defense and Red Cross volunteers.

Hundreds of residents were also evacuated from rural shore areas stretching about nine miles either side of Toledo.

Record high water levels were reported as far as 30 miles east of Toledo at Port Clinton. But local police reported the flooding situation there began to ease by 7 p.m. The few families that had been evacuated earlier, returned to their homes Monday night.

High water had closed three state highways between Toledo and Port Clinton. Ohio 2 was still under "about a foot" of water early this morning, an Ohio highway patrolman reported. Other roads were clear.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service forecast snow flurries for the area today. Heavy snow was expected to remain north of the state in western Michigan and Ontario.

Politics embroil JFK Library

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — More than nine years after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, the library that will commemorate him is still years from reality, slowed by the kind of politics that Kennedy learned in his home state.

Building the library envisioned by Kennedy shortly before he died has meant bringing together several Massachusetts institutions, among them the Kennedy family, Harvard University, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, Boston's ethnic neighborhoods and the state legislature. It hasn't been easy.

The $20 million building is still at least three years away from opening. Its plans haven't been unveiled yet, and its site still holds a subway car repair yard.

The key to construction of the library has been the yard, a dusty sprawl of trains, tracks and barns across the street from the Harvard dorm where Kennedy lived as a student. Before

"In the north central states, field work was restricted by rains and muddy fields. Only in North Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin were farmers able to get an early start on tilling and small grain seeding.

"Spring plowing and small grain seeding were behind normal in all other Corn Belt states. Only limited field work on higher elevation soil was evident in the eastern Corn Belt.

Rural caucus of Democrats organized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of freshman Democrats hopes to give the House farm bloc a new twist and a stronger voice and to prove there's more to rural life than agriculture.

Ten of them have organized the Democratic Rural Caucus and one of the leaders, Rep. Charlie Rose of North Carolina, predicts steady growth in numbers and in influence.

The caucus expects to demonstrate its solidarity in a House vote today on the question of overriding President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer program.

The caucus, Rose said in an interview, is an exercise in the theory that strength lies in unity and numbers.

"We're putting a choir together. We think we sing some of the same tunes, and we just want to practice our singing," he said.

The idea developed when Rose and another freshman Democrat, Clem McSpadden of Oklahoma, talked over the problems of their rural constituents, discovered similarities, and wondered why there was no formal House structure to bring together congressmen with like constituencies.

With Rose and McSpadden as the core, the caucus was formed last month. About 100 other House Democrats from largely rural districts have been invited to join.

Rose said the group will be financed with voluntary contributions from members.

It will draw no funds from the farm-organization lobbies, he said, because "we would all want to stay as far away from any special-interest involvement as we could."

Rhodes bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes makes a bid for a third term next year, it will violate the "probable intention" of Ohio voters who approved a limitation on gubernatorial terms in 1954, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said Monday.

In a brief filed with the Ohio Supreme Court, Brown compared the mood in Ohio with regard to gubernatorial terms with the mood in the nation to limit presidential terms following President Roosevelt's administration.

He noted the gubernatorial term limitation was approved in the middle of former Gov. Frank Lausche's fourth term.

"It would have been natural for the people of Ohio to relate the amendment upon which they were voting with the federal amendment and presume they were imposing a similar, though less harsh, restriction," the brief argued.

Ohio's constitution currently limits governors to two terms, but it doesn't specify whether the terms must be served consecutively or concurrently.

Attorneys for both sides have conceded the language of the law is vague to the extreme.

Oral arguments on the case are to be heard by the justices April 18.

Black becomes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first black City Council president in Cleveland's history has pledged after his swearing in to avoid "confrontation politics."

George L. Forbes, installed Monday night to succeed Edmund J. Turk, told the Council "there is no room for a bitter feud between the mayor and the council president, one black and the other white."

Mayor Ralph J. Perk is a Republican. Forbes and 30 other members of the 33-man Council are Democrats.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Winter weather was making a return visit to Ohio Tuesday, scattering light snow over some areas and bringing a freeze warning for tonight.

Temperatures were taking a sharp drop, with readings this afternoon predicted for mostly in the 30s and a drop into the 20s tonight.

However, compared to portions of Iowa and Wisconsin where a foot of snow was measured Monday night, things were relatively mild in Ohio, with exception of Lake Erie flooding.

The National Weather Service reported the light snow today is expected to diminish to scattered flurries this afternoon and tonight, but west to northwest winds will bring colder air to the area, and a freeze warning has been issued for falling temperatures tonight.

A low pressure over the lower Great Lakes area today will be moving east and northeastward, and keep cold conditions through Thursday. Later in the week, temperatures will be moderating, and near normal readings are scheduled for Saturday.

Fair and cold Thursday. A chance of showers and slowly moderating temperatures Friday and Saturday. Highs Thursday in the upper 30s and low 40s, warming to the 50s and low 60s on Saturday. Overnight lows in the 20s early Thursday

on trial in court

A civil suit filed in December by Jess Gilmore, Gilmore Homes, Inc., against the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, is being heard today in Common Pleas Court.

The suit seeks a court order to direct the platting of two subdivisions which have twice been rejected by the commissioners. The proposed subdivisions are located on a 64.63-acre tract at the intersection of Ohio 41-N and Inskeep Road. According to the petition, Jeffrey Estates No. 1 contains 5.201 acres, and Jeffrey Estates No. 2 contains 6.118 acres.

Gilmore contends that no approval is necessary from the Board of Commissioners since the county engineer, the Fayette County Board of Health and the Fayette County Regional Planning Commission already have approved the subdivisions.

The petition seeks an order from the court directing the auditor to transfer the real estate on the tax duplicate into separate tax parcels and for the recorder to record the plats.

president's brother-in-law, adding that the delay "cut our program into less than half in terms of square footage."

But Dave Powers, a former Kennedy aide and political crony who is the library's curator, said the state representatives who repeatedly stalled the library by throwing up obstacles to a new subway yard were just doing their jobs — protecting their constituents.

The MBTA finally settled on a Penn Central yard in South Boston for its repair sheds. Nobody lived near there, but even this site was controversial. City councilors mourned the loss of taxable property.

The subway authority says its new sheds should be finished by 1974. Then it can move out of its Harvard repair yard, and library construction can begin. Spokesmen now say they hope to open the library on the former president's 60th birthday — May 29, 1976.

They had once proposed opening it in 1968.

Stock list posts gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market marched ahead today on a broad front as investors greeted good first-quarter reports with optimism.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 11.13 points at 958.68. Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange clobbered declining issues by a 3-to-1 margin.

Investors took heart Monday afternoon when the good report from Du Pont came in. It was followed by good first-quarter reports today from Allied Chemical and Control Data. Du Pont, which picked up more than 4 points Monday, was up 1 3/4 at 173 3/4 and Control Data gained 1 3/4 to 47 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the noon price-change index was up .05 at 24.16.

The noon index of some 1,400 stocks on the NYSE was up 0.55 at 59.57.

On the Amex, Kenny Corp. was the most-active, off 3/8 at 7 1/4.

Food dye problems bring massive federal effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — New concern is being expressed about the safety of synthetic food colors as a federal ban takes effect today against a widely used violet dye recently shown to cause cancer.

"The Violet No. 1 ban should be a reminder that artificial colorings constitute the single most questionable class of food additives," says microbiologist Michael F. Jacobson, co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

"None has been adequately tested," he said. "Many colorings have been found to cause cancer or damage to internal organs of the body."

Man has been dyeing his food for thousands of years and, especially in earlier periods, dying as a consequence.

The first colors were designed to make food more appealing or to promote fraud.

In the early 1800s a woman dropped dead after eating pickles, colored green with copper sulfate, supplied by her hairdresser.

And in 1860 a druggist supplied the color for a caterer's green pudding served at a public dinner. Two guests were killed by the copper arsenite.

"It is understandable that attitudes today toward legitimate use of color in foods sometimes reflect the fact that for over 2,000 years a common purpose of adding color was to defraud the consumer or to disguise adulteration," the National Academy of Sciences said in a 1971 report.

The Industrial Revolution in the mid-19th century spurred development of more-stable coal-tar dyes. The danger of impurities was not understood and they often were used indiscriminately.

"Unfortunately, when they had a bad batch of textile color they'd sell it to the guy who wanted to dye food," said Keith H. Heine, colors expert in the Food and Drug Administration.

Today, as pharmacologists and toxicologists refine their techniques, purified derivatives of coal tar are being studied anew to determine if they cause cancer, birth defects or genetic mutations.

A German scientist began the first federally funded safety testing of coal-tar dyes in 1900. Seven were selected for listing in the 1906 Pure Food and Drugs Act.

Federal certification for purity was voluntary until 1938, when it became mandatory for the 15 colors then on the list.

About 50 colors now are certifiable in the United States, to make strawberries red even after cooking, mint-flavored gelatin green, and orangeless drinks orange.

Even pet food may be colored.

Batch-by-batch certification is not required for another class of colors, including cochineal which is extracted from the bodies of insects.

The 1938 law was black and white on the question of safety, forcing the FDA to delist several dyes and threatening nearly all because at very high dosages they might cause harm to test animals.

The 1960 Color Additives Amendment allowed the agency to set safe limits for use, but imposed an automatic ban on any dye inducing cancer in man or animal.

At least a dozen dyes have been banned or partially banned since 1919 because of the controversial supposition that, if they pose a threat to animals, they're dangerous to man as well. The NAS has estimated per capita consumption of dyes at .012 pounds annually.

Goodyear loses St. Marys case on women's pay

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has been ordered to pay back wages to women quantity checkers at its St. Marys plant after a federal court here ruled the firm had been discriminating against female employees.

The suit, filed by the U.S. Labor

Department, contended the company continued to pay male quantity checkers higher wages after mechanization had changed their job duties to those performed by women checkers.

Goodyear claimed the men's salaries fell within the "red circle" rule allowing higher pay for particular employees transferred to a lower skill job to keep them available until needed for their regular, higher-paid job.

U.S. District Judge Don J. Young ruled he found no evidence that this was the case.

New tax reform impetus

It has long been conclusively established that man is born to trouble. Many would agree that the potential for trouble took a quantum jump in 1913 when the states ratified the 16th Amendment giving Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived . . ."

The implementation of that simple dictum is much on a lot of minds at this time of year, when the deadline for filing looms large and inescapable. It is a time when taxpayers react with particular heat to reminders that taxes do not fall equally upon all citizens.

The inequalities are astounding, as Philip M. Stern freshly notes in "The Rape of the Taxpayer." It is a book filled with stories likely to enrage the ordinary fellow who sweats out his stipend for Uncle Sam. About the oilman, for example, who paid no income tax for 12 years during which he sold some 50 million dollars worth of oil; about billionaire J. Paul Getty, whose income tax is said to total only a few thousand a year; about the late Louis B. Mayer, who benefited to the tune of a couple of million by a special 1969 tax law provision allowing him to pay only 25 instead of 91 per cent on a huge lump sum retirement payment.

Stern's unassailable thesis is that "when someone else pays less, the rest of us pay more." He also elaborates on the theme that even exemptions and deductions legal for all taxpayers benefit the poor less than the rich. It is a book that should stir up a vigorous new demand for genuine tax reform.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

The latest economic devil theory

Among all the woes that afflict this country, economic illiteracy is surely not the least. We must have our devils.

It is absolutely dumbfounding, for instance, to listen to the current attacks on the multinational corporation. The AFL-CIO's George Meany is apparently convinced beyond the possibility of enlightenment that the big U.S. company with overseas branches or affiliates is guilty of exporting jobs and cutting domestic manufacturers out of world markets. And, without the slightest backing in statistical evidence, the Meany point of view has infected some legislators who should know better, such as Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana.

LET'S BEGIN with an early multinational group, the U.S. automotive industry. GM, Ford and Chrysler have all sought footholds in Western Europe. They did so because Europeans would not buy the huge gasoline-eating cars favored by Americans at home. What the enemy of the multinational corporation should be asking himself is a simple question: isn't it better for GM to manufacture and sell Opels in Germany than yield the entire local market to Mercedes-Benz and Volkswagen? If Chrysler were not in France, wouldn't it simply mean a better local market for Peugeots, with Detroit getting nothing out of Chrysler's abstention? So whose jobs are being "exported"?

Although I would not support it, a case might be made for a U.S. tariff on imported automobiles, but this is not a case against GM or Chrysler for trying to make something out of the European market that it would otherwise have to surrender.

The simple common sense of the matter is that American companies build plants abroad only when it becomes obvious to them that they can no longer export their U.S.-made products competitively. The State of Michigan, which presumably worries more than most states about the appearance of Toyota and Volkswagen cars on American roads, actually has an intricate stake in the prosperity of the multinational corporation. Its Dow Chemical Co. has been accused of exporting "20,000 American jobs." But Dow retorts that it has made a tie-up with the Lepetit organization in Italy, which employs 8,400 workers, to gain a European market which it could not otherwise hold.

Shipping costs and foreign border-crossing duties force Dow to build abroad in places that could not possibly pay to import latex and plastic foam products in bulk. Incidentally, Dow imports almost nothing into the U.S. that is made in its foreign plants. It does, on the other hand, export 16 per cent of its total U.S.-made product, which gives employment to one-sixth of its U.S. payroll.

ANOTHER MICHIGAN corporation, the Clark Equipment Co., has just made a statement to a congressional subcommittee that should be pondered by George Meany and Sen. Hartke. Clark, which makes forklift trucks, hydraulic cranes, tractor shovels, and truck trailers, found that it couldn't compete in Argentina, Brazil, France, Germany, Britain and other countries by going the export route. So it built plants abroad.

Since it exports components used in foreign assembly, it figures that one in nine of its U.S. work force is kept employed by its overseas investment. And in no case does Clark import to the U.S. anything that it is already building in the U.S.

Richard Nixon's good friend, Donald Kendall, board chairman of PepsiCo Inc., is an eloquent defender of the multinationals. Speaking as chairman of ECAT (Emergency Committee for American Trade), Mr. Kendall observes that the multinationals have increased their American payrolls over a five-year period by 2.7 per cent per year, which is a third greater than the national average of 1.8 per cent. The reason the multinationals have contributed more than their share to domestic employment is that they are in a better position to afford it.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin rewards the most wide-awake and progressive of our companies by calling them "a new and dark power." Doesn't the fact that the multinationals brought $4 billion in royalties, repatriated profits and other earnings to this country in 1971 mean anything to the senator? That would pay for a lot of good Wisconsin cheese.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Differences on Cambodia

WASHINGTON — At the formal preview of the great French Impressionists on loan exhibit to the National Gallery Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson took a wistful backward look at his origins. He remarked that once, as a very young man, he had collected reproductions of these same pictures.

That was when he had considered printing as a career. He continues to be a water colorist of no mean ability and when he has time, which is more and more in short supply in his new post, the secretary goes back to the avocation that might have been a vocation.

Perhaps the most cultivated and urbane of the men who have come through the Nixon years, Richardson has also proved in three widely contrasting posts to be one of the ablest. As Secretary of Defense he is confronted with demands that will tax all his abilities. Not the least is the burden put on him to defend the continued bombing by B-52s in Cambodia.

THIS IS becoming for the critics a constitutional issue of the gravest

meaning. The use of American air power had been justified by the need to protect American troops on the ground. Now that all the troops are removed there can be no legal justification, say the critics with Sen. J. William Fulbright in the forefront, for pounding this shattered, largely ruined little country.

If the President can do this he can at any time and in any place use American military might to achieve his political-diplomatic ends. This is usurpation of the war-making power that must have the Founding Fathers revolving in their graves.

In several forums Richardson has given different reasoning for the accelerated daily pounding — as many as 60 B-52s — of Cambodian trails and highways. At one point he called Cambodia an "ally." No one had gone that far before.

On another occasion he said it was essential to clean up a lingering corner of the Indochina war. In his latest statement he said it might be necessary to airlift supplies, arms and gasoline to besieged government forces in Phnom Penh. The reason for the bombing is obvious enough — to try to shore up the faltering regime of Premier Lon Nol as his capital is increasingly cut off from all contact by rail and river.

RICHARDSON'S legal skill in this box cannot be discounted. Graduating from Harvard Law School with honors, he became a law clerk first to Judge Learned Hand in New York and then to Justice Felix Frankfurter, a connoisseur of law clerks out of Harvard.

In elective politics in Massachusetts he was first lieutenant governor and then attorney general, a post he left to come to Washington at Nixon's bidding as undersecretary of State.

He was highly effective at State. In a friendly liaison with Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, they lunched together on Thursdays each week. Kissinger has said that if Richardson had stayed on as undersecretary, with a cooperation involving all issues between the big bureaucracy and the little State Department in the White House, the hostilities between the two might never have risen.

But Richardson was wrenched away to be secretary of health, education and welfare and the wailing and gnashing of teeth in Foggy Bottom could be heard from miles around coming from career officers who felt they were losing their principal defender. At HEW Richardson took a reasoned, intelligent approach, battling all the way for the Family Assistance Plan as the only viable way to reform welfare, until it was killed by the Louisiana strangler, Sen. Russell Long.

HIS ADMIRERS are now asking whether the Pentagon is not a booby trap. As defense secretary he succeeded that tough graduate of congressional politics, Melvin R. Laird. A cynical House member put it this way: "You don't really think that Boston guppy can survive those sharks over in the Pentagon, do you?"

Cambodia may be slurred over but it will not go away. The pressure from Fulbright and others in the Senate is to put through a Senate resolution forbidding any further use of funds for bombing in Indochina. This might not have an immediate result, since there is money in the pipeline that can be drawn on to keep the B-52s flying. But it would be a clear sign of Senate rejection of the Richardson thesis.

Several times at HEW Richardson was required on order of the White House to compromise on positions he had previously taken. Cambodia is a far larger issue, and whether he is the good soldier taking orders or whether he has larger loyalties may be evolved in the grim maze of the office he now holds.

Although earthquake scares are more common on the West Coast of America than on the East Coast, no major section of the nation is immune from them. Since 1700, more than 1,000 earthquakes have been reported east of the Mississippi River.

Color can help make you feel warm or cool. Employees in one firm complained that an air-conditioned lounge painted blue and gray was too cold. Although no change in temperature was made, the complaints ceased after the management painted the lounge brown and orange.

All things that go up don't come back down. An example is the cost of government in America. Total annual government expenditures — including federal, state and local — increased in 50 years from a mere $9 billion in 1922 to $410 billion in 1972, according to the Tax Foundation.

How does the manager of company A spend his time? It is estimated that he spends 25 per cent of it simply telling other employees what he wants them to do.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources will use $285,525 in federal matching funds to expand acreage at Caesar Creek State Park in Clinton County, Director William B. Nye said.

About 358 acres will be purchased, he said. A study will be made to determine which of the 30 structures on the land acquired will be retained for park use and which will be razed, he added.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

How to refuse a date:

Tell him the truth

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old, reasonably attractive girl. I live at home and work in a large office.

How can I refuse a date without hurting the man's feelings, and at the same time keep him from asking me again? If I say I am busy, he asks me again, or worse yet he'll ask for my first free evening, then I am really stuck.

You see, I don't want to date anyone outside my own religion. I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice for me if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: I'm married only four months to a fellow I'll call Mac and I've never been so miserable in my life.

Before we were married Mac was so sweet and kind, but he's changed now. Mac has beaten me on three different occasions, and I don't mean just a slap. He's knocked me around until I looked so bad I'm ashamed to go to classes. (We're both in college.)

The first time he beat me because I insisted we leave a party where he was drinking too much. He beat me again because while I was trying to study he had both the television and radio blaring away so he could listen to two games at once and I turned off the TV.

Yesterday Mac gave me the worst beating of all when I refused to give him the car keys because he always takes off and leaves me all day and half the night. (The car belongs to me. My parents gave it to me so I'd have transportation to and from school.)

What am I going to do, Abby? I'm all black and blue again and I can't go to school like this. My parents live near here but I can't go home to them because they were against my marrying Mac in the first place. When I begged Mac to go to a counselor with me to try to save our marriage he laughed in my face. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP AT 20

DEAR ALL: Go home to your parents and admit that either you weren't ready for marriage, or you chose the wrong fellow. There is little hope for saving your marriage unless Mac cooperates, and he appears unwilling. A man who beats a woman is sick. And a woman who sticks around for repeated beatings is sicker.

DEAR ABBY: Recently when my sister and I were faced with closing the house in which our parents had lived for many years, we came upon several boxes of old pictures and snapshots. Many were of friends our parents had known over the years, but whom we barely knew. We hated to destroy them, even though they meant nothing to us, so we hit upon the idea of sending them to the families of those involved. In this way we contributed richly to the picture collection of many families. The letters of gratitude we received more than compensated for our efforts.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, April 10, the 100th day of 1973. There are 265 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1791, the U.S. Congress passed the nation's first patent law.

On this date:

In 1847, the American newsman who established the Pulitzer Prizes, Joseph Pulitzer, was born in Hungary.

In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York City received a patent for the safety pin.

In 1932, Paul von Hindenburg defeated Adolf Hitler in a runoff election for the German presidency. In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald was liberated by American soldiers.

In 1952, the Soviet Union proposed that all-German elections be held under a four-power commission, instead of under U.N. supervision.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed that the U.S. submarine Thresher had failed to surface after a deep dive in the North Atlantic, with a loss of 129 lives. It was the worst submarine disaster in U.S. history.

Five years ago: Gen. Creighton W. Abrams was named commander of American forces in Vietnam, succeeding Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

One year ago: The United States and the Soviet Union signed a treaty banning biological warfare.

Tuesday, April 10, 1973 Washington C.H. (O.) Record-Herald - Page 5

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This is a time of year that tests executive patience, a period on the corporate calendar that falls between issuance of the annual report and plans for a summer vacation. It is annual meeting time.

The number of affairs increases this week and reaches a peak in the third and fourth weeks of the month when, by one count, the stockholders of at least 145 companies listed on the New York or American exchanges gather on April 24.

As usual, only a tiny percentage of shareholders will attend most meetings, just as only a relative few will do much with the annual report except use it to stir the air in the stuffy auditorium.

The number who will ask a question from the floor will constitute an even more infinitesimal fraction. Almost no business will be conducted that has not, because of planning and legal requirements, been agreed upon in advance.

If a fired-up stockholder mistakenly assumes he can sound off as he pleases in this world of corporate democracy he is soon disabused of the notion when he finds his microphone turned off on orders of the chairman.

What purpose then, other than to observe a traditional rite of spring, is served by the annual meeting? Very little, say some corporate leaders, except to irritate them, use up their time, and appease some windy discontents.

Too often, they say, a professional meeting-goer seeking publicity can distract from the best laid plans, which usually include a little executive boasting about performance or the introduction of a great new product.

J.B. Fuqua, chairman of an Atlanta-based conglomerate by that name, has been conducting a personal battle against having meetings at all, arguing that they are a costly nuisance whose purpose cannot even be explained.

Never, says the head of this 18,000-worker company, has even one in a thousand stockholders attended a meeting. Fuqua says that when polled, 99 per cent of them agreed that the meetings should be dropped.

It would be much more edifying, he insists, if he were to communicate by mail with his shareholders, thus saving them the futility of a trip to Atlanta from the far corners of the country.

If the annual meeting were to be effective, he suggests, it would require active participation by individual shareowners. But then, he asks, how in the world—not alone in Atlanta—could you accommodate all of them?

Nevertheless, Fuqua still observes the annual meeting, not because of the Securities and Exchange Commission or the state of Delaware, in which the company is incorporated, but because in New York Stock Exchange requires it.

While Fuqua does appear to have some valid criticisms of these annual affairs, they still appear to serve at least one highly productive function, that of providing an accounting of their administration by officers and directors.

If it is true that most very large companies couldn't possibly make arrangements for a gathering of most stockholders, it is equally true that news from the meetings is widely distributed to them by the media.

The Kansas City meeting May 9 of International Telephone & Telegraph Stockholders, for example, will be closely watched by millions of shareholders and others for comments about its relations with the U.S. and Chilean governments.

CHARMING CHARCOALETTES
The meeting of the Charming Charcoalettes 4-H Club was opened with the pledges led by Pam Smith. Roll call was made and minutes read and approved.

A discussion of the bake sale held March 17 resulted in a profit of $11.20. Another bake sale is planned to be held April 21 at Sagar Dairy in Washington C. H. Anna Eggleton and Pam Smith will be in charge of publicity.

The girls voted to attend the officers and advisers meeting at Washington Junior High School.

A health report on "Whatever You Do — Food Affects You" was given by Pam Smith, health and safety leader. A health record book was given to each girl.

Gale Horney and Twila Dennis will be in charge of refreshments for the April 16 meeting.

GROOVY GROOMERS 4-H
The meeting of the Groovy Groomers 4-H Club came to order with selecting a name for the group. Members present were Tammy Schneider, Jim Chakeres, Tonya Burnett, Debbie Tice and Crystal Matthews. Advisers are Mrs. Gary Matthews and Mrs. Carl Wilt.

Members are to bring $1.00 to the next meeting to be held at the Fayette Cinema April 17 at 7:30 p.m. Each is to have a news report on their dog. New officers and committees will be elected at this time.

WE DOOD IT 4-H
The We-Dood-It 4-H Club held its meeting at Landmark. Mary Ann Wilson opened the meeting and Susan Wilson led the pledges. Susie Pero gave the secretary's report and Carl Hess the treasurer's report.

A health report was made by Susan Wilson and Kitty Pero gave a safety report.

Joe Hess will give a demonstration at the next meeting on "Bees." Lana Hess led the recreation and Lana, and Carl Hess served refreshments.

Jack DeWitt, reporter

INDIAN CHIEF BLUEBIRDS
The Indian Chief Bluebirds met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Edgington. Andi Lou Anderson led the Bluebird Song, Julie Wissinger the Pledge, and roll call was answered by telling what we are going to bring to the bake sale on April 6 at Buckey Mart. Posters have been placed in stores telling about the sale.

Mrs. Edgington announced she had tickets for the Bluebird skating party April 10.

We wrote thank you notes to Mr. Johnson, manager of Ross Jewelers, to thank him for sponsoring our picture in The Record-Herald during CF Week. Nikki Brown served refreshments. There will be no meeting next Tuesday.

MEAT - FOOD FOR THOUGHT

As local farmwives, we are quite disturbed about the recent meat boycott and its serious consequences. We are as unhappy as anyone else about the high prices because they only reflect a tremendous increase in our livestock production costs. Since farm wives keep the financial records, we have been in a position to watch our monthly statements rise sharply. For example, the cost of feed supplement climbed from $124.00 per ton in April, 1972, to $240.00 per ton in April, 1973 - nearly a 100% increase!

In order for one to understand the cost of meat, he must first understand the cost of production. To illustrate this, let us show you the capital necessary to start a 2,000 hogs per year farrow to finish operation.

Land (300 acres)	$150,000.00
Equipment	18,000.00
Swine buildings	99,000.00
Breed. stock and inv.	60,000.00
Feed, corn, and sup.	23,500.00
TOTAL	$350,500.00

The average farmer who attempts to start this sort of operation assumes a large debt as 7 - 8% interest. (We handle a lot of money, but are certainly not wealthy.)

We are definitely experiencing a serious shortage of marketable livestock. If farmers cannot receive a fair price for livestock this year, production will be even less next year, creating even a greater shortage of meat than now. Government price controls will only hasten the process by further decreasing our margin of profit and turning the farmer to other endeavors.

We are proud of our profession and find it very rewarding, but here are some points for others to consider: (1) the average farmer works about 70 hours a week with no paid vacation, holidays, sick pay, hospitalization, or retirement benefits; (2) most other industries price their commodities in relation to labor and other costs, but farmers are at the mercy of supply and demand and unpredictable weather; and, (3) diseases such as TGE can eradicate an entire farrowing and eliminate any profit.

BY BOYCOTTING MEAT, the consumer is only starting a massive chain reaction. The meat boycott also affects packers, butchers, truckers, grocers, and many others by creating unemployment. This in the end will only boomerang to the consumer in the form of meat and produce shortages and increased prices.

We are asking that everyone do a little soul searching. Meat is much higher than it has ever been, but we Americans are quickly becoming spoiled. We tend to put priorities on the wrong things. Rather than boycotting meat, one should budget money more wisely in all aspects. Meat has been the best buy in our economy for many years and still is.

How long can you really go without meat? You may have the chance to find out.

As we see it,
Mrs. Allan (Sue) Myers
Mrs. Wayne (Joyce) Hidy

Miss McDuffard, Mr. McDowell marry in Beers Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beers Sr., Miami Trace Rd., was the setting Sunday afternoon for the wedding of their niece, Miss Michele McDuffard and Daniel McDowell. The Rev. David Henson, of the Church of God, Rose Ave., performed the double-ring ceremony at 2 p.m. for the daughter of Ed McDuffard, of Wilmington, and the late Mrs. McDuffard, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McDowell of Xenia. Appropriate recordings were heard throughout the wedding ceremony.

Miss Betty McDuffard was bridesmaid for her sister, and the groom's brother, Robert, served as

Bride-elect Miss Rulon feted at shower

Miss Linda Rulon, bride-elect of William S. Halliday, was feted at a miscellaneous bridal shower given by Mrs. James Garringer, Mrs. Arthur Tyree and Mrs. Raymond Rittenhouse. A dessert course was served preceding the shower.

Guests were seated at small tables covered with postal linen cloths. Miniature spring hats were in view on placecards and also centered the nylon clothes duster favors. The gift table was centered with a lovely pastel colored umbrella flanked by white wedding bells.

Guests were Mrs. William Rulon and the Misses Marcia and Gayle Rulon, mother and sisters of the bride-elect, Mrs. Felix Halliday and Miss Sharon Halliday, mother and sister of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Victor Bandy, Mrs. Robert Blake, Mrs. Ward Brown, Miss Cathy Climer, Mrs. Eugene Cook, Mrs. John Coulter, Miss Becky Coulter, Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mrs. Clarence Fessler, best man. The bride wore a street-length white dress and short veil. She carried a corsage on a white Bible.

Miss McDuffard chose a light blue dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

A reception took place in the Beers home following the wedding, who came from Wilmington, Xenia, Highland and Washington C. H., for 30 relatives and friends of the couple. The bride's table featured a wedding cake and punch and other refreshments were served.

The new Mrs. McDowell is a senior at Wilmington High School. Her husband is employed in Xenia.

Bride-elect honored at shower

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given for Miss Carol Anne Wallace, bride-elect of Tom Hixson, of Greenfield, in the home of Miss Cindy Thompson with Miss Valerie DeMent assisting.

Contests were conducted with the winners being Mrs. Don Campbell and Mrs. Denver Roberts, who in turn presented them to the honor guest.

Miss Wallace opened her lovely array of gifts from a table covered with a pink cloth centered with a miniature bride and groom, surrounded by bridesmaids with streamers of blue and yellow.

Refreshments were served by Misses DeMent and Thompson to Miss Wallace, Mrs. J. W. Wallace, mother of the bride, Miss Kathy Wallace, sister of the bride-elect, Mrs. George Hixson, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Richard Beechler, sister, Miss Kerrie Beechler, all of Greenfield; Mrs. Greg Noble, Columbus; Mrs. Denver Roberts, Mrs. Mike Reed, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Garry Campbell, Mrs. Jay Putney, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, all of Washington C. H., and Mrs. Marvin DeMent, of Jeffersonville.

Slumber party held for b'day

Beth Barton had a slumber party at her home on her 11th birthday. Those attending were Beth's fifth grade classmates, Angela Cartwright, Julia Bloomer, Beth Rapp, Sandy Schaeffer, Debbie Tice, Bridget Meridith and Julia Huff. Also invited were Beth's sister, Lori and her guest, Becky McCoy.

Guests arrived home with Beth after school. Softball and charades were enjoyed until dinner, then Beth opened her gifts. Many games were enjoyed, one of the favorite team games was burst the balloon. Decorate the Easter egg proved to be the popular individual game. Winners of this were Angela Cartwright, Beth Rapp, Sandy Schaeffer and Becky McCoy.

The remainder of the night was spent playing more games, listening to records and dancing. The girls returned to their homes Saturday.

June weddings planned

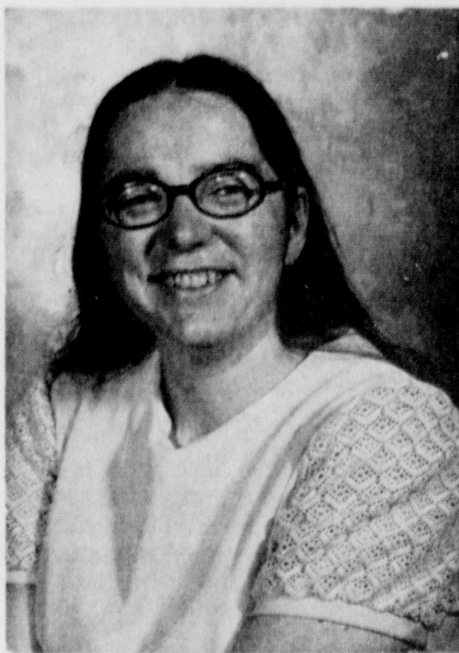

MISS JANET S. KLINGENSMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Klingensmith, of Wilmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Sue, to David Wayne McAllister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Paul McAllister, Rt. 2, Washington C. H.

Miss Klingensmith, a 1968 graduate of East Clinton High School, attended Miami University at Oxford, and is teaching in the Kingman Elementary School.

Mr. McAllister, a 1963 graduate of Miami Trace High School, attended Ohio University at Athens and is presently employed in the construction industry.

Plans are being made for a June wedding.

MISS DIANA M. GORDON

Roy Gordon, of Arkansas City, Kas., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Diana Marie, to Robert Wayne Howland, son of Mrs. Thelma Howland and Chuck Howland, both of Greenfield.

The bride-elect, also the daughter of the late Mrs. Garnett Leeth Haines, is a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace High School and presently employed at Steele Data Processing.

Her fiancé, who attends Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School, will be graduated in June from McClain High School, Greenfield. A June wedding is planned.

Driver training offered to women

"Drive-in" classes and mini-lessons for women commuters primarily from central and southern Ohio will be among offerings of "Horizons for Women" being sponsored May 16 and 17 on the Ohio Dominican College campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd., Columbus.

The two-day program is sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education at Ohio Dominican, and the Extension Service of the Ohio State University. Mrs. Gladys Kirk is Fayette County home economics Extension Service agent.

Ten classes including color for homes, today's foods, fashions, art judgment, consumer protection and women's changing role in the church, will be available.

To register, women may contact Mrs. Hawkins, 1878 Neil Ave., Columbus, or Mrs. Kirk, 319 S. Fayette St. There will be a small registration fee.

MONEY DOES MATTER . . .

By J. W. Wallace

NEVER, BUT NEVER, EVER SIGN A BLANK CHECK!

In order to write "safe" checks, protecting your interest, bear in mind these few simple suggestions and automatically incorporate them in your check-writing routine.

Always write a check to a person, or an organization. Anyone can cash a check payable to "Cash" or "Bearer."

Start all the way to the left when spelling out the amount and fill up all of the remaining space with a line, so the amount cannot be altered.

In the space for figures, make them clear, right next to the $ sign, preventing another figure from being added later.

Never, but never, sign a blank check! In the wrong hands it could be cashed for any amount.

Use any date, including Sundays and holidays. However, banks will not pay on a check which is dated ahead.

A vote of thanks to Perse Harlow and Mary Frances Snider for their many years of service to the Fayette County Community Chest, their services have been greatly appreciated.

Our congratulations to Don Hutchens and Gerald Reid, Miami Trace FFA members who recently placed first in the district speaking contest.

At The First National Bank of Washington Court House we'll show you how to make your check-writing and cashing chores a pleasure. And, we'll provide all of the materials you'll need!

It's just another way of saying that we mean it when we proudly state that we are a complete service bank!

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In case you stepped out for a short beer when the networks unveiled their new fall lines, here is the late news: There'll be slightly more law, order and situation comedy on television next season.
Instead of then-bolddness that marked the start of the 1972-73 season, the cry of the coming seems to be: "Stand pat. Don't rock the boat. Fight crime and keep the giggles coming."
The networks began announcing their 1973-74 evening schedules two weeks ago. Now that ABC has finished its roll call, there are 11 2-3 shows on the casualty list and 19 new shows in the works.
There still are a few series to be announced, but the schedules essentially are set. And by my count, there'll be at least 16 police or private eye series on next year, or two more than now.
There will be at least 21 situation

comedies, three more than than exist now, with the big increase coming at NBC.
There'll be two new legal series—ABC's "Mr. and Ms." show about opposing lawyers who are husband and wife and CBS' recycled Perry Mason effort, now called "The New Adventures of Perry Mason."
They'll join the only legal show now on the air, ABC's "Owen Marshall." Another barrister, played by Jimmy Stewart in "Hawkins," will face the television bench but once a month.
There'll still be only two Westerns on the range, CBS' durable "Gunsmoke" and ABC's "Kung Fu."
The sad song known as the Cancellation Rag was heard most frequently at ABC, which banished six series from the air for next season. CBS cancelled four; NBC, 1 2-3.
NBC's one was "Laugh-In," and the two-thirds were the "Madigan" and "Cool Million" segments of "Wednesday Mystery Movie." "Banacek," the third, stayed and soon will be joined by two others.
The ABC ax fell on the veteran "Mod Squad," the one-season "Julie Andrews Hour," the "Paul Lynde Show," "The Men," and two mid-season replacements, "Here We Go Again" and "A Touch of Grace."
Lynde came out okay, though. He'll replace James Whitmore in "Temperatures Rising" when it returns for a second season.
CBS smote the veteran "Mission Impossible" and "Doris Day" shows, with two rookies, "The New Bill Cosby Show" and "Bridget Loves Bernie."
Lorne Green, whose "Bonanza" series on NBC finally died this year, will return on ABC in a series called "Griff," where he plays a retired cop turned private eye. It'll appear Saturday nights.

China planting heavily

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Field work in the Peoples Republic of China, a new customer of U.S. farmers, is off to a fast start this spring in a massive attempt by Peking to recover from production declines last year, the Agriculture Department said today.
Poor weather last year, including drought in some wheat areas, was partly responsible for China's buying grain and cotton from the U.S.
Now, according to a report published by the Foreign Agricultural Service, there is "a sense of urgency" in planting spring crops.

"The anxiety over spring farming this year appears warranted in view of the decline in grain, cotton and vegetable oilseed production last year," the agency said.

Although areas which produce winter wheat remained dry last winter, the situation was not unusual, the report said. But the spring months of March through May are critical for getting crops off to a good start.

The Chinese crop situation is being watched closely by USDA for signs that Peking may need more grain this year. Cotton also has become a big export item for American producers, with current sales estimated at more than 600,000 bales.

Chinese cotton production dropped sharply last year and forced Peking to buy an estimated 1.6 million bales from all sources for the 1972-73 season, more than double the previous import peak set a decade ago.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Supplement present program with vital new additions. Progress indicated if methods are updated to meet current demands.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

You may have disagreeable dispositions to deal with, or complex situations. But your optimism and know-how will turn things to advantage.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A good spt for your intuitive forces, your ingenuity, alertness and inventiveness. Do use them for sound purposes.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Capitalize on present trends; convert to newer methods where feasible. But do not make drastic changes in projects now running smoothly.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Waste motion could be costly, as could thoughtless words and procrastination. Solar aspects stimulate your competence and gifts of leadership, so don't offset needlessly.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Leave nothing to chance; stress your innate meticulousness for detail and accuracy. In discussions, try to persuade gently, not with force.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

If you attempt to gain your way through unconventional methods, it could cause discord. Emphasize reason, logic, harmony.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Your outlook and approach tremendously important now. Day can be one of highly useful performance if you concentrate on immediate needs and forget past disappointments.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Admonitions for this day: Avoid haste in all things, especially in making decisions. Look closely at all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Step up activities to meet competition that is working overtime. The extra try will be worth the effort.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Streamline wherever it will accelerate progress, but don't by-pass those "little" details which can be SO important. An average day, awaiting YOUR clever management.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Salute your day with the will to do your best even if all circumstances are not to your liking. You may profit more by working with others than on your own.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with great versatility, unflagging zeal, optimism and enthusiasm; are original and brilliant in your thinking. Bugs found in jury room

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Toledo's U.S. District Attorney will investigate the installation of two microphones discovered in a municipal court jury room Monday, said Acting Municipal Court Judge Frank W. Reinheimer.

The devices were reported by Cleveland attorney Jack Levin who is representing former Port Clinton policeman Robert Buckley in an assault and battery case.

Reinheimer said the jury room is also used by the police department for interrogation. He said Buckley knew about the microphones and told Levin.

Police Chief Henry Jacoby said he did not order the devices installed, but would take full responsibility for them. He said they were installed in July, 1972, as an investigation aid.

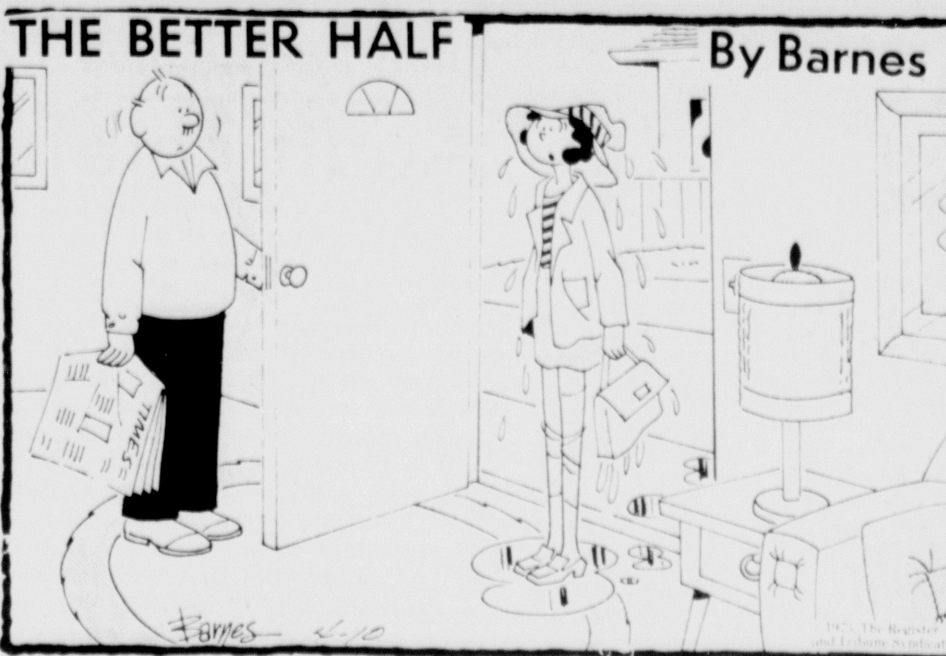

Reinheimer said no deadline has been set for a report from the U.S. District Attorney. He will be aided by county and city prosecutors in the investigation of who used the devices and why.

Reinheimer ordered Buckley's case continued until the investigation is complete.

Ohio Perspective

Audit chief feels growing pains

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Government bureaucracy gets bigger, and John Blum feels the growing pains.

Blum directs the work of state examiners who must check every penny spent by state, regional, county and local agencies in Ohio. In recent years, he said the amount of money being spent and the number of agencies have mushroomed.

Blum complained that he has been saddled with a state law limiting the State Auditor's office to 300 examiners. The result, said Blum, is a backlog of nearly 300 audits not made within the period prescribed by law.

Public agencies must be audited by the state at least once every two years. Some have gone up to four years without their books being examined. Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33

Youngstown, has offered a bill in the 110th General Assembly that would ease Blum's burden. Meshel wants to repeal the law that limits the number of examiners to 300.

The bill now before the Senate Finance Committee, does not designate how many examiners should be added to the State Auditor's office.

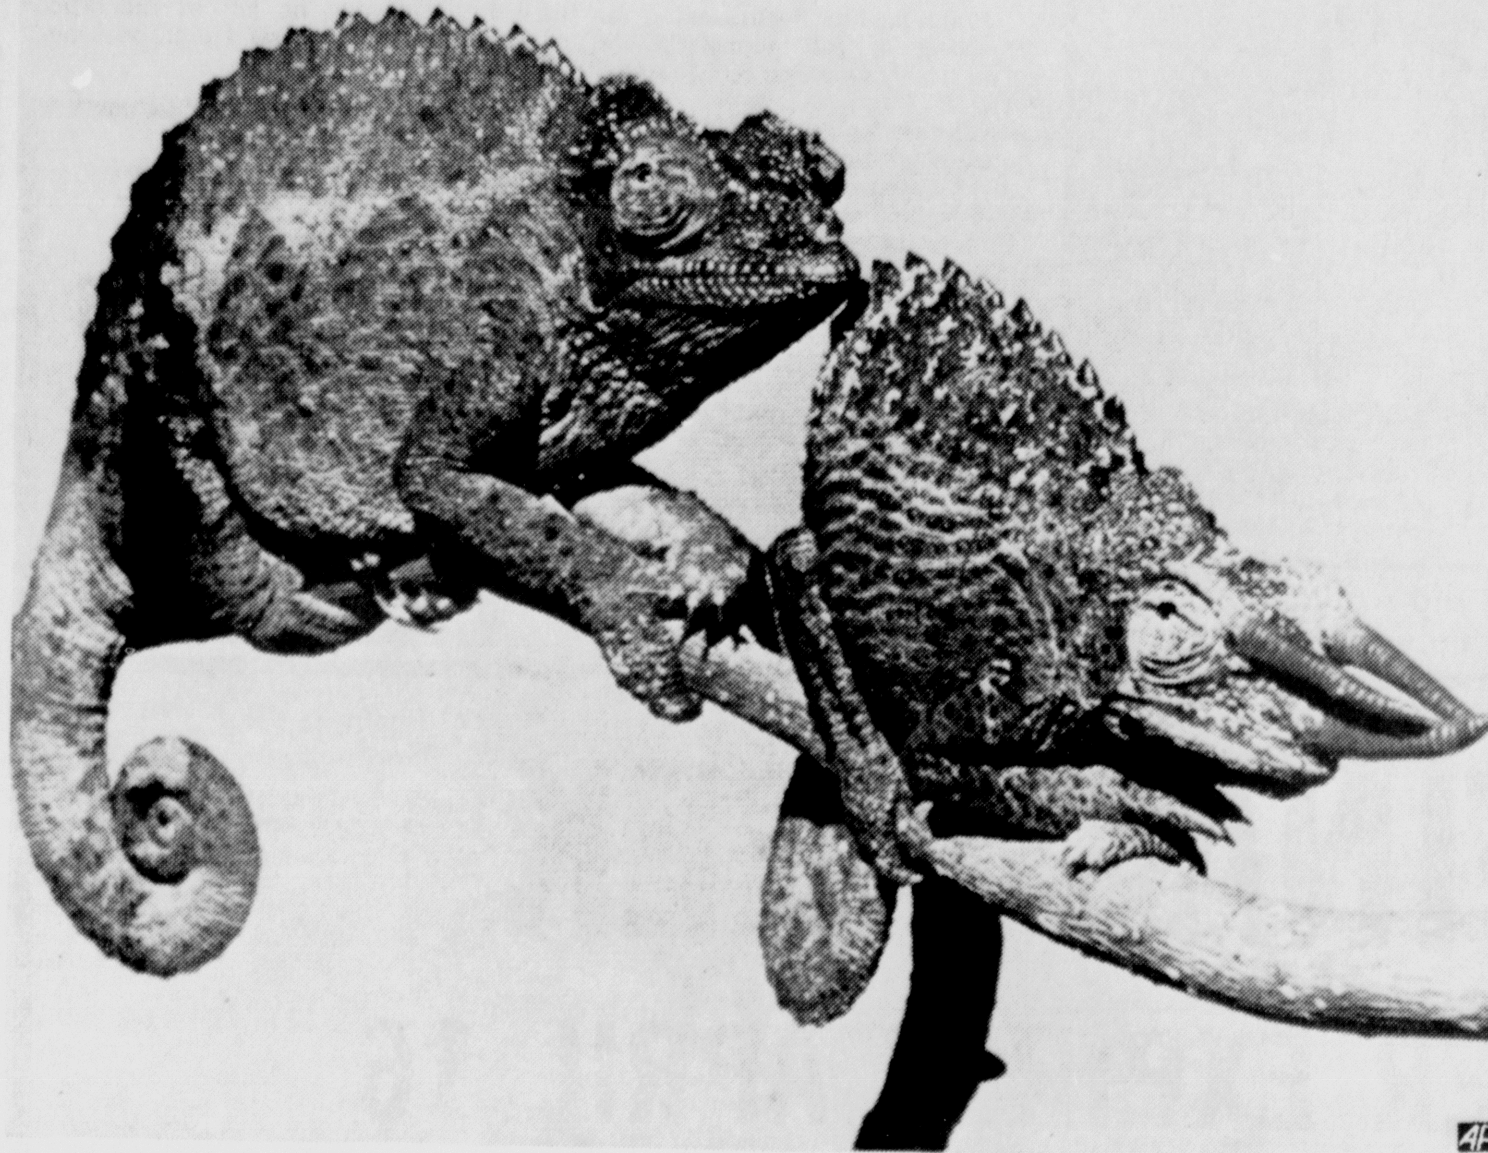

"We could use 50 or 60 more examiners to take care of the backlog," said Blum, who blamed legislators for the problem.

"When they add responsibilities," he said, "they give little or no consideration to the additional duties of auditing them."

Blum said his office has to audit all 3,500 state departments and commissions, cities, village, townships, county offices, public libraries, school districts and universities.

But, the audits don't stop there, he added. All regional sewer districts, metropolitan housing and transportation authorities conservancy districts and 1,000 council of governments must be examined by the state. Blum said he is bracing for the "absolute nightmare"—federal revenue sharing checks that have gone to the state and local governments for use as they wish.

Blum's office has the job of monitoring the use of the federal money in Ohio. He called the program a nightmare because there are no strings attached and, therefore, no guidelines for his examiners to follow.

Maryland man air crash victim

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 35-year-old Maryland man was killed Monday when the single-engine plane he was flying crashed in a field near Ohio 38 several miles south of here.

The victim was identified as Robert Capps of Riverdale, Md.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said it was working with the Federal Aviation Agency to determine Capps' destination and origin. He had not filed a flight plan, according to a spokesman.

Capps, who had received his license last September, was piloting a plane registered to Freeway Airport, Inc., of Mitchville, Md.

Schorr will speak

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Daniel Schorr, CBS newsman, was the keynote speaker for 5,000 delegates to the 58th annual convention of the Ohio Hospital Association opening here today.

Youth Day luncheon May 5 in the Sheraton-Dayton Hotel, Dayton.

A past grand chaplain of the Elks, Father Connelly has also served as chaplain for the Cleveland Browns and Cincinnati Bengals as well as chaplain of state and national American Legion organizations.

The Ohio Elks Association has designated the week of May 1-7 as Elks Youth Week in Ohio. Sponsored by the fraternal order for 24 years, this week is celebrated annually throughout the state to highlight youth decency and to recognize their achievements.

Awards valued at approximately $21,000 will be presented to Ohio's top students and youth leaders at the luncheon. Robert Glessner of Mansfield is chairman of the event, according to an announcement by L.L. McBee of New Lexington, president of the Ohio Elks Association.

Ten "Most Valuable Student" scholarships of $700 each and 10 secondary scholarships of $600 each are to be announced by Donald W. Peters of Dover who conducted a statewide contest sponsored by the Order.

Approximately $8,000 in youth leadership awards are to be made by

M.A. Mihalick of Mansfield. Young people from near every part of the state have been invited to attend the luncheon as guests of the Elks.

Ashland tree controversy centers on allowable types

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—The poem contends that only God can make a tree, but it's a thought that barely slows the controversy here in Ashland in a municipal battle over trees.

Retired highway landscaper Charles S. Ross and Ashland College music professor Elizabeth Pastor head the two factions, each arguing it has the better answer for Ashland's trees.

The controversy began when Ross, chairman of Ashland's Shade Tree Commission, catalogued the location and condition of the city's 3,247 trees on curbside lawns and parks.

The commission since has undertaken a master plan of trimming, removing and replanting trees, and the city has proposed restrictions on the types of trees that will be permitted in the future.

Miss Pastor, president of the newly-formed Society for Ashland's Preservation, accuses Ross and other commission members of being "tree snobs," arbitrarily excluding huge shade trees from the list of authorized trees.

"These opponents are not experts," Ross said. "They do not know what is best. We marked trees to come down because they are dead or dying, or because police found they caused blind spots at intersections."

But "the city has to reverse the tree priorities," argued Miss Pastor, noting that the only approved trees now on curbside areas are two kinds of flowering crabs and hawthornes and one variety each of cherry and Norway maple—all small varieties.

"The beauty of the trees and streets certainly should be more important than the maintenance needs of the utility companies," she said. Her group also maintains the tree commission is overly concerned with utility lines.

"In fact," she said, "people want to get trees up into the utility lines to screen them."

EPA says 56,000 permits must be issued by 1975

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency says more than 56,000 waste-discharge permits must be approved by the end of next year to begin bringing water pollution under control.

The permits, issued either by EPA or by states with EPA-approved programs, include requirements designed to achieve national clean-water standards.

EPA's deadline of Dec. 31, 1974, for issuing these permits was only one step in a complex strategy made public at a water-pollution conference here a few days ago.

Fire claims lives of 2

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Fire this morning claimed the lives of a Cincinnati man and his wife as it swept their three-story brick duplex in lower Clifton at the north edge of downtown.

Firemen identified the two as Henry Domonkos, 60, and his 54-year-old wife, Charlotte.

A third resident of the building, Christine Mayfield, 65, was rescued by firemen.

One fireman was hospitalized with injuries received when he broke through a stairway while trying to reach the couple. His injuries were not described as serious. Two other firemen were treated for smoke inhalation at the scene.

Neighbors told firemen they heard screams, "Get us out, get us out," coming from the third floor where the couple, trapped by the fire, died.

The fire was reported shortly before 5 a.m. The cause has not yet been determined.

Set $17 million Cincy building

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A development corporation reported it has received permission to proceed with construction of a $17-million, 27-story double tower hotel building on either side of a downtown street.

Lee W. Koetzle, president of Koetzle Corp., said the city has given permission to build a glass-enclosed walkway between the structures over Sixth and Elm streets.

He said plans to use one of the towers for apartments may be changed to accommodate needed hotel space in the downtown area.

No date for beginning construction was announced.

In a 61-page policy paper, being circulated to state officials, EPA spelled out for the first time what is required of federal and state governments to fulfill the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act.

The act itself set three major deadlines:

—By July 1, 1977, dischargers must apply "best practicable technology" or "secondary treatment" to reduce water pollution. EPA has still to define those terms.

—By July 1, 1983, controls must be upgraded to "best available technology economically achievable," another term yet to be explained, and rivers and lakes should be clean enough to swim in.

—By 1985, Congress said, the goal would be to eliminate virtually all polluting discharges. The EPA strategy does not have that part figured out yet, and some critics of the law say zero discharge is impossible.

EPA's strategy emphasizes priorities for state and federal action, and a general timetable that has already begun to slip.

EPA's definition of "secondary treatment," for example, was originally due last February.

Another Jaycee success

Congratulations to the Washington C. H. Jaycees for sponsoring another successful independent basketball tournament.

In just four short years, the Jaycee tournament has mushroomed into one of the finest sporting attractions in the area and provides the Jaycees with an ideal opportunity to raise funds to finance projects such as Pony League Football, Fourth of July fireworks, the Halloween parade, Children's Home, the Junior Champ track meet, Operation Red Ball and many others.

The hard-working Jaycees handled their first double elimination tournament with ease and precision, making more money than was expected. The bulk of the proceeds realized from the 13-game event will go toward the Fourth of July fireworks celebration this summer.

THE 10-TEAM double elimination field was a bit smaller than some of the other fields attracted in the three previous tournaments, but still ushered in a sparkling array of collegiate standouts plus a hefty list of former schoolboy stars for the week-long running on the Washington Junior High School floorboards.

The double elimination tourney was somewhat of an experiment and Jaycees are already thinking ahead to next year in terms of Class A and B tournaments.

Due for a lot of praise are the unselfish Jaycees who worked diligently without compensation to stage the fourth annual program. Special accolades should go to Dick Anthony, the Jaycee president, Bill Marting, the tournament chairman, and Ernie Wilson who provided valuable help to the Record-Herald sports department with the game results.

Economy Savings and Loan, of Wilmington, captured the fourth tournament title and joins Wilson Lumber (1972), Washington Lumber (1971) and Flynn's Real Estate, of Greenfield, (1970) on the list of Jaycee champions.

Trophies for this year's tourney were donated by three Washington C. H. merchants. The first place hardware was donated by the New Craig's; second place by Willis Insurance Co., and third place by Hidy's Super Market, which also sponsored one of the 10 teams. The basketball used was donated by Mutt's News Stand.

Tommy Aaron wins Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It was more than a victory for mild, soft-speaking Tommy Aaron, it was something of a triumph for all the weary, frustrated creatures in the world who keep hammering away doggedly at success and coming up short.

"It's no crime to finish second," the tall, bespectacled Georgian said after winning the coveted Masters golf crown Monday. "A man needn't be ashamed of finishing second."

"After all, the greatest golfer in the world, Jack Nicklaus, has finished second 33 times. In my case, it was just that I hadn't won."

Draped in his 44-long green Masters champion's jacket, the 6-foot-1, native Georgian acknowledged his new cloak of fame did not fully hide the hurt that had been swelling inside of him all of those disappointing 13 years on the tour.

They called him a "perennial bride's maid." They scoffed that he was a choker, that he couldn't win the big ones. And the height of abuse against this gentle practioner of the fairways was reached in 1968 when Aaron was guilty of a slip of the pen that cost Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo a possible Masters crown.

But that was just one scar. He took others because he repeatedly got in position to win tournaments and then failed, finishing as runner-up 14 times. His first and only tour victory prior to the 1973 Masters was the Atlanta Classic in 1970.

The Masters, washed out by rain Saturday, had a dramatic climax with a spectacular late surge by Jack Nicklaus and a three-way battle down the home stretch involving Aaron, J. C. Snead and Britain's promising Peter Oosterhuis.

Aaron, 36, who hails from the small town of Gainesville about 150 miles northwest of Augusta, weathered the intensive pressure by shooting a four-underpar 68 and then fidgeted in Augusta's famed Trophy Room at the club house for 45 minutes awaiting to see if Oosterhuis or Snead could tie him.

They couldn't.

Aaron finished with a 72-hole score of 283 and the first prize of $30,000. J. C. Snead, a strapping hillbilly nephew of the immortal Sam Snead, was just a stroke behind at 284, followed by Nicklaus, Oosterhuis and Jimmy Jamieson, tied at 285. Young John Miller finished at 288, tied with former champion Bob Goalby.

Nicklaus' late surge gave the tournament a shot of needed electricity and sent a shock up the nervous spines of his front-running adversaries in a day of high drama.

Starting the final day eight shots back of the leading Oosterhuis and with 13 other players in front of him, the Golden Bear, seeking his fifth Masters and an unprecedented 14th major championship knocked in birdies on four of the first six holes, added another at the long eighth and turned in 32, four under par.

OOSTERHUIS THIRD — Peter Oosterhuis, of Great Britain, waves to the gallery after carding a birdie on the 12th hole in the third round of Masters in Augusta, Ga. Oosterhuis, who led the field by three strokes going into the final round, finished third behind Tommy Aaron and J. C. Snead.

Yanks drop fourth straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Because everybody deserves a second chance, the New York Yankees will continue with the 1973 baseball season. That's because some people deserve not only a second chance, but a third, fourth, and, in the case of New York, a fifth one as well.

The Yankees, pre-season favorites in the American League East with at least one Las Vegas bookmaker, have started 1973 in reverse, dropping their first four games for their worst start since World War II.

The latest loss was a 3-1 job against Cleveland Monday, made particularly hard to swallow because the heroes for the Indians were Rusty Torres and John Ellis, who wore Yankee pinstripes last year.

In the only other games played on Monday's light schedule, San Francisco trimmed San Diego 2-1, Cincinnati outlasted Atlanta 8-7, and Houston downed Los Angeles 4-1.

Rookie Brent Strom throttled New York on eight well-spaced hits and three ex-Yankees, Torres, Ellis, and Charlie Spikes had six of the nine Cleveland hits.

Torres had three of the hits, two of them doubles, and drove in two runs. The other Indian RBI went to Ellis.

You might think all this would leave the Yankees a bit upset. But guess again. "When we win a few," said Manager Ralph Houk, "we'll wonder how we lost them all." After they had dropped their first three games in Boston, Bobby Murcer said, "I figure we can lose 60 games and still win. That leaves us 57 more."

Fifty-six after Monday. Ron Bryant spaced four hits and San Francisco won its home opener, defeating San Diego on Chris Speier's home run.

"I started throwing harder after three innings," said Bryant. "In the first three, I was aiming the ball too much. It was partly nervousness. I was excited about pitching the opener. I've never even been a starter at the beginning of the season before. It was six weeks before I started a game last year."

Tony Perez drilled three singles and Johnny Bench belted his first home run of the season but Cincinnati just managed to hang on against Atlanta. Perez' third hit drove in a pair of runs in a four-run ninth inning but three hits and two errors gave the Braves three back in the bottom of the ninth before reliever Pedro Borbon pitched out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam to save the victory.

Pitcher Jerry Reuss drove in Houston's winning run with a two-out single in the bottom of the eighth inning and then Jimmy Wynn followed with a two-run homer to clinch the Astros' victory over the Dodgers.

3 NHL teams seek tournament victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three National Hockey League teams go for the knockout punch tonight when the Stanley Cup playoffs resume with Game 5 in the best-of-seven series.

New York, Montreal and Chicago all hold commanding 3-1 leads in their quarter-final showdowns and need just one more victory to advance to the semifinals. Boston's defending champion Bruins, stung by the underdog New York Rangers, are on the ropes along with Buffalo and St. Louis, who both lost their first three games against Montreal and Chicago before slaying off elimination by winning Game 4.

Spring sports cards hampered by weather

Rain and snow have combined to spoil the spring sports schedules of Washington C. H. and Miami Trace teams this week.

Two spring sports contests, both involving Washington C. H. teams, were doused by Monday's rain showers and snow will force postponement of tonight's action.

Washington C. H.'s Blue Lion baseball team, which has increased its all-games record to 4-3, was scheduled to visit Greenfield for a South Central Ohio League contest Monday night.

THE GAME, which was originally scheduled to be played Friday, March 30, has been rescheduled for Monday, April 16, according to athletic director Bob Bane.

Cincinnati seeks arena

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati officials are hinting a move is in the works to lure the proposed hockey-basketball arena, now planned 28-miles to the north, back to the city.

Brian Heekin, president of the Cincinnati Hockey Club Inc., said Sunday that his group planned to build its own arena at Kings Mills, near the new Kings Island Amusement Park.

He had accused the city of foot dragging in its promise to build the arena next to Riverfront Stadium by issuing lowinterest, tax-free revenue bonds.

Heekin said futher that the city would be unable to apply parking revenue in the stadium for events in the arena for arena bonds. All revenue made by stadium lots must go to pay off stadium bonds, Heekin said.

Councilman Thomas Luken, who was mayor when the city made the promise in 1971, Monday night hinted a move was in the works to solve the problems with CHC.

Hoosiers pick team

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Bill Smith of Marian College and John Wolfenberg of Valparaiso University have been named to the Indiana college all-star basketball team that will meet the Ohio stars April 20 and 21.

The 6-foot-3 Smith holds practically all of Marian's major scoring records, and the 6-8 Wolfenberg is Valpo's No 3 all-time leading scorer.

The Hoosier coach is Angus Nicolson of Indiana Central.

The Blue Lion golf team, which has managed to play only one dual match so far this season, had its contest with Greenfield postponed Monday.

Three baseball games and a track meet appear on tonight's schedule which will be delayed because of snowy weather.

On tonight's spring sports card, Washington C. H.'s track team was scheduled to entertain intra-county rival Miami Trace on the Gardner park cinderpaths.

Elsewhere, the Miami Trace Panther baseball team was slated to play host to Jamestown Greeneview and both the Washington C. H. Blue Lion varsity and reserve teams were scheduled to visit Chillicothe.

Weather conditions permitting, Washington C. H. will play host to Miami Trace in a baseball game Wednesday.

ON THURSDAY, a bulky spring sports schedule is on tap as Miami Trace entertains Chillicothe's baseball team, Miami Trace's track team travels to Hillsboro while the Blue Lion thinclads entertain defending SCOL champ Circleville and Washington C. H.'s reserve baseball team goes to Circleville.

Friday's schedule was head coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lion baseball team traveling to Circleville and the Washington C. H. jayvee squad team traveling to Circleville and the Washington C. H. jayvee squad hosting Greenfield, the Washington C. H. track team participating in the Reynoldsburg Invitational and the Panther baseball squad at Hillsboro.

On Saturday, both the Miami Trace and Washington C. H. track teams will be competing in the annual Circleville Relays. Elsewhere, the Blue Lion varsity and reserve baseball teams will entertain Unioto and the Panther diamonders host Madison Plains.

Bows Brothers win feature at Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Cowoner driver Joe Essig of Lebanon took Bows Brother wide on the final turn and won the featured $3,000 conditioned pace mile at Lebanon Raceway Monday night by a length.

The winner covered the distance in 2:09.1-5 and paid $13.60, $5.20 and $3.40. Tuxedos Mark placed, paying $7.60 and $3 and Tronias Son showed for $2.80.

Auriferous Way and Jane Abbe, 1-1, in the daily double paid $233.60.

The crowd of 2,109 wagered $120,198.

Bench, Perez pace Cincy to 8-7 win

ATLANTA (AP) — Johnny Bench picked up his first homer of the year and Tony Perez drove in two runs as the Cincinnati Reds trimmed Atlanta 8-7, Monday night handing the Braves their third National League baseball loss in four games.

The Braves jumped to a 3-0 advantage in the fourth inning when Marty Perez drilled a homer over the left field fence with two men on base. Perez tagged Cincinnati starter Roger Nelson for the home run.

Nelson began a big Reds' fifth with a single, Pete Rose doubled and Joe Morgan's single sent both men home. One out later, Bench's homer gave the Reds a 4-3 lead.

The Braves rallied with two out in the seventh to tie the contest at 4-4.

Cincinnati pushed across four runs in the ninth inning to clinch the victory. Perez brought two home with his third hit of the game.

4 televised college grid tilts set for Thanksgiving

NEW YORK (AP) — College football will take its chances next season of turning Thanksgiving's gridiron gourmets into gluttons, dishing up a holiday menu of four televised games in three days.

ABC-TV unveiled seven games of its schedule today, including a unique Friday match between Big Eight Conference powers Oklahoma and Nebraska at Norman, Okla., the day after Thanksgiving.

The unprecedented turkey-and-touchdown mixture begins Thanksgiving afternoon with a Notre Dame-Air Force battle of prestigious independents from South Bend, Ind.

Before mom has time to wash the mid-day dishes and prop up her feet, a night-time game will be on the tube from Baton Rouge, La., with the Alabama Crimson Tide meeting Louisiana State.

The weekend's windup on Sat., Nov. 24, has not been selected since ABC has the option, beginning with the week of Oct. 20, of holding off its choice in order to schedule better matches.

Seven games to be nationally televised were announced today, but the entire season will present 13 national games and six weeks of regional telecasts to include another 24 games.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers meet UCLA in a grudge rematch that opens the schedule Sept. 8 from Lincoln, Neb. The Bruins shocked Nebraska at the outset of last season, ruining the Husker hopes of a third straight national championship.

Notre Dame, always a hot product with the TV people, has another national game Sept. 29 when the Irish play the Purdue Boilermakers at Lafayette, Ind.

The annual Texas-Oklahoma dogfight will be shown nationally on Oct. 13 from the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Fish derby, pistol match on F&G's meeting agenda

Several items, ranging from a fishing derby to pistol matches, will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association at 8 p.m. Thursday in the lodge on the Stafford Road.

Plans for a fishing derby, in which members of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association will stock a pond in conjunction with Washington C.H. officials, is expected to be on Thursday's agenda.

Pistol matches, open to all persons including ladies, have been scheduled for 10 a.m. April 29. Phil French and Alan Yeoman are chairmen of the new event which will hopefully be staged monthly.

An entry fee will be charged and the first three places in each match will be cash winners.

A clean up day for lodge and grounds will be announced at Thursday's meeting in addition to discussion about this year's exhibit for the Fayette County Fair.

Solution to Wounded Knee protest remains deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials and leaders of the Wounded Knee protest say they are no closer to resolving the conflict over when the Indians who seized the historic South Dakota village will surrender their arms.

The issue has delayed Washington talks on Indian treaty rights between Russell Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement, and Leonard Garment, a presidential adviser. The talks were scheduled to begin Saturday, but Garment said he would not meet with Means until the arms were surrendered.

The issue was raised anew Monday by the Justice Department at a hearing held by the House Indian Affairs subcommittee, which is looking into the Wounded Knee occupation and the seizure last year of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington.

Candle-lite crew

learns first aid

LEESBURG — Thirteen employees of Candle-lite, Inc. in Leesburg have completed the standard course of instruction in first aid, as given by the American National Red Cross.

In seven class meetings, the standard course covers what immediate and temporary care should be given to a victim of an accident or sudden illness until the service of a physician can be obtained. Carl Powers, of Wilmington, a certified Red Cross first aid instructor, volunteered his time to teach the course.

Auto recall shakeup announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Monday 1972 was the worst year for defective automobile recalls, and then announced its own program of reporting on possible safety-related vehicle defects.

The agency said it would list each month new possible defects to "alert American consumers to vehicle safety problems at the earliest possible moment, just as soon as we believe they are serious enough to justify our formal investigation."

James E. Wilson, acting administrator of the federal safety agency, said, however, that an investigation of a problem did not mean a defect existed, "only that a safety-related problem has been reported with sufficient indications to justify a formal investigation."

mal investigation."

The agency said nine investigations were started in January and February.

For January, the agency listed five investigations: into the deterioration of passenger-side seat belts in some Volkswagens because of contact with battery acid; a fire hazard in the 1972 Pontiac Grand Prix; an improperly torqued brake pedal shaft nut in 1972 Dodge light trucks; cracks in a rear suspension equalizer beam on various 1972 vehicles manufactured by the Hendrickson Manufacturing Co.; and an air brake hose problem in some 1972 vehicles made by Superior Coach Division.

February investigations were on a possible: steering lockup in Chevrolet Vegas, 1971 through 1973; clutch cable breakage in International Harvester

Co. Scouts, 1970 through 1973; windshield wiper problems in Mercury Capris, 1970 through 1973, and gas tank leakage in some Harley Davidson motorcycles over an unspecified number of years.

Wilson said his agency would attempt to determine whether a vehicle defect caused the problems under investigation.

The agency said that, for 1972, automobile manufacturers recalled more than 12 million vehicles for correction of safety-related defects, the greatest number for any annual period.

Proposing to amend sections 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 14, and 16 of Article II, to enact new sections 8, 15, 17, 18, and 25 of Article II, to amend the Constitution of the State of Ohio, relative to the administration, organization, and procedures of the General Assembly.

It resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1973, a proposal to amend sections 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 14, and 16 of Article II, to enact new sections 8, 15, 17, 18, 19, and 25 of Article II of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE II

Section 4. No member of the general assembly shall, during the term for which he was elected, unless during such term he resigns therefrom, hold any public office under the United States, or this state, or a political subdivision thereof, but this provision does not extend to officers of a political party, notaries public, or officers of the militia or of the United States armed forces.

No member of the general assembly shall, during the term for which he was elected, or for one year thereafter, be appointed to any public office under this state, which office was created or the compensation of which was increased, during the term for which he was elected.

Section 6. Each House shall be judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its own members. A majority of all the members elected to each House shall be a quorum to do business; but a lesser number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as shall be prescribed by law.

Each House may punish its members for disorderly conduct and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected thereto, expel a member, but not the second time for the same cause.

Each House has all powers necessary to provide for its safety and the undisturbed transaction of its business, and to obtain, through committees or otherwise, information after the laws of this state under consideration or in contemplation, or with reference to any alleged breach of its privileges or misconduct of its members, and to that end to enforce the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books and papers.

Section 7. The mode of organizing each House of the general assembly shall be prescribed by law.

Each House, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, shall choose its own officers. The presiding officer in the Senate shall be designated as president of the Senate and in the House of Representatives as speaker of the House of Representatives.

Each House shall determine its own rules of procedure.

Section 8. Each general assembly shall convene in first regular session on the first Monday of January in the odd numbered year, or on the succeeding day of the first Monday of January is a legal holiday, and in second regular session on the same date of the following year. Either the governor, or the presiding officers of the House of Representatives, or the presiding officers of the Senate, may convene the general assembly in special session by a proclamation which may limit the purpose of the session. If the presiding officer of the Senate is not chosen, or in the House of Representatives, the president pro tempore of the Senate may act with the speaker of the House of Representatives in the calling of a special session.

Section 9. Each House shall keep a correct journal of its proceedings, which shall be published. At the desire of any two members, the yeas and nays shall be entered upon the journal; and, on the passage of every bill, in either House, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and entered upon the journal.

Section 11. A vacancy in the Senate or in the House of Representatives for any cause, including the failure of a member elect to qualify for office, shall be filled by election by the members of the Senate or the members of the House of Representatives, as the case may be, who are affiliated with the same political party as the person last elected by the electors to the seat which has become vacant. A vacancy occurring before or during the first twenty months of a Senatorial term shall be filled temporarily by election as provided in this section, for only that portion of the term which will expire on the thirty-first day of December following the next general election occurring in an even numbered year after the vacancy occurs, at which election the seat shall be filled by the electors as provided by law for the remaining, unexpired portion of the term, the member elect to chosen to take office on the first day in January next following such election. No person shall be elected to fill a vacancy in the Senate or House of Representatives, as the case may be, unless he meets the qualifications set forth in this Constitution and the laws of this state for the seat in which the vacancy occurs. An election to fill a vacancy shall be accomplished, notwithstanding the provisions of section 27, Article II of this Constitution, by the adoption of a resolution, while the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, is in session, with the taking of the yeas and nays of the members of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, affiliated with the same political party as the person last elected to the seat in which the vacancy occurs. The adoption of such resolution shall require the

Travel Time

By 'LINDA'

Summertime and good weather annually add the dimension of drama to the travel picture.

From a beginning in the southern Appalachian mountains in Western North Carolina, the outdoor drama has exploded into a widespread means of presenting entertainment with historic facts and fancies.

These provide travel incentive from the frozen reaches of Kodiak, Alaska to the sundrenched prairies of the Texas panhandle and to the ancient ruins of the pyramids of Central Mexico. They stretch from the historic Williamsburg area to the Polynesian Culture Center of Hawaii.

The state of Kentucky with modern rustic appearing state lodges and attendant recreation facilities probably leads the way in number of attractions presented in the "great outdoors." The 1972 season saw six outdoor dramas operating at special locations in Harrodsburg, Berea, Pineville, Bardston, Prestonsburg and Whitesburg.

Among the dramas were "The Legend of Daniel Boone," "Wilderness Road," "Job," "The Stephen Foster Story," "Legend of Jenney Wiley," and "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

OHIO HAS its own outdoor drama in the Dover-New Philadelphia area where "Trumpet in the Land" has been a regular affair the past few summers.

A new drama center is being readied in the Chillicothe area and there are numerous summer stock presentations across the state.

"Texas," a spectacle as big as the state, is staged annually at Canyon, Tex., underneath the stars. Santa Fe, New Mexico has a full-scale outdoor opera in an arena designed especially to meet the exacting needs of such performances while retained the colorful surroundings of the desert.

Kodiak, Alaska, in a community effort to recover from a devastating earthquake in 1964, came up with "Cry of the Wild Ram" which has become a regular outdoor attraction each summer. "Unto These Hills" at Cherokee, North Carolina is one of the earlier outdoor dramas promoted.

From Virginia, dramatic sounds may be heard on a summer evening emanating from Williamsburg, "The Common Glory"; from Big Stone Gap, "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "The Long Way Home" from Redford, as well as many others.

IN ADDITION, many "sound and light" spectacles, summer theatre offerings and Shakespeare of music festivals provide their attractions in city parks as well as rustic outdoor amphitheaters throughout the land. If drama, music or plain fun lures you to travel, your travel agent can help you plan the most economic but comprehensive trip, tailored to your liking.

If some other type of travel is more fitted to your schedule or desire, perhaps one of the Newspaper Tours Ltd. package trips will be the answer. Details on these are available from "Linda" at The Record-Herald office.

Black leader starts

15-year jail term

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Black leader James C. Hardy, 31, today began a one-to-15-year sentence for burglary.

Hardy, founder of Solving Black Problems Now, maintained he was framed by drug interests.

Police said Hardy was found inside a jewelry-loan office Nov. 19.

More than 500 million long-distance calls are made in Canada each year.

affirmative vote of a majority of the members elected to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, entitled to vote thereon. Such vote shall be spread upon the journal of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, and certified to the Secretary of State by the clerk thereof. The Secretary of State shall, upon receipt of such certification, issue a certificate of election to the person so elected and upon presentation of such certificate to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, the person so elected shall take the oath of office and become a member of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, for the term for which he was so elected.

Section 14. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than five days, Sundays excluded; nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses are in session. Section 15. (A) The general assembly shall enact no law except by bill, and no bill shall be passed without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to each house. Bills may originate in either house, but may be altered, amended, or rejected in the other.

(B) The style of the laws of this state shall be, "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio."

(C) Every bill shall be considered by each house on three different days, unless two-thirds of the members elected to the house in which it is pending suspend this requirement, and every individual consideration of a bill or action suspending the requirement shall be recorded in the journal of the respective house. No bill may be passed until the bill has been reproduced and distributed to members of the house in which it is pending and every amendment been made available upon a member's request.

(D) No bill shall be considered on any subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title. No law shall be revived or amended unless the new act contains the entire act revived, or the section or sections amended, and the section or sections amended shall be re-enacted.

(E) Every bill which has passed both houses of the general assembly shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house to certify that the procedural requirements for passage have been met and shall be presented forthwith to the governor for his approval.

(F) Every joint resolution which has been adopted in both houses of the general assembly shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house to certify that the procedural requirements for adoption have been met and shall forthwith be filed with the secretary of state.

Section 16. If the governor approves an act, he shall sign it; if he does not approve it, he shall return it with his objections in writing to the house in which it originated, which shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and may then reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to the house of origin vote to repass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections of the governor, to the other house, which may also reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to the second house vote to repass it, it becomes law notwithstanding the objections of the governor. If the presiding officer of the second house shall file with the secretary of state, in no case shall a bill be repassed by a smaller vote than is required by the constitution on its original passage. In all cases of reconsideration of the governor, the yeas and nays shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered upon the journal.

If a bill is not returned by the governor within ten days, Sundays excepted, after being presented to him, it becomes law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the general assembly by adjournment prevents its return; in which case, it becomes law unless, within ten days after such adjournment, it is filed by him, with his objections in writing, in the office of the secretary of state. The governor shall file with the secretary of state every bill not returned by him to the house of origin that becomes law without his signature.

The governor may disapprove any item or items in any bill making an appropriation of money and the item or items, so disapproved, shall be void, unless repassed in the manner prescribed by this section for the repassage of a bill.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL. If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment and schedule thereto shall take immediate effect, and existing sections 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 14, and 16 of Article II, and sections 8, 15, 17, 18, 19, and 25 of Article II shall be repealed from such effective date.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

I, TED W. BROWN, Secretary of State of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 28, Amended House Joint Resolution No. 17, Amended House Joint Resolution No. 27, Amended House Joint Resolution No. 69, Amended Senate Joint Resolution No. 27, and Amended House Joint Resolution No. 5 filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and that the same amend the above sections of the Constitution of Ohio.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus this 5th day of March, 1973.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's say you're in four spades and West leads a heart. East cashes the A-K and returns the nine, West ruffing your ten and returning a low diamond. You go up with the ace and need the rest of the tricks. It would seem at this point that the contract depends solely on a successful club finesse.

However, there is an excellent rule to follow in situations of this sort. Let's assume for a moment that there's a 50 per cent chance of East's having the king. Starting with this as a base, your first obligation is to look for a line of play other than the finesse that will raise your chances of success to perhaps 60, 75, or conceivably 100 per cent.

In the present case, if you study the matter closely, it becomes evident that you can elevate your prospects well above 50 per cent by simply allowing for the possibility that West had only one or two trumps originally.

In line with this, after winning the diamond at trick four, you play a low trump to the king and lead the queen of hearts. As it happens, West has no more trumps and this permits you to discard a club from dummy.

The rest of the play is easy enough. You cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and ruff your last club to bring home the contract.

Note that if, when you lead the queen of hearts, West produces a trump, having been dealt three or more trumps, you overruff in dummy and still have the club finesse to fall back on. It doesn't cost a thing to play the hand this way.

Hormone Shots Spur Growth

Our 11-year old boy, Bill, is one of the shortest boys in his class. Even though he is well coordinated in sports and is in the top of his class scholastically, his height presents many burdens to him. Are there special shots that can be given to stimulate his growth?

Our other children had the same problem, but later had a spurt of growth. This does not encourage Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G., La.

You are wise to inquire about the possibility of hormone injections to stimulate Bill's growth. The fact that something is actively being done will encourage him.

Erich von Daniken has two books out now that are causing much comment: CHARIOTS OF THE GODS? and GODS FROM OUTER SPACE. These books touch on areas we have been kicking around for years through articles in SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN and other scientific periodicals. We think friend Erich would have done well to have read some of those writings, however, his books are most entertaining and are a springboard for the reader who wishes to delve into pre-history. After reading von Daniken's books the next step should be Donald W. Patten's THE BIBLICAL FLOOD AND THE ICE EPOCH. Patten's book has been very popular here at the shop and we have sold many more copies since the two von Daniken books have become so popular. We have other of Patten's books as a follow-up after you finish the flood-and-ice one.

In the area of good books, have you read yet NONE DARE CALL IT CONSPIRACY? Ezra Taft Benson, former Secretary of Agriculture, has said: "I wish that every citizen of every country in the free world and every slave behind the Iron Curtain might read this book." And from Dr. Medford Evans, former Chief of Security Training for the Atom Bomb Project, this book describes "the way in which our nation and other nations are actually governed... For the reader who is intelligent but uninitiated in the literature of super-politics, I can think of no better introduction to the field." And to that let me add that when you finish with NDCIC you are ready for THE NAKED CAPITALIST, by W. Cleon Skousen.

The first week in May we go back to school at CKFN. You wouldn't believe the programs we have set up for this series. You won't want to miss any of them.

The male sex hormone, androgen, is given to further the development and growth of adolescent boys. A variety of other closely related hormones has been tried, with excellent results, in carefully selected cases.

Before any injections are given to a boy of Bill's age, doctors perform careful studies of the hormonal balance in the blood.

Specialists in endocrinology undertake treatment only when they think a deficiency is present.

A good indication of growth potential is determined by X-rays of the ends of the long bones in the arms and legs. A small area of bone known as the "epiphysis" is seen by X-ray, and followed throughout the period of treatment.

These physical considerations, coupled with the psychological and social ones, determine the doctor's decision to proceed or to continue with treatment.

Can you tell me what a "caloric test" is and when it is used?

Miss L. L., N.J.

Dear Miss L.:

The caloric test is used by ear specialists and by neurologists who are seeking more information about the hearing and the balance mechanism deep in the inner ear.

A small amount of ice water is placed in the outer ear canal and allowed to stimulate the eardrum and the equilibrium mechanism. Within seconds, a sense of dizziness occurs. This lasts for about 30 seconds, and then disappears.

The test can also be performed by rotating the patient in a specially designed chair and noting the degree and the duration of dizziness.

This response of dizziness, rapid eye motions, and a sensation of falling, is normal.

When the test fails to elicit these normal responses, they are very meaningful in the diagnosis of the patient's condition.

POW now wearing bracelet for MIA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Someone slipped a bracelet to returned prisoner of war Air Force Maj. Cowan Glenn Nix during welcome-home ceremonies in Pepper pike Sunday.

The bracelet, given Nix by an unidentified youth, bore the name of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Lee Nordahl, who is listed as missing in action in Vietnam. Nix promptly put the bracelet on his wrist and said he won't take it off until "I know the fate of this man." Nix said he didn't know who the youth was who gave him the bracelet.

TB Association elects officers

Officers for 1973-74 were elected and a budget of $6,300 was approved at the annual meeting of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association Monday night following dinner in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

County Commissioner Ray Warner was elected to the board of directors for a three-year term, and Mrs. Tran Del Ponte, A. C. Heer and Miss Mary Frances Snider were re-elected.

Mrs. George Finley was elected president to succeed William C. Allen; Mrs. Russell Hatfield, first vice president; Clyde Cramer, second vice president; David Six, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Cox, secretary; Joseph Peters, representative director; William C. Allen, alternate representative director; Frank Grubbs, consultant.

A budget of $6,300 for the 1973-74 year, submitted by Six and Miss Snider, was approved.

SIX NOTED in the financial report for the last year that $10,129.84 was spent by the association and said this included $4,270 for respiratory therapy equipment installed at Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Doris Douglass, county Health Department tuberculosis nurse, reported four new tuberculosis cases in Fayette County were recorded last year. She also reported that 5,029 students, school personnel, food handlers, industrial workers and the general public had been given the tuberculin skin tests last year and that 840 received X-rays when the state mobile unit was in the community.

She also noted that free tuberculin skin tests are available between 9 and 11:30 a.m. each Friday at the Health Department. The general skin testing program will be resumed in May, she said.

Mrs. Robert Goodson, executive secretary, reported Christmas Seal contributions last year totaled $5,943.42. She said the association's program for the coming year will be about the same as this year.

Larry Russell and Robert Lucas, respiratory therapists at Memorial Hospital and their wives were introduced along with County Commissioners Warner and J. Herbert Perrill and their wives, Mrs. Getchen Witherspoon, supervisory nurse of the Health Department, Dr. William Covert, the health commissioner, and Miss Pat Gray, field counselor of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

DR. BYERS W. SHAW, program

chairman, introduced Russell, who explained how the new equipment in the hospital functions. He said there are trained technicians on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week. He also explained the blood gas analysis unit, which was purchased for the hospital by the local association. He said more than 6,000 tests have been made with the unit.

Mrs. Goodson presented certificates of appreciation on behalf of the association board to Mrs. Dennis Hagler, president of Beta Omega Chapter and Mrs. Glenn Smith, president of Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority; to Joseph Peters, representative director; Robert Lutz, of WCHO, the Fayette County Health Department; Mrs. Gretchen Witherspoon; Mrs. Doris Douglass; Howard Harper, of The Record-Herald; Miss Marian Osborn, of Channel 3 TV; Mrs. Orley Varney Jr., Mrs. Joann Baughn and Mrs. Mander Boggs for their help in the association office; to Miss Frances White, Miss Helen Slavens, Miss Mary Frances Snider and Larry Lehman for their work on the steering committee for reorganization and to Girl Scout Troop 747 for their volunteer work.

Jury frees 2 defendants in weapons trial

A Common Pleas Court jury deliberated about 25 minutes Monday before returning not guilty verdicts in the trial of Judy L. Stewart, 29, of 720 Dayton Ave., and Robert L. Thompson, 34, of 1121 Lakeview Ave.

Judy L. Stewart was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and Thompson was charged with aiding and abetting the carrying of a concealed weapon.

The couple was indicted by the grand jury in January on charges which stemmed from an alleged incident in the Buckeye Bar, 216 E. Court St.

The trial was opened Friday, recessed for the weekend, and completed Monday.

The defendants were represented by attorney William Abraham, of Columbus. The state's case was presented by Prosecutor Otis R. Hess Jr. and Assistant Prosecutor Robert Simpson.

Two children implicated in home burglary

Charges are pending against two Washington C.H. sisters, aged 11 and 12, in connection with the theft of three rings from a Washington C.H. home last week.

Officers said the two had admitted their part in the theft of the rings, valued at $90, from the residence of Mrs. Edward Orihood, 420 N. Fayette St. Charges against the sisters are expected to be filed in Juvenile Court after consultation with the prosecutor, officers said.

Police became aware of the connection of the two with the theft when Mrs. Orihood discovered one of the girls in her basement Monday morning. Officers were called to the scene and took the two into custody. They were questioned at police headquarters and released to the Child Welfare who later returned them to their parents.

The three rings were recovered by officers.

Two necklaces apparently stolen from Buckeye Mart also were recovered by police at Rose Avenue School while investigating the ring theft.

Principal Lewis Parrett said he had taken the necklaces away from a boy who had been attempting to give them away. Police questioned the youngster who admitted taking the jewelry and also implicated another boy.

The necklaces were returned to the store where they were taken and the two juveniles, both 8 years old, were not charged.

JOHN BANE, manager of the Oakland Avenue swimming pool, reported the theft of tools and other items, valued at $890, from the pool storage building.

Bane said the theft occurred sometime between Oct. 1, 1972, and March 1. Taken in the theft was a gasoline - powered water pump, four cases of soft drink syrup, an electric drill and accessories, and two electric sump pumps.

Police said they could find no signs of forcible entry at the building.

Mary Groves, of 346 W. Court St., reported the theft of her daughter's bicycle from the Washington Junior High School building Monday. She said the theft took place sometime during the day.

A motorcycle license plate reported stolen Saturday was recovered in a ditch along Rowe-Ging Road Monday by Union Township employees. Sheriff's deputies said Kenneth Leath, Rt. 1, had reported the plate stolen from a motorcycle parked at Miami Trace High School. The plate was returned to its owner.

UNRULY CHILDREN

Two Washington C.H. girls, ages 14 and 15, were found to be unruly children when they appeared in Juvenile Court before Judge Rollo M. Marchant. Both girls were charged with being habitually truant from school.

The 14-year-old was placed in the custody of her aunt and the case was sent to Clinton County Juvenile Court. The 15-year-old was placed on probation to Marshall Boggs, a court officer.

DIVORCES ASKED

Three new suits for divorce have been filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

William E. Souther Jr., 787 Duke Plaza, asks a divorce from Frances Louise Souther, 1213 Grace St., on grounds of neglect. The parties were married Dec. 27, 1951, and have one child, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of the child.

Violet J. Williams, 410 Gregg St., has filed suit for a divorce against Charles I. Williams, 410 Gregg St., on grounds of cruelty. The parties were married March 9, 1952, at Reese Station, and have one child, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks custody of, and support for, the child, alimony and a settlement of property rights.

Martha Jane Ruth, Good Hope, has filed suit for a divorce against Charles Eugene Ruth, Good Hope, on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The couple were married April 17, 1966, in Circleville, and have three children, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks a restraining order, custody of, and support for, the children, and a property settlement.

Annual Cancer Society event

Dessert smorgasbord scheduled Thursday

Nearly 400 men and women of Fayette County will gather in the Mahan Building by 7:30 p.m. Thursday for the ninth annual dessert smorgasbord sponsored by the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society. It is open to everyone and all free.

The wide assortment of desserts will range from common pies and cake to honey-dipped strawberry fritters — and some items not even named yet! The desserts are donated by members of the unit board and other volunteers.

Unit President Robert E. Minshall explains that the dessert smorgasbord started nine years ago when the education committee considered plans for holding a public meeting featuring a speaker or other type program to help reduce the rate of death by cancer. To encourage attendance free food was offered — not just plain food — all desserts!

And that's what a dessert smorgasbord is all about — tables piled high with tempting desserts. "Although there will be special dishes for those counting calories," Minshall said, "we just pretend for one evening that calories really don't exist!"

MRS. MARION L. WADDLE, education committee chairman, said this year's program will differ somewhat from past years when out-of-town speakers covered specific subjects related to cancer. In answer to many requests, the program this year will consist of a question and answer session covering all phases of cancer. The questions will be answered by a panel of local physicians, Dr. Byers W. Shaw, Dr. Ralph Gebhart, Dr. Robert A. Heiny and Dr. Joseph M. Herbert.

Mrs. L. C. (Sonny) Johnson, Mrs. Bart Mahoney, and Mrs. Wesley Cox, co-chairmen of the smorgasbord, suggest an early arrival, for local merchants have been generous with gifts which will be awarded in various ways under the direction of Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. William Heinz.

Travelog presented at Kiwanis meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer N. Reed took the Kiwanians on a visual trip to New Zealand Monday night following the club dinner in the Lafayette Inn. Mrs. Reed prefaced the color slide sequence with a brief history of the country which they visited last year.

Mrs. Reed pointed out that New Zealand has a population of around 2.5 million, a mixture of British, Scotch and native Polynesians, called Maoris.

New Zealand is comprised of two islands and that three-fifths of the population and two-thirds of the industry are on the North Island. The livelihood of the people, Mrs. Reed said, depends primarily on agriculture. Sheep and mutton are the principal exports.

Mrs. Reed said one of the highlights of their trip was a flight in a small plane to one of New Zealand's famed glaciers and landing on it.

Richard Maddux, program chairman, introduced Reed, an Armco industrial engineer, and Mrs. Reed, who retires this year as a teacher in the Belle Aire School. The meeting was conducted by the president, the Rev. Gerald Wheat.

James Steele and Mike Campbell were guests of Gerald Begin. Delegations from two Columbus Kiwanis clubs attended the meeting. The group from Westgate club was headed by President Ron Sparks and included Dave Williams, Mack Mason and Karl Wirtz. The Dublin club group included President Paul Gallo, Clayton Rose, R.G. Masew and Hugh Hayden.

The livestock handled each year by Canada's meat industry would fill 200,000 freight cars.

Judge fines two on check charges

A variety of criminal cases were aired in Municipal Court Monday afternoon before Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

Jaqueline Williams, Bloomingburg, pleaded guilty to two counts of check fraud and was given a $50 fine on each charge. The complaints were filed by Ordeta Bolen, of Bolen's Market on March 22.

Judge Winegardner suspended the fine on one count pending payment of the two checks, one for $51.75 and the other for $14.23.

Paul E. McDaniel, 35, Columbus, was also found guilty of a check fraud complaint and fined $50 and costs. McDaniels was charged in a warrant filed by Martin Lightle, manager of the Emerald Inn, S. Fayette St.

Judge Winegardner also ordered McDaniel to pay Lightle for the $20 insufficient funds check.

McDaniel had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Russell L. McConaughy, 53, of Piqua, arrested by police on an intoxication charge, was fined $35 and costs. He was arrested Friday at the Sohio station at Court and North streets.

Joseph Warner, 18, of Tampa, Fla., was fined $25 and costs for discharging fireworks in the city. He was apprehended by officers at Meyer Court after setting off firecrackers throughout the city Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty.

Sheriff under fire

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A state auditor's office inspector has blamed Cuyahoga County Sheriff Ralph Kreiger for making "very little effort" to locate welfare cheaters indicted by grand juries.

Driver cited after two-car city accident

A driver was cited in one of two traffic accidents investigated overnight by city police.

Officers charged John L. Tatman, 17, of 929 Millwood Ave., with failure to yield right of way in a two-car mishap at the intersection of Delaware and Gregg streets at 7:58 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said Tatman pulled from the stop sign on Gregg into the path of a northbound car driven by Michael M. Williams, 35, of 366 Ely St.

Damage was moderate to both cars.

A two-car collision occurred on Court Street just east of North Street at 2 p.m. Monday. Police reported a car driven by Gary E. Saum, 28, Leesburg, was pulling from the Sohio station lot and collided with a car driven by Steven A. Alspaugh, 18, of 1005 Lakeview Ave., eastbound on Court Street.

Neither driver was cited in the mishap which caused moderate damage.

Highway Patrol officers cited a Wheelersburg man following a two-car front-to-rear crash on at the U.S. 35-Ohio 753 Interchange at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Patrolmen said Buford R. Whitt II, 29, was cited after his car rammed the rear of an auto driven by John F. Wilt, 24, of Dayton. The Wilt car was stopped for a stop sign at the time of the crash, officers said.

Damage to the front of the 1972 model Whitt car was extensive. Neither driver was injured in the crash.

Woman injured in rural crash

A Fayette County woman was treated at Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning after her car was involved in an accident on U.S. 62 at Rowe-Ging Road, Highway Patrol officers reported.

The Sheriff's Department also investigated four accidents Tuesday morning, all minor, as falling snow and falling temperatures created hazardous driving conditions.

Janyth M. East, 38, Rt. 4, was treated at Memorial Hospital for a chest injury and a bruised hip after her car spun out of control into a fence at 8:50 a.m.

Patrolmen said her car was south-bound when she swerved to the right to avoid an approaching truck she thought was in her lane. The car spun out of control into the right ditch damaging 20 feet of fence owned by Henry Tackett, Rt. 2. Her 1968 model car was moderately damaged.

Police cited Wilma M. Rulon, 49, of 1122 Nelson Pl., for failure to yield the right of way in a two-car crash at Temple and Forest streets at 9:53 a.m.

Officers said the Rulon car pulled from the stop sign on Forest and collided with the right side of a west-bound car driven by Russell W. Jordan, 32, Rt. 3, Sabina.

Damage to both cars was extensive.

106 dead in jet crackup

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — A British charter airliner flying 139 tourists to Basel's spring fair crashed in a blizzard outside Basel today and police announced 106 were killed. The plane had a crew of seven.

Some of the 40 survivors escaped without injury, the report of the Solothurn cantonal police said.

The plane apparently overshot the airport.

About 15 persons were reported to have escaped without any injuries.

The Swiss army and police joined in the rescue efforts hampered by deep snow and a cutoff of telephone lines.

Rescuers reached the crash area on foot. Survivors were flown out by helicopters.

Police quoted one survivor as saying that one wing of the plane hit the top of a tree and the aircraft spun sideways in the air. After the crash, a fire broke out in the front section but died down before it could spread, the survivor said. He made no mention of an explosion.

The passengers were from Bristol, England. The aircraft was reported to have had a crew of seven.

The plane, a four-engine turboprop Vickers Vanguard of the charter company Invicta, approached Basel airport from the north for an instrumented landing in heavy snowfall.

Then, the airport said, the pilot changed his mind, pulled up and roared away to the south disappearing quickly in the blinding snow drive. Ten minutes later radio contact broke off.

Coffee Break . .

AS PART of its observance of National Library Week, April 8-14, Carnegie Public Library is having a "no-fine week". During this entire week all overdue books may be returned to the library with no fines charged and no questions asked.

"We are much more interested in getting these books back on our shelves so that others may use them than in collecting any fines that may have accumulated on them," says Mrs. Kristine Amsbary, librarian. "This is a once-a-year event and we hope that many will take advantage of this opportunity to get their 'over-dues' returned for free."

Veto override attempt set

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the odds favoring the President, Congress hopes to even the score this week in this year's battle of vetoes.

Carrying the ball for the first time, the House scheduled a vote today on President Nixon's veto of a rural water-and sewer-grant bill. The bill would direct the Nixon administration to spend about $120 million already appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30.

It was passed after the administration terminated the program by executive decree last January.

Peace force grounds copters

SAIGON (AP) — The International Commission of Control and Supervision temporarily has grounded all helicopter flights for its representatives, curtailing observation of ceasefire violations in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the commission said all four members—Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland—agreed to the ban. It was ordered because of the deaths Saturday of four members of the commission in a chartered helicopter downed in Communist territory in northwestern Quang Tri Province.

The Viet Cong claimed the helicopter crashed accidentally, but the Canadian delegation said it was hit by a missile. The two American pilots, a Filipino crewman and two Viet Cong liaison officers also died in the crash. Ground fire forced an accompanying helicopter to land, but there were no casualties aboard it.

Resumption of meat buying said mixed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Butchers generally agree that it is too soon to know whether housewives are returning to normal meat-buying after last week's consumer boycott.

"It's better than last week but still off 20 per cent," said a spokesman for Fed Mart Stores, Inc., in San Diego.

An Associated Press spot check Monday showed mixed results at meat counters, but even stores reporting brisk meat sales said any lasting effects of the week-long boycott would not be known until later.

The Acme Food Market Chain, with 529 stores in seven states along the Eastern Seaboard, said meat sales were up "sharply," and Grand Union said a check of stores in the Washington, D.C., area indicated "a Monday like we can't remember. Things are jumping."

However, Acme Markets, Inc., in Philadelphia reported sales slightly

Record snowstorm grips Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter-cold weather drove deep into the midcontinent today in the wake of a record April snowstorm that left large sections of Iowa and Wisconsin paralyzed.

Temperatures dropped near zero in western Nebraska overnight. Readings below freezing extended south into Texas, and the 20s were common throughout the nation's midsection.

The storm that preceded the cold

dumped heavy snows in portions of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and Wisconsin. But the hardest-hit areas were Iowa and Wisconsin, where long stretches of interstate highways remained closed today.

Twenty-five storm-related deaths were reported in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Most were caused by heart attacks possibly brought on by overexertion in snow shoveling or pushing stalled cars.

There were 14 deaths in Wisconsin and nine in Iowa. Two traffic fatalities in Minnesota were blamed on snow-laden winds gusting to 60 miles-an-hour.

Up to 18 inches of snow fell on Dubuque, Iowa, through Monday, and 6 to 15 inches buried parts of Wisconsin.

The National Weather Service said it was the worst April storm in Iowa since record keeping began in 1881. Six deaths attributed to heart attacks were reported in Des Moines as residents tried to dig out or sought refuge.

The spring storm through the nation's midsection has brought new danger to weakened levees along the rain-swollen Mississippi River system and flooding along the Lake Erie shore near Toledo, Ohio.

Damage along the Mississippi was estimated at $160 million.

Although the Mississippi and the Missouri rivers continued to fall near their confluence in Missouri, the storm whipped up five-foot waves on the Mississippi and the Corps of Army Engineers pinpointed two potential trouble spots.

At Kaskaskia Island, 60 miles south of St. Louis, the Corps ordered all but 16 of the island's 300 residents to evacuate Monday as winds gusting to 60 miles per hour sent huge waves crashing into water-logged levees.

"The way it looks now, I think the levee's going to break," said Paul Johnson, district engineer for the Corps.

"I could be wrong. I hope I'm wrong."

He said the levee on the northwest side of the island was eroded so badly that patrols were not being permitted on it.

Another potential trouble spot was at Cheuteau Island, near Granite City, Ill. Although the 70 families there have not been ordered to evacuate, a

Israelis raid Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli commandos invaded the heart of the Lebanese capital early today, killing three Palestinian guerrilla leaders in their apartments and attacking refugee camps.

It was thought at first that the raid was in retaliation for Arab attacks Monday in Cyprus on the residence of the Israeli ambassador and an Israeli airliner. But an authoritative Lebanese source said there were indications that preparations had been made by an advance party that came to Beirut several days ago.

Al Fatah, the biggest Palestinian guerrilla organization, said the victims included its No. 2 man, Mohammed Youssef Najjar, known as Abu Yusef. He was one of the founders of Al Fatah.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said 11 persons were killed and more than a dozen wounded in the strike that began shortly after midnight. The statement indicated the casualty total might rise.

Another group of Israeli commandos blew up a garage in Sidon, on the coast 24 miles south of Beirut, but there were no casualties there. The Israelis said the garage was used by guerrillas.

President Suleiman Franjeh held an emergency session of the Lebanese Cabinet, and a protest to the U.N. Security Council was believed imminent.

The Israelis, some dressed in civilian clothes and some in fatigue uniforms, apparently landed by helicopter at Ouzai, a village three miles south of Beirut, and split into two groups.

Boarding unlicensed cars, one party headed for the center of the city and the apartments of the three Palestinian leaders. The other went to the Shatila-Sabra refugee camp near the airport.

The Palestinian leaders lived in apartment buildings off Rue Verdun, in the center of the city. The raiders burst into these buildings, threw explosive charges and then stormed the men's apartments with machine guns blazing.

Guerrillas at the Sabra camp, which houses 5,000 Palestinians, said at least 30 persons were killed and residents were searching the debris of blown up buildings for more bodies.

Lawyer says McCord knows no high-level conspirators

WASHINGTON (AP) — James W. McCord's lawyer says the convicted Watergate conspirator has no direct knowledge that any high-level official in President Nixon's re-election effort knew of plans to bug Democratic headquarters.

Talking to newsmen Monday, attorney Bernard W. Fensterwald indicated that most of McCord's second-hand information about planning the Watergate bugging operation came from G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to the Committee for Re-election of the President.

Liddy was convicted with McCord, former security chief for the campaign, as a result of the wiretapping. But, unlike McCord, Liddy has refused to talk about Watergate with a federal grand jury.

Several stories based on news leaks have said McCord told a Senate committee investigating Watergate that various highlevel officials in the Nixon campaign and in the White House were at least aware of plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building last June.

Nixon asks for power over tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon formally asked Congress today to give him broad new powers to raise, reduce or remove tariff barriers as a lever in upcoming world trade negotiations.

Nixon also asked for expanded authority to retaliate against unfair trade practices, including authority for the government to ban completely some imports.

In a major message to Congress, Nixon sought authority to extend most-favored-nation (MFN) treatment without advance congressional approval. He made it clear he wanted to grant MFN status to the Soviet Union.

Contending that the need for trade reform is urgent, Nixon urged prompt congressional action "so that we can move our country and our world away from trade confrontation and toward trade negotiation."

Trade laws have not been overhauled for more than a decade, he said in petitioning Congress to "delegate significant new negotiating authorities to the executive branch."

Ohio Senate eyes ERA, teen rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate turns its attention to the rights of teen-agers today while awaiting another big crowd to testify on the women's equal rights amendment.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, is a central figure in both issues. He is sponsor of the measure to extend the legal age of majority to teen-agers and is chairman of the committee which hears testimony tonight on the House-approved U.S. constitutional amendment on equal rights.

No major floor action was expected in the House, but Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville, of the House Finance Committee called a meeting of his panel to begin a hopeful stretch drive on the Gilligan administration's two-year budget bill.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said he hopes to have the House finish its work on the spending document before the legislature takes a planned 10-day Easter recess starting April 19.

The Finance Committee's work was complicated late last week by Gov. John Gilligan's announcement that he would seek to increase the original $9.7 billion budget by $118 million. The additional amount resulted from a revision by Gilligan in expected tax revenues for the 1973-1975 biennium.

Aronoff's bill to extend full adult rights to persons 18 and over died in the House last year after being approved by the Senate. Its death was attributed to a provision that would have allowed them to purchase liquor and high powered beer.

He left the provision out of the measure this year, but an attempt was expected to amend it on the Senate floor to put it back in. Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, and others contend the bill, "if passed, should go all the way."

The bill's major provisions would allow Ohioans 18 and over to marry without consent, sue and be sued, enter into contracts, incur debt, and engage in other activities now restricted to those 21 and over.

A dozen new bills were introduced Monday at a skeleton session of the House.

Among them was a previously announced bill by Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-81 Laura, which would require the state to refund "overpayment" of state personal income taxes in calendar year 1972.

Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, proposed in another new House measure to require the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to notify Ohio motorists whose driver's licenses are about to expire.

Netzley also introduced bills that would guarantee the public's right to testify at hearings on extended area telephone service and prohibit telephone companies from charging for calls between exchanges in the same county or school district.

Kleindienst defends use of privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said today that a president's use of executive privilege "is a constitutionally founded, historically accepted and vital principle of American government."

"Insofar as the current executive-legislative relationship takes on a sharper edge because of Watergate, it must be borne in mind that determination of alleged violation of the criminal laws passed by Congress is uniquely the province of the judiciary," he continued.

Kleindienst voiced the Nixon administration's objections to proposed legislation as a new round of Senate subcommittee hearings began on presidential use of executive privilege to deny to Congress requested witnesses and documents.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the special Senate committee investigating last year's bugging at Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building here, said in opening remarks that it is "of the utmost necessity for the executive branch to cooperate with Congress in all honesty and candor" in an investigation of the Watergate affair.

Both Ervin's and Kleindienst's comments were released in advance of delivery.

President Nixon has refused to allow present or former White House aides to appear before Ervin's committee.

Ervin said Nixon's "refusal to cooperate presents his office in such a way as to reasonably engender in the minds of the American people that he is afraid of the truth."

The gasoline shortage in Phnom Penh was eased with the arrival of the second river convoy from Saigon this week, and the government also reported that the highway to the south coast port of Kompong Som had been reopened again.

The U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh announced that Washington has authorized an airlift of petroleum products to overcome the shortage. An official said the airlift would be carried out by U.S. Air Force C130 tankers, but he refused for security reasons to say when deliveries would begin or how frequent they would be.

Because of the shortage, the government has rationed gasoline buyers to three gallons per purchase and has restricted sales of kerosene.

as to cause of high prices and added: "The threat of future boycotts could discourage producers from increasing production."

"Go meatless until prices go down" remained the cry of some Ohio housewives in a continued war against high meat prices Tuesday.

Meanwhile, food chain stores reported normal, and some increased meat sales in the first regular sales day Monday after last week's nation meat boycott.

Rosemary Cantor, head of Fight Inflation Together in Youngstown, said the Mahoning and Trumbull county groups will "go meatless for days a week until prices go down."

Mrs. Cantor said the boycott had been modified to only four days because "you can't expect people with health problems to continue a thing like this." She said, "It really works a hardship on some people."

Deaths, Funerals

Ralph K. Parrett

Ralph Kerr Parrett, 77, of 14 Meyer Court, died at 9 p.m. Monday in Fayette Memorial Hospital. He had been seriously ill for the past two weeks.

Born in Ross County, he was employed as a mechanic with the Farmers Wholesale Supply Co. in Greenfield before his retirement.

He is survived by two sons, Ernest, Long Beach, Calif., and Roger, New York, a granddaughter, and a sister, Mrs. Dale Murray, of Greenfield. One sister preceded him in death.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, with the Rev. Clair Emerick, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Good Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Roy McCormick

SPRINGFIELD — Services for Mrs. Doris Mae Dudley McCormick, 41, wife of Roy (Popeye) McCormick, 521 Gruen Dr., will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Jack Conroy Funeral Home.

Mrs. McCormick died at 8:30 a.m. Monday in her residence following an illness of six months.

Surviving besides her husband are three daughters and one son; four grandsons; two brothers and two sisters, all of Springfield. Her parents are deceased. Several other relatives reside in Fayette County.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Highlawn Memory Gardens, near Springfield.

Wallace Alfred Putnam

FRANKFORT — Wallace Alfred Putnam, 58, died at 12:10 p.m. Monday in his home here after a short illness.

Born in Ross County, the son of Lee S. and Dona Briggs Putnam, he was a prominent farmer.

He is survived by his wife, Julia Willson Putnam; three sons, Kenneth, Kevin and Keith, all of Frankfort; his mother; eight grandchildren and four sisters, Mrs. Clark (Hazel) Cory, of Chillicothe, Mrs. Lewis (Madeline) Spees, of Columbus, Mrs. James (Bernice) Burton, of Laramie, Wyo., and Mrs. Paul Mary Evelyn Orr, of Frankfort.

He was a member of the Frankfort United Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge and Ross County Farm Bureau.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the United Methodist Church with the Rev. David White and the Rev. Orville Farmer officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn Cemetery under the direction of the Fisher Funeral Home. Friends may call at the funeral home from 5 to 9 p.m. Wednesday. The family asked that contributions be made to the Ross County Heart Association in his memory.

Mrs. John Hooks

WILLIAMSPORT — Mrs. Thelma Hooks, 64, wife of John Hooks, Williamsport - Crownover Mill Rd., died at 4:30 p.m. Monday in Grant Hospital, Columbus, where she had been a patient two weeks.

A native of Ross County, Mrs. Hooks had spent most of her life in this community.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Dwight, of Springfield; six daughters, Mrs. Clyde Sims, of Chillicothe, Mrs. Eugene Schleich, of Williamsport, Mrs. Jerry Rudolph, of Circleville, Mrs. William Rhoades, of Williamsport, and Mrs. Edward James, of Reynoldsburg; 21 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; a brother, Donald Layton, of Circleville, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Drummond, of Chillicothe.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Williamsport United Methodist Church with the Rev. Richard Crosby officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn Cemetery. Friends may call at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland from 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday, from 2 until 9 p.m. Wednesday and until noon Thursday.

JACK POLLOCK — Services for Jack Pollock, 42, of New Holland, were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Charles Simmons, pastor of the Sedalia Church of Christ, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Price sang two hymns, accompanied by Mrs. Elsie Kelso.

Mr. Pollock, a native of Madison County and a retired farmer, died Thursday in Veterans Administration Hospital, Chillicothe. Pallbearers for the burial in New Holland Cemetery were James Ladley, Sam Williams, James Brown and Eldon, Donald, Robert and Ronald Stires. The flag which draped the casket of the Korean War veteran was folded by Richard Kirkpatrick and Donald Stires and was presented to Mrs. Pollock.

Building the library envisioned by Kennedy shortly before he died has meant bringing together several Massachusetts institutions, among them the Kennedy family, Harvard University, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, Boston's ethnic neighborhoods and the state legislature. It hasn't been easy.

Israeli leader

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dr. Ephraim Katchalski, one of the world's leading biophysicists, was elected Israel's fourth president today in the Jewish state's first contested election for the office.

The president-elect immediately changed his name from the East European Katchalski to Katzir, Hebrew for harvest. He will be sworn in May 23 for a five-year term, succeeding Zalman Shazar. President Shazar is retiring at the age of 73 after serving two terms.

Katzir was the candidate of Premier Golda Meier's dominant Labor party.

Weather hampers nation's farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers, encouraged by the Nixon administration to boost production this year, are being severely tested by a siege of poor weather throughout much of the nation.

As of April 1, says the Agriculture Department, farm operations in the South, Corn Belt, Great Plains and in many other regions were far behind normal.

The situation has worsened since then in many areas where heavy flooding and heavy snow have halted field work.

Commenting on the situation as it appeared 10 days ago, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday, "Very little land preparation and almost no planting" of major crops was done by April 1 in stricken areas.

"South Texas farmers were about two weeks behind schedule in planting cotton, corn and sorghum," officials said. "Only limited corn acreage was planted in South Carolina. Tobacco plant bed seeding started early in Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina and tobacco transplanting was active in Georgia but was just getting underway in South Carolina."

Other comments included:

"Excessive soil moisture brought field work to a virtual standstill in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.... many farmers were concerned that flooded lowland acreage would not dry out in time to plant cotton."

spokesman for the Corps described the situation as critical.

The Mississippi fell nearly a foot at St. Louis Monday, to 38 feet, after cresting at 39.8 feet on Friday. The Missouri was down to 33 feet at St. Charles, Mo., but still eight feet above flood stage.

Downriver, in Louisiana, the Mississippi continued a slow drop as Army Engineers siphoned off some of the river by opening the Bonnet Carré spillway 30 miles upstream from New Orleans. But higher water was on the way.

With the river 1.2 feet above flood stage at 18.2 feet Monday, the Weather Bureau estimated that the heavy water now moving down the Mississippi from its upper reaches would push the level at New Orleans to 18.6 feet by April 16.

"I can't tell you now whether we're peaking out or whether we're going to get a worse situation before we're through," said Maj. Gen. Charles C. Noble, Mississippi River Commission president.

The opening of the Bonnet Carré spillway diverted a portion of the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico through a 5.7-mile trough of low land and Lake Pontchartrain.

In Ohio, high winds sent the rain-swollen waters of Lake Erie washing over dikes along an 18-mile stretch of shoreline in the Toledo area.

Many of the Toledo residents began returning to floodbattered areas along the Lake Erie shore early today as police and National Guardsmen stood by to guard against looting.

Flood levels fell rapidly overnight as winds shifted direction and waves stopped pounding the western Lake Erie shore.

It was the second time in less than six months that residents in a five-square-mile area of Toledo had to be evacuated to escape the rising lake waters.

Early estimates placed damage at well over a million dollars.

City spokesman Ted Reams said about 2,000 persons were taken from their homes along the shore by police and firemen, Civil Defense and Red Cross volunteers.

Hundreds of residents were also evacuated from rural shore areas stretching about nine miles either side of Toledo.

Record high water levels were reported as far as 30 miles east of Toledo at Port Clinton. But local police reported the flooding situation there began to ease by 7 p.m. The few families that had been evacuated earlier, returned to their homes Monday night.

High water had closed three state highways between Toledo and Port Clinton. Ohio 2 was still under "about a foot" of water early this morning, an Ohio highway patrolman reported. Other roads were clear.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service forecast snow flurries for the area today. Heavy snow was expected to remain north of the state in lower Michigan and Ontario.

Politics embroil JFK Library

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — More than nine years after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated, the library that will commemorate him is still years from reality, slowed by the kind of politics that Kennedy learned in his home state.

Building the library envisioned by Kennedy shortly before he died has meant bringing together several Massachusetts institutions, among them the Kennedy family, Harvard University, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, Boston's ethnic neighborhoods and the state legislature. It hasn't been easy.

The $20 million building is still at least three years away from opening. Its plans haven't been unveiled yet, and its site still holds a subway car repair yard.

The key to construction of the library has been the yard, a dusty sprawl of trains, tracks and barns across the street from the Harvard dorm where Kennedy lived as a student. Before

"In the north central states, field work was restricted by rains and muddy fields. Only in North Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin were farmers able to get an early start on tilling and small grain seeding.

"Spring plowing and small grain seeding were behind normal in all other Corn Belt states. Only limited field work on higher elevation soil was evident in the eastern Corn Belt.

Rural caucus of Democrats organized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of freshman Democrats hopes to give the House farm bloc a new twist and a stronger voice and to prove there's more to rural life than agriculture.

Ten of them have organized the Democratic Rural Caucus and one of the leaders, Rep. Charlie Rose of North Carolina, predicts steady growth in numbers and in influence.

The caucus expects to demonstrate its solidarity in a House vote today on the question of overriding President Nixon's veto of a rural water and sewer program.

The caucus, Rose said in an interview, is an exercise in the theory that strength lies in unity and numbers.

"We're putting a choir together. We think we sing some of the same tunes, and we just want to practice our singing," he said.

The idea developed when Rose and another freshman Democrat, Clem McSpadden of Oklahoma, talked over the problems of their rural constituents, discovered similarities, and wondered why there was no formal House structure to bring together congressmen with like constituencies.

With Rose and McSpadden as the core, the caucus was formed last month. About 100 other House Democrats from largely rural districts have been invited to join.

Rose said the group will be financed with voluntary contributions from members.

It will draw no funds from the farm-organization lobbies, he said, because "we would all want to stay as far away from any special-interest involvement as we could."

Rhodes bid

said illegal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes makes a bid for a third term next year, it will violate the "probable intention" of Ohio voters who approved a limitation on gubernatorial terms in 1954, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said Monday.

In a brief filed with the Ohio Supreme Court, Brown compared the mood in Ohio with regard to gubernatorial terms with the mood in the nation to limit presidential terms following President Roosevelt's administration.

He noted the gubernatorial term limitation was approved in the middle of former Gov. Frank Lausche's fourth term.

"It would have been natural for the people of Ohio to relate the amendment upon which they were voting with the federal amendment and presume they were imposing a similar, though less harsh, restriction," the brief argued.

Ohio's constitution currently limits governors to two terms, but it doesn't specify whether the terms must be served consecutively or concurrently.

Attorneys for both sides have conceded the language of the law is vague to the extreme.

Oral arguments on the case are to be heard by the justices April 18.

Black becomes council chief

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first black City Council president in Cleveland's history has pledged after his swearing in to avoid "confrontation politics."

George L. Forbes, installed Monday night to succeed Edmund J. Turk, told the Council "there is no room for a bitter feud between the mayor and the council president, one black and the other white."

Mayor Ralph J. Perk is a Republican. Forbes and 30 other members of the 33-man Council are Democrats.

ground can be broken for the library, the MBTA has to relocate the yard. A new site finally has been chosen for the yard, but it took a lot of politics.

Each time the subway authority suggested a new site for the car barns, neighborhood residents raised a fuss, and their legislators found new ways to block it.

While site after site was rejected, each with a flurry of debate in the Statehouse, deadlines passed for starting construction. The architect, I.M. Pei, said he couldn't finish his plans until he did soil tests, and the MBTA said he couldn't dig up the ground until they moved.

And all the while inflation increased the price and shrank the size of the proposed library.

When the first plans were made in 1964, library backers thought they could build the complex for $10 million, all from private contributions.

Inflation boosted the figure to $20 million, said Steve Smith, the former

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Winter weather was making a return visit to Ohio Tuesday, scattering light snow over some areas and bringing a freeze warning for tonight.

Temperatures were taking a sharp drop, with readings this afternoon predicted for mostly in the 30s and a drop into the 20s tonight.

However, compared to portions of Iowa and Wisconsin where a foot of snow was measured Monday night, things were relatively mild in Ohio, with exception of Lake Erie flooding.

The National Weather Service reported the light snow today is expected to diminish to scattered flurries this afternoon and tonight, but west to northwest winds will bring colder air to the area, and a freeze warning has been issued for falling temperatures tonight.

A low pressure over the lower Great Lakes area today will be moving east and northeastward, and keep cold conditions through Thursday. Later in the week, temperatures will be moderating, and near normal readings are scheduled for Saturday.

Fair and cold Thursday. A chance of showers and slowly moderating temperatures Friday and Saturday. Highs Thursday in the upper 30s and low 40s, warming to the 50s and low 60s on Saturday. Overnight lows in the 20s early Thursday

on trial in court

A civil suit filed in December by Jess Gilmore, Gilmore Homes, Inc., against the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, is being heard today in Common Pleas Court.

The suit seeks a court order to direct the platting of two subdivisions which have twice been rejected by the commissioners. The proposed subdivisions are located on a 64.63-acre tract at the intersection of Ohio 41-N and Inskeep Road. According to the petition, Jeffrey Estates No. 1 contains 5.201 acres, and Jeffrey Estates No. 2 contains 6.118 acres.

Gilmore contends that no approval is necessary from the Board of Commissioners since the county engineer, the Fayette County Board of Health and the Fayette County Regional Planning Commission already have approved the subdivisions.

The petition seeks an order from the court directing the auditor to transfer the real estate on the tax duplicate into separate tax parcels and for the recorder to record the plats.

Stock list posts gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market marched ahead today on a broad front as investors greeted good first-quarter reports with optimism.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 11.13 points at 958.68. Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange clobbered declining issues by a 3-to-1 margin.

Investors took heart Monday afternoon when the good report from Du Pont came in. It was followed by good first-quarter reports today from Allied Chemical and Control Data. Du Pont, which picked up more than 4 points Monday, was up 1 3/4 at 173 3/4 and Control Data gained 1 3/4 to 47 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the noon price-change index was up .05 at 24.16.

The noon index of some 1,400 stocks on the NYSE was up 0.55 at 59.57.

On the Amex, Kenny Corp. was the most-active, off 3/8 at 7 1/4.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill requiring real estate salesmen to complete 30 hours of classroom instruction before taking a test for a license was introduced into the Ohio House today.

TWO GREAT VACATIONS

Goodyear loses St. Marys case on women's pay

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has been ordered to pay back wages to women quantity checkers at its St. Marys plant after a federal court here ruled the firm had been discriminating against female employees.

The suit, filed by the U.S. Labor

Department, contended the company continued to pay male quantity checkers higher wages after mechanization had changed their job duties to those performed by women checkers.

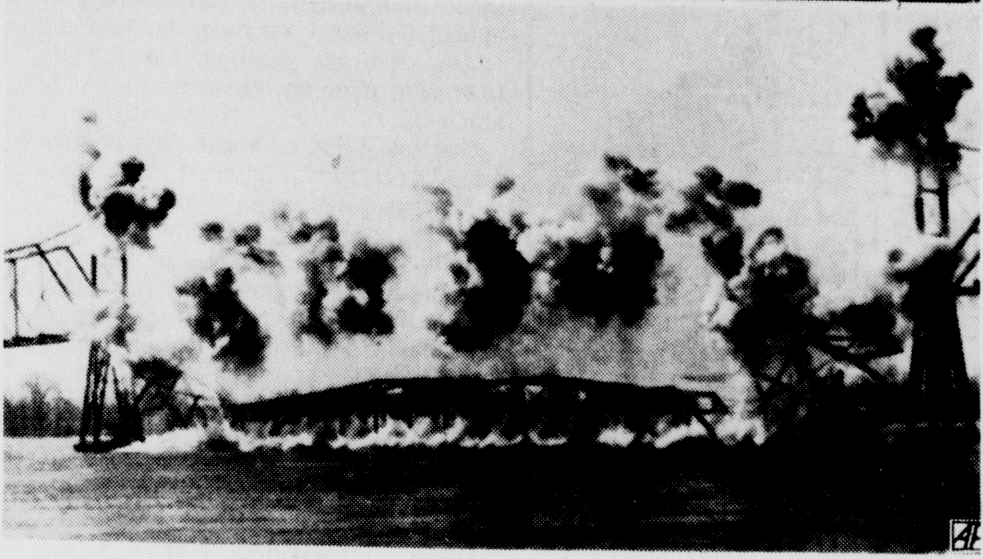

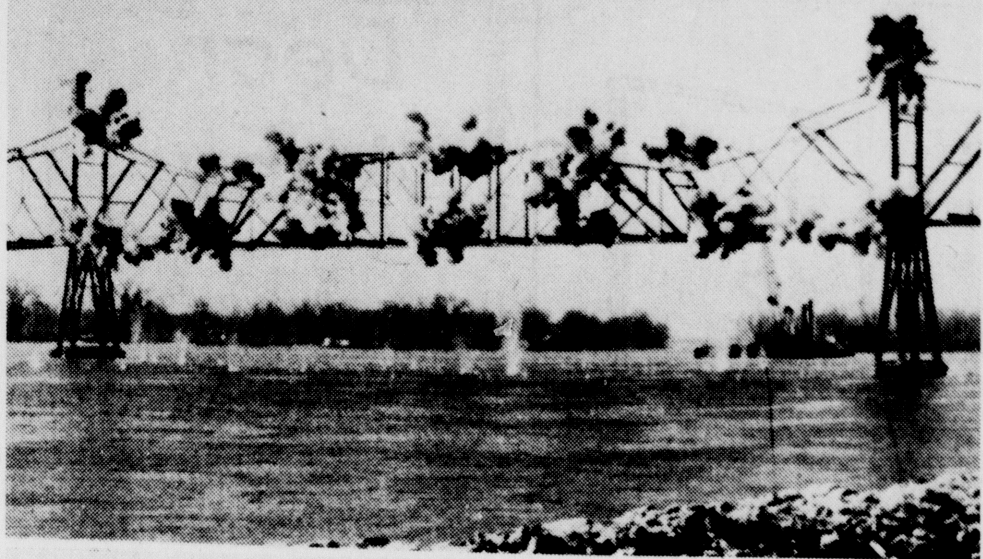

Goodyear claimed the men's salaries fell within the "red circle" rule allowing higher pay for particular employees transferred to a lower skill job to keep them available until needed for their regular, higher-paid job.

U.S. District Judge Don J. Young ruled he found no evidence that this was the case.

Nude opera scene set

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Soprano Carol Neblett, who drew widespread attention in a sparsely clad performance with the New York City Opera, says she will appear nude in the New Orleans production of Massenet's "Thais."

BRIDGE SPAN BLASTED — The high bridge at Muscatine, Iowa, which has been in use for 81 years, is blasted to pieces by engineers. The 142-ton center span was allowed to fall into the Mississippi River. The debris was removed by barge cranes.

Food dye problems bring massive federal effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — New concern is being expressed about the safety of synthetic food colors as a federal ban takes effect today against a widely used violet dye recently shown to cause cancer.

"The Violet No. 1 ban should be a reminder that artificial colorings constitute the single most questionable class of food additives," says microbiologist Michael F. Jacobson, co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

"None has been adequately tested," he said. "Many colorings have been found to cause cancer or damage to internal organs of the body."

Man has been dyeing his food for thousands of years and, especially in earlier periods, dying as a consequence.

The first colors were designed to make food more appealing or to promote fraud.

In the early 1800s a woman dropped dead after eating pickles, colored green with copper sulfate, supplied by her hairdresser.

And in 1860 a druggist supplied the color for a caterer's green pudding served at a public dinner. Two guests were killed by the copper arsenite.

"It is understandable that attitudes today toward legitimate use of color in foods sometimes reflect the fact that for over 2,000 years a common purpose of adding color was to defraud the consumer or to disguise adulteration," the National Academy of Sciences said in a 1971 report.

The Industrial Revolution in the mid-19th Century spurred development of more-stable coal-tar dyes. The danger of impurities was not understood and they often were used indiscriminately.

"Unfortunately, when they had a bad batch of textile color they'd sell it to the guy who wanted to dye food," said Keith H. Heine, colors expert in the Food and Drug Administration.

Today, as pharmacologists and toxicologists refine their techniques, purified derivatives of coal tar are being studied anew to determine if they cause cancer, birth defects or genetic mutations.

A German scientist began the first federally funded safety testing of coal-tar dyes in 1900. Seven were selected for listing in the 1906 Pure Food and Drugs Act.

Federal certification for purity was voluntary until 1938, when it became mandatory for the 15 colors then on the list.

About 50 colors now are certifiable in the United States, to make strawberries red even after cooking, mint-flavored gelatin green, and orange drinks orange.

Even pet food may be colored.

Batch-by-batch certification is not required for another class of colors, including cochineal which is extracted from the bodies of insects.

The 1938 law was black and white on the question of safety, forcing the FDA to delist several dyes and threatening nearly all because at very high dosages they might cause harm to test animals.

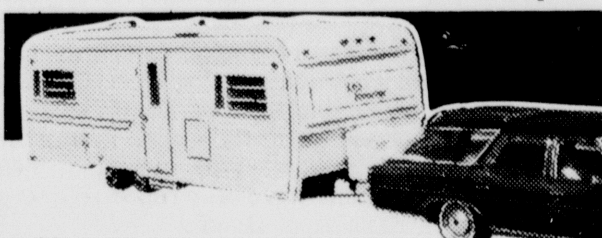

The 1960 Color Additives Amendment allowed the agency to set safe limits for use, but imposed an automatic ban on any dye inducing cancer in man or animal.

At least a dozen dyes have been banned or partially banned since 1919 because of the controversial supposition that, if they pose a threat to animals, they're dangerous to man as well. The NAS has estimated per capita consumption of dyes at .012 pounds annually.

Opinion And Comment

New tax reform impetus

It has long been conclusively established that man is born to trouble. Many would agree that the potential for trouble took a quantum jump in 1913 when the states ratified the 16th Amendment giving Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived . . ."

The implementation of that simple dictum is much on a lot of minds at this time of year, when the deadline for filing looms large and inescapable. It is a time when taxpayers react with particular heat to reminders that taxes do not fall equally upon all citizens.

The inequalities are astounding, as Philip M. Stern freshly notes in "The Rape of the Taxpayer." It is a book filled with stories likely to enrage the ordinary fellow who sweats out his stipend for Uncle Sam. About the oilman, for example, who paid no income tax for 12 years during which he sold some 50 million dollars worth of oil; about billionaire J. Paul Getty, whose income tax is said to total only a few thousand a year; about the late Louis B. Mayer, who benefited to the tune of a couple of million by a special 1969 tax law provision allowing him to pay only 25 instead of 91 per cent on a huge lump sum retirement payment.

Stern's unassailable thesis is that "when someone else pays less, the rest of us pay more." He also elaborates on the theme that even exemptions and deductions legal for all taxpayers benefit the poor less than the rich. It is a book that should stir up a vigorous new demand for genuine tax reform.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

The latest economic devil theory

Among all the woes that afflict this country, economic illiteracy is surely not the least. We must have our devils.

It is absolutely dumbfounding, for instance, to listen to the current attacks on the multinational corporation. The AFL-CIO's George Meany is apparently convinced beyond the possibility of enlightenment that the big U.S. company with overseas branches or affiliates is guilty of exporting jobs and cutting domestic manufacturers out of world markets.

And, without the slightest backing in statistical evidence, the Meany point of view has infected some legislators who should know better, such as Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana.

LET'S BEGIN with an early multinational group, the U.S. automotive industry. GM, Ford and Chrysler have all sought footholds in Western Europe. They did so because Europeans would not buy the huge gasoline-eating cars favored by Americans at home. What the enemy of the multinational corporation should be asking himself is a simple question: isn't it better for GM to manufacture and sell Opels in Germany than yield the entire local market to Mercedes-Benz and Volkswagen? If Chrysler were not in France, wouldn't it simply mean a better local market for Peugeots, with Detroit getting nothing out of Chrysler's abstention? So whose jobs are being "exported"?

Although I would not support it, a case might be made for a U.S. tariff on imported automobiles, but this is not a case against GM or Chrysler for trying to make something out of the European market that it would otherwise have to surrender.

The simple common sense of the matter is that American companies build plants abroad only when it becomes obvious to them that they can no longer export their U.S.-made products competitively. The State of Michigan, which presumably worries more than most states about the appearance of Toyota and Volkswagen cars on American roads, actually has an intricate stake in the prosperity of the multinational corporation. Its Dow Chemical Co. has been accused of exporting "20,000 American jobs." But Dow retorts that it has made a tie-up with the Lepetit organization in Italy, which employs 8,400 workers, to gain a European market which it could not otherwise hold.

Shipping costs and foreign border-crossing duties force Dow to build abroad in places that could not possibly pay to import latex and plastic foam products in bulk. Incidentally, Dow imports almost nothing into the U.S. that is made in its foreign plants. It does, on the other hand, export 16 per cent of its total U.S.-made product, which gives employment to one-sixth of its U.S. payroll.

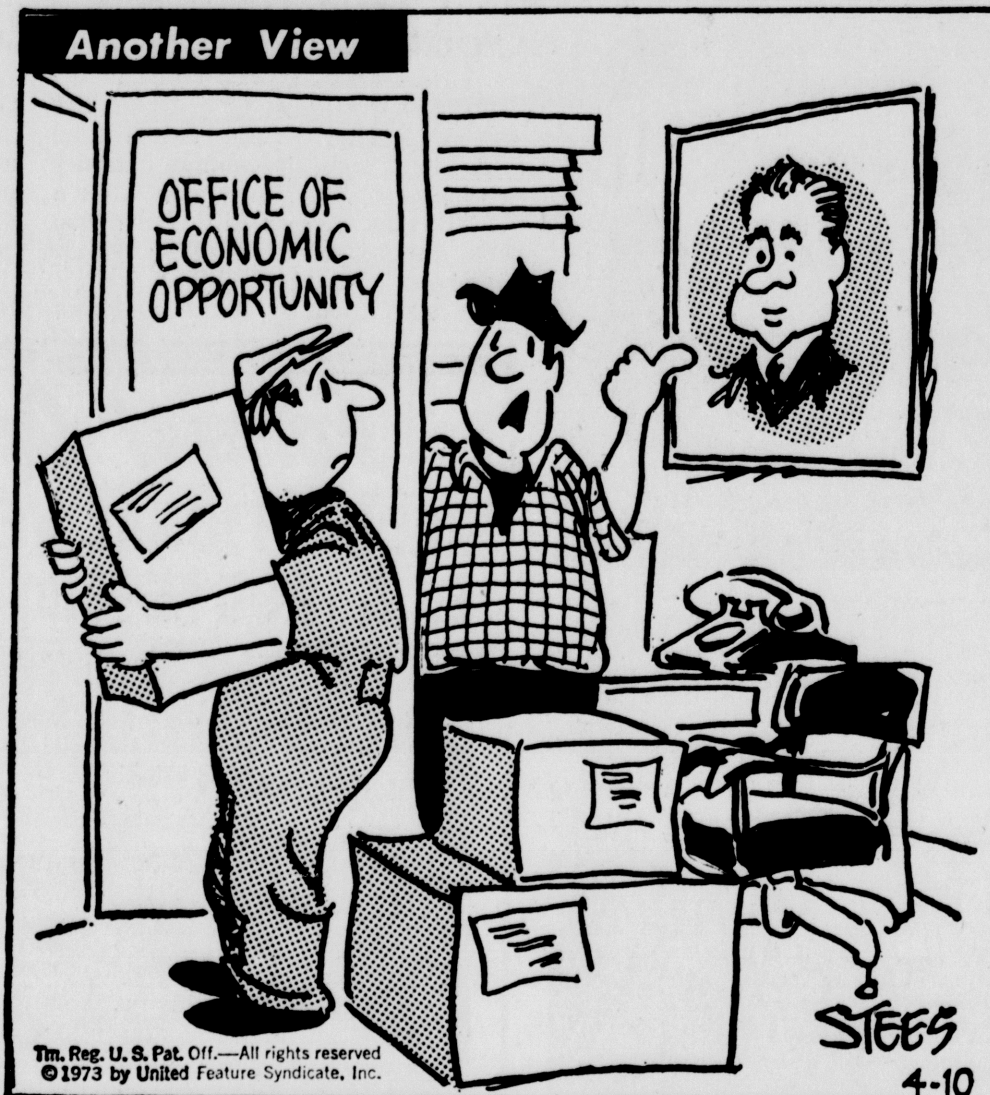

ANOTHER MICHIGAN corporation, the Clark Equipment Co., has just made a statement to a congressional subcommittee that should be pondered

by George Meany and Sen. Hartke. Clark, which makes forklift trucks, hydraulic cranes, tractor shovels, and truck trailers, found that it couldn't compete in Argentina, Brazil, France, Germany, Britain and other countries by going the export route. So it built plants abroad.

Since it exports components used in foreign assembly, it figures that one in nine of its U.S. work force is kept employed by its overseas investment. And in no case does Clark import to the U.S. anything that it is already building in the U.S.

Richard Nixon's good friend, Donald Kendall, board chairman of PepsiCo Inc., is an eloquent defender of the multinationals. Speaking as chairman of ECAT (Emergency Committee for American Trade), Mr. Kendall observes that the multinationals have increased their American payrolls over a five-year period by 2.7 per cent per year, which is a third greater than the national average of 1.8 per cent. The reason the multinationals have contributed more than their share to domestic employment is that they are in a better position to afford it.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin rewards the most wide-awake and progressive of our companies by calling them "a new and dark power." Doesn't the fact that the multinationals brought $4 billion in royalties, repatriated profits and other earnings to this country in 1971 mean anything to the senator? That would pay for a lot of good Wisconsin cheese.

Hal Boyle . . . Hal's back in the mailbox

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never now if he didn't open his mail:

U.S. kids are bigger than ever. Studies show that children today average 10 per cent taller and 15 to 30 per cent heavier than children 90 years ago.

Although earthquake scares are more common on the West Coast of America than on the East Coast, no major section of the nation is immune from them. Since 1700, more than 1,000 earthquakes have been reported east of the Mississippi River.

Color can help make you feel warm or cool. Employees in one firm complained that an air-conditioned lounge painted blue and gray was too cold. Although no change in temperature was made, the complaints ceased after the management painted the lounge brown and orange.

All things that go up don't come back down. An example is the cost of government in America. Total annual government expenditures — including federal, state and local — increased in 50 years from a mere $9 billion in 1922 to $410 billion in 1972, according to the Tax Foundation.

How does the manager of company A spend his time? It is estimated that he spends 25 per cent of it simply telling other employees what he wants them to do.

Quotable notables: "There are admirable potentialities in every human being. Believe in your strength and your youth. Learn to repeat endlessly to yourself: 'It all depends on me.' — Andre Gide.

Exit lines: Michelangelo's dying words were: "My soul I resign to God, my body to the earth, my worldly goods to my next of kin." Mohammed said, "O Allah! Pardon my sins. Yes, I come." Lady Mary Wroth Montagu murmured, "It has all been very interesting."

Worth remembering: "The girl who marries a man to mend his ways is likely to find he isn't worth a darn."

Matching funds set for Caesar Creek

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources will use $285,525 in federal matching funds to expand acreage at Caesar Creek State Park in Clinton County, Director William B. Nye said.

About 358 acres will be purchased, he said. A study will be made to determine which of the 30 structures on the land acquired will be retained for park use and which will be razed, he added.

Regional office open

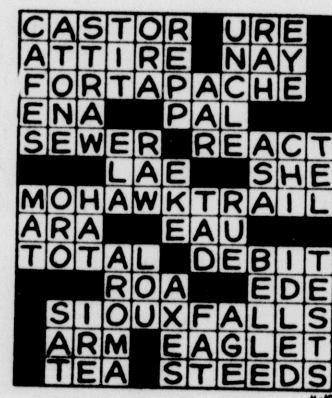

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A regional office for dispensing defense property to 23 states was opened in Columbus Monday. The office will oversee property disposal services to Army, Navy, and Air Force bases in the region.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

How to refuse a date:

Tell him the truth

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old, reasonably attractive girl. I live at home and work in a large office.

How can I refuse a date without hurting the man's feelings, and at the same time keep him from asking me again? If I say I am busy, he asks me again, or worse yet he'll ask for my first free evening, then I am really stuck.

You see, I don't want to date anyone outside my own religion. I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice for me if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: I'm married only four months to a fellow I'll call Mac and I've never been so miserable in my life.

Before we were married Mac was so sweet and kind, but he's changed now. Mac has beaten me on three different occasions, and I don't mean just a slap. He's knocked me around until I looked so bad I'm ashamed to go to classes. (We're both in college.)

The first time he beat me because I insisted we leave a party where he was drinking too much. He beat me again because while I was trying to study he had both the television and radio blaring away so he could listen to two games at once and I turned off the TV.

Yesterday Mac gave me the worst beating of all when I refused to give him the car keys because he always takes off and leaves me all day and half the night. (The car belongs to me. My parents gave it to me so I'd have transportation to and from school.)

What am I going to do, Abby? I'm all black and blue again and I can't go to school like this. My parents live near here but I can't go home to them because they were against my marrying Mac in the first place. When I begged Mac to go to a counselor with me to try to save our marriage he laughed in my face. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP AT 20

DEAR ALL: Go home to your parents and admit that either you weren't ready for marriage, or you chose the wrong fellow. There is little hope for saving your marriage unless Mac cooperates, and he appears unwilling. A man who beats a woman is sick. And a woman who sticks around for repeated beatings is sicker.

DEAR ABBY: Recently when my sister and I were faced with closing the house in which our parents had lived for many years, we came upon several boxes of old pictures and snapshots. Many were of friends our parents had known over the years, but whom we barely knew. We hated to destroy them, even though they meant nothing to us, so we hit upon the idea of sending them to the families of those involved. In this way we contributed richly to the picture collection of many families. The letters of gratitude we received more than compensated for our efforts.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, April 10, the 100th day of 1973. There are 265 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1791, the U.S. Congress passed the nation's first patent law.

On this date:

In 1847, the American newsman who established the Pulitzer Prizes, Joseph Pulitzer, was born in Hungary.

In 1849, Walter Hunt of New York City received a patent for the safety pin.

In 1932, Paul von Hindenburg defeated Adolf Hitler in a runoff election for the German presidency.

In 1945, the Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald was liberated by American soldiers.

In 1952, the Soviet Union proposed that all-German elections be held under a four-power commission, instead of under U.N. supervision.

Ten years ago: It was disclosed that the U.S. submarine Thresher had failed to surface after a deep dive in the North Atlantic, with a loss of 129 lives. It was the worst submarine disaster in U.S. history.

Five years ago: Gen. Creighton W. Abrams was named commander of American forces in Vietnam, succeeding Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

One year ago: The United States and the Soviet Union signed a treaty banning biological warfare.

Differences on Cambodia

WASHINGTON — At the formal preview of the great French impressionists on loan exhibit to the National Gallery Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson took a wistful backward look at his origins. He remarked that once, as a very young man, he had collected reproductions of these same pictures.

That was when he had considered printing as a career. He continues to be a water colorist of no mean ability and when he has time, which is more and more in short supply in his new post, the secretary goes back to the avocation that might have been a vocation.

Perhaps the most cultivated and urbane of the men who have come through the Nixon years, Richardson has also proved in three widely contrasting posts to be one of the ablest. As Secretary of Defense he is confronted with demands that will tax all his abilities. Not the least is the burden put on him to defend the continued bombing by B-52s in Cambodia.

THIS IS becoming for the critics a constitutional issue of the gravest

meaning. The use of American air power had been justified by the need to protect American troops on the ground. Now that all the troops are removed there can be no legal justification, say the critics with Sen. J. William Fulbright in the forefront, for pounding this shattered, largely ruined little country.

If the President can do this he can at any time and in any place use American military might to achieve his political-diplomatic ends. This is usurpation of the war-making power that must have the Founding Fathers revolving in their graves.

In several forums Richardson has given different reasoning for the accelerated daily pounding — as many as 60 B-52s — of Cambodian trails and highways. At one point he called Cambodia an "ally." No one had gone that far before.

On another occasion he said it was essential to clean up a lingering corner of the Indochina war. In his latest statement he said it might be necessary to airlift supplies, arms and gasoline to besieged government forces in Phnom Penh. The reason for the bombing is obvious enough — to try to shore up the faltering regime of Premier Lon Nol as his capital is increasingly cut off from all contact by rail and river.

RICHARDSON'S legal skill in this box cannot be discounted. Graduating from Harvard Law School with honors, he became a law clerk first to Judge Learned Hand in New York and then to Justice Felix Frankfurter, a connoisseur of law clerks out of Harvard.

In elective politics in Massachusetts he was first lieutenant governor and then attorney general, a post he left to come to Washington at Nixon's bidding as undersecretary of State.

He was highly effective at State. In a friendly liaison with Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, they lunched together on Thursdays each week. Kissinger has said that if Richardson had stayed on as undersecretary, with a cooperation involving all issues between the big bureaucracy and the little State Department in the White House, the hostilities between the two might never have risen.

But Richardson was wrenched away to be secretary of health, education and welfare and the wailing and gnashing of teeth in Foggy Bottom could be heard from miles around coming from career officers who felt they were losing their principal defender. At HEW Richardson took a reasoned, intelligent approach, battling all the way for the Family Assistance Plan as the only viable way to reform welfare, until it was killed by the Louisiana strangler, Sen. Russell Long.

HIS ADMIRERS are now asking whether the Pentagon is not a booby trap. As defense secretary he succeeded that tough graduate of congressional politics, Melvin R. Laird. A cynical House member put it this way: "You don't really think that Boston guppy can survive those sharks over in the Pentagon, do you?"

Cambodia may be slurred over but it will not go away. The pressure from Fulbright and others in the Senate is to put through a Senate resolution forbidding any further use of funds for bombing in Indochina. This might not have an immediate result, since there is money in the pipeline that can be drawn on to keep the B-52s flying. But it would be a clear sign of Senate rejection of the Richardson thesis.

Several times at HEW Richardson was required on order of the White House to compromise on positions he had previously taken. Cambodia is a far larger issue, and whether he is the good soldier taking orders or whether he has larger loyalties may be evoked in the grim maze of the office he now holds.

Annual meetings: Are they worthwhile?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This is a time of year that tests executive patience, a period on the corporate calendar that falls between issuance of the annual report and plans for a summer vacation. It is annual meeting time.

The number of affairs increases this week and reaches a peak in the third and fourth weeks of the month when, by one count, the stockholders of at least 145 companies listed on the New York or American exchanges gather on April 24.

As usual, only a tiny percentage of shareholders will attend most meetings, just as only a relative few will do much with the annual report except use it to stir the air in the stuffy auditorium.

The number who will ask a question from the floor will constitute an even more infinitesimal fraction. Almost no business will be conducted that has not, because of planning and legal requirements, been agreed upon in advance.

If a fired-up stockholder mistakenly assumes he can sound off as he pleases in this world of corporate democracy he is soon disabused of the notion when he finds his microphone turned off on orders of the chairman.

What purpose then, other than to observe a traditional rite of spring, is served by the annual meeting? Very little, say some corporate leaders, except to irritate them, use up their time, and appease some windy discontents.

Too often, they say, a professional meeting-goer seeking publicity can distract from the best laid plans, which usually include a little executive boasting about performance or the introduction of a great new product.

J.B. Fuqua, chairman of an Atlanta-based conglomerate by that name, has been conducting a personal battle against having meetings at all, arguing that they are a costly nuisance whose purpose cannot even be explained.

Never, says the head of this 18,000-worker company, has even one in a thousand stockholders attended a meeting. Fuqua says that when polled, 99 per cent of them agreed that the meetings should be dropped.

It would be much more edifying, he insists, if he were to communicate by mail with his shareholders, thus saving them the futility of a trip to Atlanta from the far corners of the country.

If the annual meeting were to be effective, he suggests, it would require active participation by individual shareowners. But then, he asks, how in the world—not alone in Atlanta—could you accommodate all of them?

Nevertheless, Fuqua still observes the annual meeting, not because of the Securities and Exchange Commission or the state of Delaware, in which the company is incorporated, but because in New York Stock Exchange requires it.

While Fuqua does appear to have some valid criticisms of these annual affairs, they still appear to serve at least one highly productive function, that of providing an accounting of their administration by officers and directors.

If it is true that most very large companies couldn't possibly make arrangements for a gathering of most stockholders, it is equally true that news from the meetings is widely distributed to them by the media.

The Kansas City meeting May 9 of International Telephone & Telegraph Stockholders, for example, will be closely watched by millions of shareholders and others for comments about its relations with the U.S. and Chilean governments.

INDIAN CHIEF BLUEBIRDS
The Indian Chief Bluebirds met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Edgington. Andi Lou Anderson led the Bluebird Song, Julie Wissinger the Pledge, and roll call was answered by telling what we are going to bring to the bake sale on April 6 at Buckey Mart. Posters have been placed in stores telling about the sale.

Mrs. Edgington announced she had tickets for the Bluebird skating party April 10.

We wrote thank you notes to Mr. Johnson, manager of Ross Jewelers, to thank him for sponsoring our picture in The Record-Herald during CF Week. Nikki Brown served refreshments. There will be no meeting next Tuesday.

MEAT - FOOD FOR THOUGHT

As local farmwives, we are quite disturbed about the recent meat boycott and its serious consequences. We are as unhappy as anyone else about the high prices because they only reflect a tremendous increase in our livestock production costs. Since farm wives keep the financial records, we have been in a position to watch our monthly statements rise sharply. For example, the cost of feed supplement climbed from $124.00 per ton in April, 1972, to $240.00 per ton in April, 1973 - nearly a 100% increase!

In order for one to understand the cost of meat, he must first understand the cost of production. To illustrate this, let us show you the capital necessary to start a 2,000 hogs per year farrow to finish operation.

Land (300 acres)	$150,000.00
Equipment	18,000.00
Swine buildings	99,000.00
Breed. stock and inv.	60,000.00
Feed, corn, and sup.	23,500.00
TOTAL	$350,500.00

The average farmer who attempts to start this sort of operation assumes a large debt as 7 - 8% interest. (We handle a lot of money, but are certainly not wealthy.)

We are definitely experiencing a serious shortage of marketable livestock. If farmers cannot receive a fair price for livestock this year, production will be even less next year, creating even a greater shortage of meat than now. Government price controls will only hasten the process by further decreasing our margin of profit and turning the farmer to other endeavors.

We are proud of our profession and find it very rewarding, but here are some points for others to consider: (1) the average farmer works about 70 hours a week with no paid vacation, holidays, sick pay, hospitalization, or retirement benefits; (2) most other industries price their commodities in relation to labor and other costs, but farmers are at the mercy of supply and demand and unpredictable weather; and, (3) diseases such as TGE can eradicate an entire farrowing and eliminate any profit.

BY BOYCOTTING MEAT, the consumer is only starting a massive chain reaction. The meat boycott also affects packers, butchers, truckers, grocers, and many others by creating unemployment. This in the end will only boomerang to the consumer in the form of meat and produce shortages and increased prices.

We are asking that everyone do a little soul searching. Meat is much higher than it has ever been, but we Americans are quickly becoming spoiled. We tend to put priorities on the wrong things. Rather than boycotting meat, one should budget money more wisely in all aspects. Meat has been the best buy in our economy for many years and still is.

How long can you really go without meat? You may have the chance to find out.

As we see it,

June weddings planned

MISS JANET S. KLINGENSMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Klingensmith, of Wilmington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Sue, to David Wayne McAllister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Paul McAllister, Rt. 2, Washington C. H.

Miss Klingensmith, a 1968 graduate of East Clinton High School, attended Miami University at Oxford, and is teaching in the Kingman Elementary School.

Mr. McAllister, a 1963 graduate of Miami Trace High School, attended Ohio University at Athens and is presently employed in the construction industry.

Plans are being made for a June wedding.

Crusaders meet

Christian Crusaders Class of South Side Church of Christ met in Fellowship Hall for a covered dish supper preceding the meeting. The class teacher, Dr. J. G. Jordan, gave the invocation.

Howard Brooks, class president, conducted business session. No new projects were announced.

Mrs. Jordan gave the devotions and read the Scripture from the Book of Luke, relating that Christ had a custom of going to the synagogue on the Sabbath.

Mrs. Frank Coulter provided entertainment with three contests.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Fred Johnson, Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Rolland West.

Hostesses for the May 5 meeting will be Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Alice Beedy and Mrs. Margaret Emrick. Frank Coulter will lead the devotions and Miss Ruth McKay will provide entertainment.

Cooks entertain

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cook Sr., of Jeffersonville were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellis and daughter, Shirley, Mrs. Alfred Ellis, of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellis, Sabina; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hargrave, Bowersville; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Gray, Jamestown and Jennifer Cook, of Leesburg.

The occasion was the birthday of Robert Ellis, brother of Mrs. Cook. Miss Jennifer Cook is spending the week with her grandparents while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim D. Cook are in Washington, D. C., as chaperones for the Fairfield High School senior class of Leesburg.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Elsie Linginer, Mr. Lelah Skinner and Mrs. Lucile Haggard visited Mrs. Kate Sessler at Monterey Inn, Columbus. Mrs. Sessler, a former resident of Washington C. H., would appreciate hearing from her friends, she said.

MISS DIANA M. GORDON

Roy Gordon, of Arkansas City, Kas., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Diana Marie, to Robert Wayne Howland, son of Mrs. Thelma Howland and Chuck Howland, both of Greenfield.

The bride-elect, also the daughter of the late Mrs. Garnett Leeth Haines, is a 1972 graduate of Miami Trace High School and presently employed at Steele Data Processing.

Her fiancé, who attends Laurel Oaks Joint Vocational School, will be graduated in June from McClain High School, Greenfield. A June wedding is planned.

Driver training offered to women

"Drive-in" classes and mini-lessons for women commuters primarily from central and southern Ohio will be among offerings of "Horizons for Women" being sponsored May 16 and 17 on the Ohio Dominican College campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd., Columbus.

The two-day program is sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education at Ohio Dominican, and the Extension Service of the Ohio State University. Mrs. Gladys Kirk is Fayette County home economics Extension Service agent.

Ten classes including color for homes, today's foods, fashions, art judgment, consumer protection and women's changing role in the church, will be available.

To register, women may contact Mrs. Hawkins, 1878 Neil Ave., Columbus, or Mrs. Kirk, 319 S. Fayette St. There will be a small registration fee.

Peel and halve a couple of cloves of garlic; drop into a bottle of wine vinegar and let stand a week or two. Use the garlic-flavored vinegar in green salads along with oil, salt and pepper.

Willing Workers meeting held in Himmelspach home

The meeting of the Bookwalter Willing Workers was held in the home of Mrs. William Himmelspach. Mrs. Marvin Stockwell, president, opened the meeting by reading "Memory Gems" for the month of April and "Prayer Versus."

Devotions by Mrs. Leola Allen concerned the Crucifixion of Christ.

Mrs. Jean Warner read the correspondence and it was announced that during the past month the group made 35 cancer pads. A donation to the Cancer Society also was made.

Mrs. Lois Coe presented the program, which was about Easter. Eleven members and two guests were served refreshments. The guests were Mrs. Hazel Coe and Mrs. Henry Ford.

MONEY DOES MATTER . . .

By J. W. Wallace

NEVER, BUT NEVER, EVER SIGN A BLANK CHECK!

A vote of thanks to Perse Harlow and Mary Frances Snider for their many years of service to the Fayette County Community Chest, their services have been greatly appreciated.

Our congratulations to Don Hutchens and Gerald Reid, Miami Trace FFA members who recently placed first in the district speaking contest.

At The First National Bank of Washington Court House we'll show you how to make your check-writing and cashing chores a pleasure. And, we'll provide all of the materials you'll need!

It's just another way of saying that we mean it when we proudly state that we are a complete service bank!

In order to write "safe" checks, protecting your interest, bear in mind these few simple suggestions and automatically incorporate them in your check-writing routine.

Always write a check to a person, or an organization. Anyone can cash a check payable to "Cash" or "Bearer".

Start all the way to the left when spelling out the amount and fill up all of the remaining space with a line, so the amount cannot be altered.

In the space for figures, make them clear, right next to the $ sign, preventing another figure from being added later.

Never, but never, sign a blank check! In the wrong hands it could be cashed for any amount.

Use any date, including Sundays and holidays. However, banks will not pay on a check which is dated ahead.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In case you stepped out for a short beer when the networks unveiled their new fall lines, here is the late news: There'll be slightly more law, order and situation comedy on television next season.

Instead of then-boldness that marked the start of the 1972-73 season, the cry of the coming seems to be: "Stand pat. Don't rock the boat. Fight crime and keep the giggles coming."

The networks began announcing their 1973-74 evening schedules two weeks ago. Now that ABC has finished its roll call, there are 11 2-3 shows on the casualty list and 19 new shows in the works.

There still are a few series to be announced, but the schedules essentially are set. And by my count, there'll be at least 16 police or private eye series on next year, or two more than now.

There will be at least 21 situation

comedies, three more than than exist now, with the big increase coming at NBC.

There'll be two new legal series—ABC's "Mr. and Ms." show about opposing lawyers who are husband and wife and CBS' recycled Perry Mason effort, now called "The New Adventures of Perry Mason."

They'll join the only legal show now on the air, ABC's "Owen Marshall." Another barrister, played by Jimmy Stewart in "Hawkins," will face the television bench but once a month.

There'll still be only two Westerns on the range, CBS' durable "Gunsmoke" and ABC's "Kung Fu."

The sad song known as the Cancellation Rag was heard most frequently at ABC, which banished six series from the air for next season. CBS cancelled four; NBC, 1 2-3.

NBC's one was "Laugh-In," and the two-thirds were the "Madigan" and "Cool Million" segments of "Wednesday Mystery Movie." "Banacek," the third, stayed and soon will be joined by two others.

The ABC ax fell on the veteran "Mod Squad," the one-season "Julie Andrews Hour," the "Paul Lynde Show," "The Men," and two mid-season replacements, "Here We Go Again" and "A Touch of Grace."

Lynde came out okay, though. He'll replace James Whitmore in "Temperatures Rising" when it returns for a second season.

CBS smote the veteran "Mission Impossible" and "Doris Day" shows, with two rookies, "The New Bill Cosby Show" and "Bridget Loves Bernie." Lorne Green, whose "Bonanza" series on NBC finally died this year, will return on ABC in a series called "Griff," where he plays a retired cop turned private eye. It'll appear Saturday nights.

China planting heavily

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Field work in the Peoples Republic of China, a new customer of U.S. farmers, is off to a fast start this spring in a massive attempt by Peking to recover from production declines last year, the Agriculture Department said today.

Poor weather last year, including drought in some wheat areas, was partly responsible for China's buying grain and cotton from the U.S.

Now, according to a report published by the Foreign Agricultural Service, there is "a sense of urgency" in planting spring crops.

"The anxiety over spring farming this year appears warranted in view of the decline in grain, cotton and vegetable oilseed production last year," the agency said.

Although areas which produce winter wheat remained dry last winter, the situation was not unusual, the report said. But the spring months of March through May are critical for getting crops off to a good start.

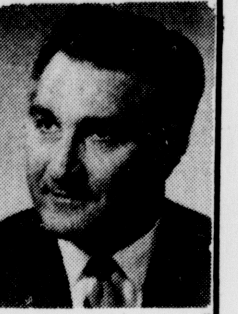

The Chinese crop situation is being watched closely by USDA for signs that Peking may need more grain this year. Cotton also has become a big export item for American producers, with current sales estimated at more than 600,000 bales.

Chinese cotton production dropped sharply last year and forced Peking to buy an estimated 1.6 million bales from all sources for the 1972-73 season, more than double the previous import peak set a decade ago.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Supplement present program with vital new additions. Progress indicated if methods are updated to meet current demands.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

You may have disagreeable dispositions to deal with, or complex situations. But your optimism and know-how will turn things to advantage.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A good spt for your intuitive forces, your ingenuity, alertness and inventiveness. Do use them for sound purposes.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Capitalize on present trends; convert to newer methods where feasible. But do not make drastic changes in projects now running smoothly.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Waste motion could be costly, as could thoughtless words and procrastination. Solar aspects stimulate your competence and gifts of leadership, so don't offset needlessly.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Leave nothing to chance; stress your innate meticulousness for detail and accuracy. In discussions, try to persuade gently, not with force.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

If you attempt to gain your way through unconventional methods, it could cause discord. Emphasize reason, logic, harmony.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Your outlook and approach tremendously important now. Day can be one of highly useful performance if you concentrate on immediate needs and forget past disappointments.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Admonitions for this day: Avoid haste in all things, especially in making decisions. Look closely at all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Step up activities to meet competition that is working overtime. The extra try will be worth the effort.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Streamline wherever it will accelerate progress, but don't by-pass those "little" details which can be so important. An average day, awaiting YOUR clever management.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Salute your day with the will to do your best even if all circumstances are not to your liking. You may profit more by working with others than on your own.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with great versatility, unflagging zeal, optimism and enthusiasm; are original and brilliant in your thinking. Your energy is boundless and, once you set yourself toward the goals you desire, you never give up until you have achieved them. You could be a scintillating lawyer, eventually a statesman; would make an outstanding writer, artist or musician. Traits to curb: Stubbornness, excessive materialism.

Bugs found

in jury room

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Toledo's U.S. District Attorney will investigate the installation of two microphones discovered in a municipal court jury room Monday, said Acting Municipal Court Judge Frank W. Reinheimer.

The devices were reported by Cleveland attorney Jack Levin who is representing former Port Clinton policeman Robert Buckley in an assault and battery case.

Reinheimer said the jury room is also used by the police department for interrogation. He said Buckley knew about the microphones and told Levin.

Police Chief Henry Jacoby said he did not order the devices installed, but would take full responsibility for them. He said they were installed in July, 1972, as an investigation aid.

Reinheimer said no deadline has been set for a report from the U.S. District Attorney. He will be aided by county and city prosecutors in the investigation of who used the devices and why.

Reinheimer ordered Buckley's case continued until the investigation is complete.

Oxford men charged with bomb threats

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Two Oxford men remained free today on $1,000 bond following arraignment in U.S. District Court Monday on charges of telephoning false bomb threats to the Square D Co. plant April 4 and 5.

Charged were Douglas Allen Day, 20, a former Square D employee, and Matt Kilburn, 22.

Ohio Perspective

Audit chief feels growing pains

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Government bureaucracy gets bigger, and John Blum feels the growing pains.

Blum directs the work of state examiners who must check every penny spent by state, regional, county and local agencies in Ohio. In recent years, he said the amount of money being spent and the number of agencies have mushroomed.

Blum complained that he has been saddled with a state law limiting the State Auditor's office to 300 examiners. The result, said Blum, is a backlog of nearly 300 audits not made within the period prescribed by law.

Public agencies must be audited by the state at least once every two years. Some have gone up to four years without their books being examined. Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33

Youngstown, has offered a bill in the 110th General Assembly that would ease Blum's burden. Meshel wants to repeal the law that limits the number of examiners to 300.

The bill now before the Senate Finance Committee, does not designate how many examiners should be added to the State Auditor's office.

"We could use 50 or 60 more examiners to take care of the backlog," said Blum, who blamed legislators for the problem.

"When they add responsibilities," he said, "they give little or no consideration to the additional duties of auditing them."

Blum said his office has to audit all 3,500 state departments and commissions, cities, village, townships, county offices, public libraries, school districts and universities.

But, the audits don't stop there, he added. All regional sewer districts, metropolitan housing and transportation authorities conservancy districts and 1,000 council of governments must be examined by the state. Blum said he is bracing for the "absolute nightmare"—federal revenue sharing checks that have gone to the state and local governments for use as they wish.

Blum's office has the job of monitoring the use of the federal money in Ohio. He called the program a nightmare because there are no strings attached and, therefore, no guidelines for his examiners to follow.

Maryland man air crash victim

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 35-year-old Maryland man was killed Monday when the single-engine plane he was flying crashed in a field near Ohio 38 several miles south of here.

The victim was identified as Robert Capps of Riverdale, Md.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said it was working with the Federal Aviation Agency to determine Capps destination and origin. He had not filed a flight plan, according to a spokesman.

Capps, who had received his license last September, was piloting a plane registered to Freeway Airport, Inc., of Mitchellville, Md.

A past grand chaplain of the Elks, Father Connelly has also served as chaplain for the Cleveland Browns and Cincinnati Bengals as well as chaplain of state and national American Legion organizations.

The Ohio Elks Association has designated the week of May 1-7 as Elks Youth Week in Ohio. Sponsored by the fraternal order for 24 years, this week is celebrated annually throughout the state to highlight youth decency and to recognize their achievements.

Awards valued at approximately $21,000 will be presented to Ohio's top students and youth leaders at the luncheon. Robert Glessner of Mansfield is chairman of the event, according to an announcement by L.L. McBee of New Lexington, president of the Ohio Elks Association.

Ten "Most Valuable Student" scholarships of $700 each and 10 secondary scholarships of $600 each are to be announced by Donald W. Peters of Dover who conducted a statewide contest sponsored by the Order.

Approximately $8,000 in youth leadership awards are to be made by

M.A. Mihalick of Mansfield. Young people from near every part of the state have been invited to attend the luncheon as guests of the Elks.

EPA says 56,000 permits must be issued by 1975

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency says more than 56,000 waste-discharge permits must be approved by the end of next year to begin bringing water pollution under control.

The permits, issued either by EPA or by states with EPA-approved programs, include requirements designed to achieve national clean-water standards.

EPA's deadline of Dec. 31, 1974, for issuing these permits was only one step in a complex strategy made public at a water-pollution conference here a few days ago.

Fire claims lives of 2

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Fire this morning claimed the lives of a Cincinnati man and his wife as it swept their three-story brick duplex in lower Clifton at the north edge of downtown.

Firemen identified the two as Henry Domonkos, 60, and his 54-year-old wife, Charlotte.

A third resident of the building, Christine Mayfield, 65, was rescued by firemen.

One fireman was hospitalized with injuries received when he broke through a stairway while trying to reach the couple. His injuries were not described as serious. Two other firemen were treated for smoke inhalation at the scene.

Neighbors told firemen they heard screams, "Get us out, get us out," coming from the third floor where the couple, trapped by the fire, died.

The fire was reported shortly before 5 a.m. The cause has not yet been determined.

Set $17 million Cincy building

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A development corporation reported it has received permission to proceed with construction of a $17-million, 27-story double tower hotel building on either side of a downtown street.

Lee W. Koetzle, president of Koetzle Corp., said the city has given permission to build a glass-enclosed walkway between the structures over Sixth and Elm streets.

He said plans to use one of the towers for apartments may be changed to accommodate needed hotel space in the downtown area.

No date for beginning construction was announced.

Ashland tree controversy centers on allowable types

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—The poem contends that only God can make a tree, but it's a thought that barely slows the controversy here in Ashland in a municipal battle over trees.

Retired highway landscaper Charles S. Ross and Ashland College music professor Elizabeth Pastor head the two factions, each arguing it has the better answer for Ashland's trees.

The controversy began when Ross, chairman of Ashland's Shade Tree Commission, catalogued the location and condition of the city's 3,247 trees on curbside lawns and parks.

The commission since has undertaken a master plan of trimming, removing and replanting trees, and the city has proposed restrictions on the types of trees that will be permitted in the future.

Miss Pastor, president of the newly-formed Society for Ashland's Preservation, accuses Ross and other commission members of being "tree snobs," arbitrarily excluding huge shade trees from the list of authorized trees.

"These opponents are not experts," Ross said. "They do not know what is best. We marked trees to come down because they are dead or dying, or because police found they caused blind spots at intersections."

But "the city has to reverse the tree priorities," argued Miss Pastor, noting that the only approved trees now on curbside areas are two kinds of flowering crabs and hawthornes and one variety each of cherry and Norway maple—all small varieties.

"The beauty of the trees and streets certainly should be more important than the maintenance needs of the utility companies," she said. Her group also maintains the tree commission is overly concerned with utility lines.

"In fact," she said, "people want to get trees up into the utility lines to screen them."

Another Jaycee success

Congratulations to the Washington C. H. Jaycees for sponsoring another successful independent basketball tournament.

In just four short years, the Jaycee tournament has mushroomed into one of the finest sporting attractions in the area and provides the Jaycees with an ideal opportunity to raise funds to finance projects such as Pony League Football, Fourth of July fireworks, the Halloween parade, Children's Home, the Junior Champ track meet, Operation Red Ball and many others.

The hard-working Jaycees handled their first double elimination tournament with ease and precision, making more money than was expected. The bulk of the proceeds realized from the 13-game event will go toward the Fourth of July fireworks celebration this summer.

THE 10-TEAM double elimination field was a bit smaller than some of the other fields attracted in the three previous tournaments, but still ushered in a sparkling array of collegiate standouts plus a hefty list of former schoolboy stars for the week-long running on the Washington Junior High School floorboards.

The double elimination tourney was somewhat of an experiment and Jaycees are already thinking ahead to next year in terms of Class A and B tournaments.

Due for a lot of praise are the unselfish Jaycees who worked diligently without compensation to stage the fourth annual program. Special accolades should go to Dick Anthony, the Jaycee president, Bill Marting, the tournament chairman, and Ernie Wilson who provided valuable help to the Record-Herald sports department with the game results.

Economy Savings and Loan, of Wilmington, captured the fourth tournament title and joins Wilson Lumber (1972), Washington Lumber (1971) and Flynn's Real Estate, of Greenfield, (1970) on the list of Jaycee champions.

Trophies for this year's tourney were donated by three Washington C. H. merchants. The first place hardware was donated by the New Craig's; second place by Willis Insurance Co., and third place by Hidy's Super Market, which also sponsored one of the 10 teams. The basketball used was donated by Mutt's News Stand.

Spring sports cards hampered by weather

Rain and snow have combined to spoil the spring sports schedules of Washington C. H. and Miami Trace teams this week.

Two spring sports contests, both involving Washington C. H. teams, were doused by Monday's rain showers and snow will force postponement of tonight's action.

Washington C. H.'s Blue Lion baseball team, which has increased its all-games record to 4-3, was scheduled to visit Greenfield for a South Central Ohio League contest Monday night.

THE GAME, which was originally scheduled to be played Friday, March 30, has been rescheduled for Monday, April 16, according to athletic director Bob Bane.

Cincinnati seeks arena

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Cincinnati officials are hinting a move in the works to lure the proposed hockey-basketball arena, now planned 28-miles to the north, back to the city.

Brian Heekin, president of the Cincinnati Hockey Club Inc., said Sunday that his group planned to build its own arena at Kings Mills, near the new Kings Island Amusement Park.

He had accused the city of foot dragging in its promise to build the arena next to Riverfront Stadium by issuing low-interest, tax-free revenue bonds.

Heekin said further that the city would be unable to apply parking revenue in the stadium for events in the arena for arena bonds. All revenue made by stadium lots must go to pay off stadium bonds, Heekin said.

Councilman Thomas Luken, who was mayor when the city made the promise in 1971, Monday night hinted a move was in the works to solve the problems with CHC.

Hoosiers pick team

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Bill Smith of Marian College and John Wolfenberg of Valparaiso University have been named to the Indiana college all-star basketball team that will meet the Ohio stars April 20 and 21.

The 6-foot-3 Smith holds practically all of Marian's major scoring records, and the 6-8 Wolfenberg is Valpo's No. 3 all-time leading scorer.

The Hoosier coach is Angus Nicolson of Indiana Central.

Tommy Aaron wins Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It was more than a victory for mild, soft-speaking Tommy Aaron, it was something of a triumph for all the weary, frustrated creatures in the world who keep hammering away doggedly at success and coming up short.

"It's no crime to finish second," the tall, bespectacled Georgian said after winning the coveted Masters golf crown Monday. "A man needn't be ashamed of finishing second."

"After all, the greatest golfer in the world, Jack Nicklaus, has finished second 33 times. In my case, it was just that I hadn't won."

Draped in his 44-long green Masters champion's jacket, the 6-foot-1, native Georgian acknowledged his new cloak of fame did not fully hide the hurt that had been swelling inside of him all of those disappointing 13 years on the tour.

They called him a "perennial bride's maid." They scoffed that he was a choker, that he couldn't win the big ones. And the height of abuse against this gentle practitioner of the fairways was reached in 1968 when Aaron was guilty of a slip of the pen that cost Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo a possible Masters crown.

But that was just one scar. He took others because he repeatedly got in position to win tournaments and then failed, finishing as runner-up 14 times. His first and only tour victory prior to the 1973 Masters was the Atlanta Classic in 1970.

The Masters, washed out by rain Saturday, had a dramatic climax with a spectacular late surge by Jack Nicklaus and a three-way battle down the home stretch involving Aaron, J. C. Snead and Britain's promising Peter Oosterhuis.

Aaron, 36, who hails from the small town of Gainesville about 150 miles northwest of Augusta, weathered the intensive pressure by shooting a four-underpar 68 and then fidgeted in Augusta's famed Trophy Room at the club house for 45 minutes awaiting to see if Oosterhuis or Snead could tie him.

They couldn't.

Aaron finished with a 72-hole score of 283 and the first prize of $30,000. J. C. Snead, a strapping hillbilly nephew of the immortal Sam Snead, was just a stroke behind at 284, followed by Nicklaus, Oosterhuis and Jimmy Jamieson, tied at 285. Young John Miller finished at 288, tied with former champion Bob Goalby.

Nicklaus' late surge gave the tournament a shot of needed electricity and sent a shock up the nervous spines of his front-running adversaries in a day of high drama.

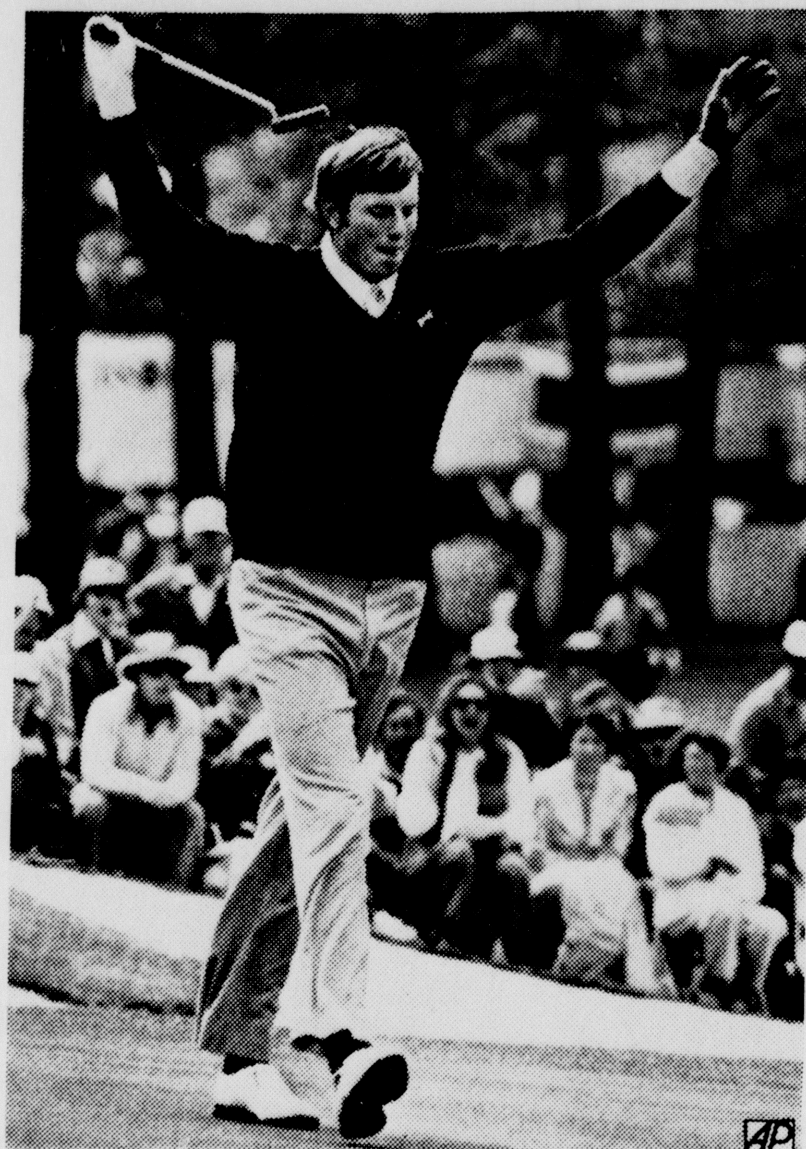

Starting the final day eight shots back of the leading Oosterhuis and with 13 other players in front of him, the Golden Bear, seeking his fifth Masters and an unprecedented 14th major championship knocked in birdies on four of the first six holes, added another at the long eighth and turned in 32, four under par.

OOSTERHUIS THIRD — Peter Oosterhuis, of Great Britain, waves to the gallery after carding a birdie on the 12th hole in the third round of Masters in Augusta, Ga. Oosterhuis, who led the field by three strokes going into the final round, finished third behind Tommy Aaron and J. C. Snead.

Yanks drop fourth straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Because everybody deserves a second chance, the New York Yankees will continue with the 1973 baseball season. That's because some people deserve not only a second chance, but a third, fourth, and, in the case of New York, a fifth one as well.

The Yankees, pre-season favorites in the American League East with at least one Las Vegas bookmaker, have started 1973 in reverse, dropping their first four games for their worst start since World War II.

The latest loss was a 3-1 job against Cleveland Monday, made particularly hard to swallow because the heroes for the Indians were Rusty Torres and John Ellis, who wore Yankee pinstripes last year.

In the only other games played on Monday's light schedule, San Francisco trimmed San Diego 2-1, Cincinnati outlasted Atlanta 8-7, and Houston downed Los Angeles 4-1.

Rookie Brent Strom throttled New York on eight well-spaced hits and three ex-Yankees, Torres, Ellis, and Charlie Spikes had six of the nine Cleveland hits.

Torres had three of the hits, two of them doubles, and drove in two runs. The other Indian RBI went to Ellis.

You might think all this would leave the Yankees a bit upset. But guess again. "When we win a few," said Manager Ralph Houk, "we'll wonder how we lost them all." After they had dropped their first three games in Boston, Bobby Murcer said, "I figure we can lose 60 games and still win. That leaves us 57 more."

Fifty-six after Monday. Ron Bryant spaced four hits and San Francisco won its home opener, defeating San Diego on Chris Speier's home run.

"I started throwing harder after three innings," said Bryant. "In the first three, I was aiming the ball too much. It was partly nervousness. I was excited about pitching the opener. I've never even been a starter at the beginning of the season before. It was six weeks before I started a game last year."

Tony Perez drilled three singles and Johnny Bench belted his first home run of the season but Cincinnati just managed to hang on against Atlanta. Perez' third hit drove in a pair of runs in a four-run ninth inning but three hits and two errors gave the Braves three back in the bottom of the ninth before reliever Pedro Borbon pitched out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam to save the victory.

Pitcher Jerry Reuss drove in Houston's winning run with a two-out single in the bottom of the eighth inning and then Jimmy Wynn followed with a two-run homer to clinch the Astros' victory over the Dodgers.

3 NHL teams seek tournament victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three National Hockey League teams go for the knockout punch tonight when the Stanley Cup playoffs resume with Game 5 in the best-of-seven series.

New York, Montreal and Chicago all hold commanding 3-1 leads in their quarter-final showdowns and need just one more victory to advance to the semifinals. Boston's defending champion Bruins, stung by the underdog New York Rangers, are on the ropes along with Buffalo and St. Louis, who both lost their first three games against Montreal and Chicago before staving off elimination by winning Game 4.

Tryouts rescheduled

Tryouts for boys wishing to participate in the Washington C.H. Little League baseball program this summer have been rescheduled due to poor weather conditions.

Lee Lynch, president of the Washington C.H. Little League, said the tryouts have been set for 6 p.m. Monday and Tuesday April 16 and 17 at Wilson Field. The tryouts were originally scheduled for Monday and Tuesday.

All boys 10, 11 and 12 years old on or before July 31 are required to tryout Monday, April 16. This includes last year's Minor league players or new players to the program. Returning major league players are not required to tryout, but should contact their managers.

Boys eight and nine years old on or before July 31 and new to the program must tryout on Tuesday, April 17. Little League players must live within Union Township. Practice will start April 23 with regular league schedules opening May 21.

Smarting Lakers face Bulls again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Los Angeles Lakers, smarting from what they allege are rough tactics by Chicago, hold the home court advantage tonight when they continue their deadlocked National Basketball Association playoff series with the Bulls.

The Lakers beat the Bulls twice in Los Angeles and then dropped two contests to them in Chicago. In Sunday's game, won 98-94 by the Windy City team, many Lakers claimed the Bulls' aggressiveness severely hampered their efforts.

Gail Goodrich, who took an elbow in the mouth by Bob Love, claimed the officials "didn't call much of anything. That's one of the roughest games I've ever been in."

Bill Bridges, who fouled out Sunday, said the Bulls "have a psychological advantage because of the type of game they play."

After tonight's game, the sixth contest will be played Friday in Chicago.

In tonight's other NBA Western Conference playoff game, the Golden State Warriors battle the Milwaukee Bucks in their series tied at 2-2. The Atlanta Hawks and Boston Celtics, also tied 2-2, resume action Wednesday. The New York Knicks, victors over Baltimore in their playoffs, meet the winner of the Atlanta-Boston Eastern Conference series Sunday at the earliest.

I don't think the layoff will bother us," said Knicks' Coach Red Holtzman. "We'll be ready."

No American Basketball Association games are scheduled for tonight, but the Kentucky Colonels and Carolina Cougars begin their Eastern Division title series Wednesday night and the Utah Stars host the defending ABA champion Indiana Pacers when their Western finals start Thursday night.

Although the Golden State and Milwaukee rosters are studded with standout performers, many feel obscure Clyde Lee of the Warriors may hold the key to victory with his rebounding prowess.

Although averaging only 6.3 points per game, Lee snared 21 rebounds as the Warriors beat the Bucks 102-97 Saturday night.

tilts set for Thanksgiving

NEW YORK (AP) — College football will take its chances next season of turning Thanksgiving's gridiron gourmets into gluttons, dishing up a holiday menu of four televised games in three days.

ABC-TV unveiled seven games of its schedule today, including a unique Friday match between Big Eight Conference powers Oklahoma and Nebraska at Norman, Okla., the day after Thanksgiving.

The unprecedented turkey-and-touchdown mixture begins Thanksgiving afternoon with a Notre Dame-Air Force battle of prestigious independents from South Bend, Ind.

Before mom has time to wash the mid-day dishes and prop up her feet, a night-time game will be on the tube from Baton Rouge, La., with the Alabama Crimson Tide meeting Louisiana State.

The weekend's windup on Sat., Nov. 24, has not been selected since ABC has the option, beginning with the week of Oct. 20, of holding off its choice in order to schedule better matches.

Seven games to be nationally televised were announced today, but the entire season will present 13 national games and six weeks of regional telecasts to include another 24 games.

Nebraska's Cornhuskers meet UCLA in a grudge rematch that opens the schedule Sept. 8 from Lincoln, Neb. The Bruins shocked Nebraska at the outset of last season, ruining the Husker hopes of a third straight national championship.

Notre Dame, always a hot product with the TV people, has another national game Sept. 29 when the Irish play the Purdue Boilermakers at Lafayette, Ind.

The annual Texas-Oklahoma dogfight will be shown nationally on Oct. 13 from the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Fish derby, pistol match on F&G's meeting agenda

Several items, ranging from a fishing derby to pistol matches, will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association at 8 p.m. Thursday in the lodge on the Stafford Road.

Plans for a fishing derby, in which members of the Fayette County Fish and Game Association will stock a pond in conjunction with Washington C.H. officials, is expected to be on Thursday's agenda.

Pistol matches, open to all persons including ladies, have been scheduled for 10 a.m. April 29. Phil French and Alan Yeoman are chairmen of the new event which will hopefully be staged monthly.

An entry fee will be charged and the first three places in each match will be cash winners.

A clean up day for lodge and grounds will be announced at Thursday's meeting in addition to discussion about this year's exhibit for the Fayette County Fair.

Area residents to be honored at VA Hospital

Several Fayette County residents will be among those receiving recognition for volunteer service at Chillicothe VA Hospital on National Hospital Day, Sunday, May 6. A special honor awards ceremony is planned for 2 p.m. at the hospital stadium.

Receiving certificates for 500 hours of service will be Mrs. Howard Bryant, 634 McArthur Way, and Mrs. Eldon Bethards, 531 East Temple St. Both serve under the auspices of the American Red Cross, as does Mrs. Clark Pensyl, 208 Clearview Rd., who will be recognized for 300 hours of service to the veterans.

Mrs. Forest Haines, 2902 SW Armbrust Rd., a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Mrs. Delbert Yeley, Bloomingsburg, of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Joseph Rodgers, Rt. 5, of the Disabled American Veterans, will also receive 100-hour awards at the ceremony.

Solution to Wounded Knee protest remains deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials and leaders of the Wounded Knee protest say they are no closer to resolving the conflict over when the Indians who seized the historic South Dakota village will surrender their arms.

The issue has delayed Washington talks on Indian treaty rights between Russell Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement, and Leonard Garment, a presidential adviser. The talks were scheduled to begin Saturday, but Garment said he would not meet with Means until the arms were surrendered.

The issue was raised anew Monday by the Justice Department at a hearing held by the House Indian Affairs subcommittee, which is looking into the Wounded Knee occupation and the seizure last year of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington.

Candle-lite crew learns first aid

LEESBURG — Thirteen employees of Candle-lite, Inc. in Leesburg have completed the standard course of instruction in first aid, as given by the American National Red Cross.

In seven class meetings, the standard course covers what immediate and temporary care should be given to a victim of an accident or sudden illness until the service of a physician can be obtained. Carl Powers, of Wilmington, a certified Red Cross first aid instructor, volunteered his time to teach the course.

The participating employees were: Bob Nofstger, Ralph Smith, Ron Mitchell, Herb Brown, Elmer Higley, Vivian Gorman, Gary Smaltz, Ada Satterfield, Paul Rhoads, Paul Archer, Bob Steiner, Barbara Morgan and Bud Miller.

Auto recall shakeup announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Monday 1972 was the worst year for defective automobile recalls, and then announced its own program of reporting on possible safety-related vehicle defects.

The agency said it would list each month new possible defects to "alert American consumers to vehicle safety problems at the earliest possible moment, just as soon as we believe they are serious enough to justify our formal investigation."

James E. Wilson, acting administrator of the federal safety agency, said, however, that an investigation of a problem did not mean a defect existed, "only that a safety-related problem has been reported with sufficient indications to justify a formal investigation."

mal investigation."

The agency said nine investigations were started in January and February.

For January, the agency listed five investigations: into the deterioration of passenger-side seat belts in some Volkswagens because of contact with battery acid; a fire hazard in the 1972 Pontiac Grand Prix; an improperly torqued brake pedal shaft nut in 1972 Dodge light trucks; cracks in a rear suspension equalizer beam on various 1972 vehicles manufactured by the Hendrickson Manufacturing Co.; and an air brake hose problem in some 1972 vehicles made by Superior Coach Division.

February investigations were on a possible: steering lockup in Chevrolet Vegas, 1971 through 1973; clutch cable breakage in International Harvester

JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing to amend sections 5 and 6 of Article IV of the Constitution of Ohio, relative to the powers and compensation of judges.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein, that there shall be submitted to the electors of the state in the manner prescribed by law at a special election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May, 1973, a proposal to amend sections 5 and 6 of Article IV of the Constitution of Ohio to read as follows:

ARTICLE IV

Section 5. (A) (1) In addition to all other powers vested by this article in the supreme court, the supreme court shall have general superintendence over all courts in the state. Such general superintending powers shall be exercised by the chief justice in accordance with rules promulgated by the supreme court.

(2) The supreme court shall appoint an administrative director who shall assist the chief justice in such assigned capacity, until the termination of the assignment. Rules may be adopted to provide for the temporary assignment of judges to sit and hold court in any court established by law.

(3) The chief justice or acting chief justice, as necessity arises, shall assign any judge of a court of common pleas temporarily to sit or hold court on any other court of common pleas or any court of appeals or shall assign any judge of a court of appeals temporarily to sit or hold court on any other court of appeals or any court of common pleas and upon such assignment said judge shall serve in such assigned capacity, until the termination of the assignment. Rules may be adopted to provide for the temporary assignment of judges to sit and hold court in any court established by law.

(4) The supreme court shall prescribe rules governing practice and procedure in all courts of the state, which rules shall not abridge, enlarge, or modify any substantive right. Proposed rules shall be filed by the court, not later than the fifteenth day of January, with the clerk of each house of the general assembly, during a regular session thereof, and amendments to any such proposed rules may be adopted by a concurrent resolution of the general assembly not later than the first day of May in that session. Such rules and amendments as adopted by a concurrent resolution of the general assembly shall take effect on the following first day of July, unless prior to such day the general assembly adopts a concurrent resolution of disapproval. All laws in conflict with such rules shall be of no further force or effect after such rules have taken effect.

Courts may adopt additional rules concerning local practice in their respective courts which are not inconsistent with the rules promulgated by the supreme court. The supreme court may make rules to require uniform record keeping for all courts of the state and shall make rules governing the admission to the practice of law and discipline of persons so admitted.

(C) The chief justice of the supreme court or any judge of that court designated by him shall pass upon the disqualification of any judge of the courts of appeals or courts of common pleas. Rules may be adopted to provide for the hearing of disqualification matters involving judges of courts established by law.

Section 6. (A) (1) The chief justice and the judges of the supreme court shall be elected by the electors of the state at large, for terms of not less than six years.

(2) The judges of the courts of appeals shall be elected by the electors of their respective appellate districts, for terms of not less than six years.

(3) The judges of the courts of common pleas shall be elected by the electors of the counties in which their respective courts are located, for terms of not less than six years, and each judge of a court of common pleas shall reside during his term of office in the county in which his court is located.

(4) Terms of office of all judges shall begin on the days fixed by law, and laws shall be enacted to prescribe the times and mode of their election. The judges of the supreme court, courts of appeals, courts of common pleas, and the judges of other courts established by law, shall, at stated times, receive, for their services, such compensation as may be provided by law, which shall not be diminished during their term of office. The compensation of the chief justice shall be the same. The compensation of all judges of the courts of appeals shall be the same. Common pleas judges and the judges of other courts established by law shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. Judges shall receive no fees or perquisites, nor hold any other office or profit or trust, under the authority of this state, or of the United States. All votes for any judge, for any elective office, except a judicial office, under the authority of this state, given by the general assembly, or the people shall be void.

(C) No person shall be elected or appointed to any judicial office if on or before the day when he shall assume the office and enter upon the discharge of its duties he shall have attained the age of seventy years. Any voluntarily retired judge, or any judge who is retired under this section, may be assigned with his consent, by the chief justice or acting chief justice of the supreme court to active duty as a judge and while so serving shall receive the established compensation for such office, computed upon a per diem basis, in addition to any retirement benefits to which he may be entitled. Laws may be passed providing retirement benefits for judges.

If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment shall take effect immediately and existing sections 5 and 6 of Article IV of the Constitution of Ohio shall be repealed from such effective date.

Summertime and good weather annually add the dimension of drama to the travel picture.

From a beginning in the southern Appalachian mountains in Western North Carolina, the outdoor drama has exploded into a widespread means of presenting entertainment with historic facts and fancies.

These provide travel incentive from the frozen reaches of Kodiak, Alaska to the sundrenched prairies of the Texas panhandle and to the ancient ruins of the pyramids of Central Mexico. They stretch from the historic Williamsburg area to the Polynesian Culture Center of Hawaii.

The state of Kentucky with modern rustic appearing state lodges and attendant recreation facilities probably leads the way in number of attractions presented in the "great outdoors." The 1972 season saw six outdoor dramas operating at special locations in Harrodsburg, Berea, Pineville, Bardstown, Prestonsburg and Whitesburg.

Among the dramas were "The Legend of Daniel Boone," "Wilderness Road," "Job," "The Stephen Foster Story," "Legend of Jenney Wiley," and "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

OHIO HAS its own outdoor drama in the Dover-New Philadelphia area where "Trumpet in the Land" has been a regular affair the past few summers.

Travel Time

A new drama center is being readied in the Chillicothe area and there are numerous summer stock presentations across the state.

"Texas," a spectacle as big as the state, is staged annually at Canyon, Tex., underneath the stars. Santa Fe, New Mexico has a full-scale outdoor opera in an arena designed especially to meet the exacting needs of such performances while retained the colorful surroundings of the desert.

Kodiak, Alaska, in a community effort to recover from a devastating earthquake in 1964, came up with "Cry of the Wild Ram" which has become a regular outdoor attraction each summer. "Unto These Hills" at Cherokee, North Carolina is one of the earlier outdoor dramas promoted.

From Virginia, dramatic sounds may be heard on a summer evening emanating from Williamsburg, "The Common Glory"; from Big Stone Gap, "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "The Long Way Home" from Redford, as well as many others.

IN ADDITION, many "sound and light" spectacles, summer theatre offerings and Shakespeare of music festivals provide their attractions in city parks as well as rustic outdoor amphitheatres throughout the land. If drama, music or plain fun lures you to travel, your travel agent can help you plan the most economic but comprehensive trip, tailored to your liking.

If some other type of travel is more fitted to your schedule or desire, perhaps one of the Newspaper Tours Ltd. package trips will be the answer. Details on these are available from "Linda" at The Record-Herald office.

Black leader starts 15-year jail term

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Black leader James C. Hardy, 31, today began a one-to-15-year sentence for burglary.

Hardy, founder of Solving Black Problems Now, maintained he was framed by drug interests.

Police said Hardy was found inside a jewelry-loan office Nov. 19.

affirmative vote of a majority of the members elected to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, entitled to vote thereon. Such vote shall be spread upon the journal of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, and certified to the Secretary of State by the clerk thereof. The Secretary of State shall, upon receipt of such certification, issue a certificate of election to the person so elected and upon presentation of such certificate to the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, the person so elected shall take the oath of office and become a member of the Senate or the House of Representatives, as the case may be, for the term for which he was so elected.

Section 14. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than five days, Sundays excepted, nor to any other place than that, in which the two Houses are in session.

Section 15. (A) The general assembly shall enact no law except by bill, and no bill shall be passed without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to each house. Bills may originate in either house, but may be altered, amended, or rejected in the other.

(B) The style of the laws of this state shall be, "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio."

(C) Every bill shall be considered by each house on three different days, unless two thirds of the members elected to the house in which it is pending suspend this requirement, and every individual consideration of a bill or action suspending the requirement shall be recorded in the journal of the respective house. No bill may be passed until the bill has been reproduced and distributed to members of the house in which it is pending and every amendment been made available upon a member's request.

(D) No bill shall amend more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title. No law shall be revived or amended unless the new act contains the entire act revived, or the section or sections amended, and the section or sections amended shall be repealed.

(E) Every bill which has passed both houses of the general assembly shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house to certify that the procedural requirements for passage have been met and shall be presented forthwith to the governor for his approval.

(F) Every joint resolution which has been adopted in both houses of the general assembly shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house to certify that the procedural requirements for adoption have been met and shall forthwith be filed with the secretary of state.

Section 16. If the governor approves an act, he shall sign it; if he becomes law and he shall file it with the secretary of state.

If he does not approve it, he shall return it with his objections in writing, to the house in which it originated, which shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and may then reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to the house of origin vote to repass the bill, it shall be sent, with the objections of the governor, to the other house, which may also reconsider the vote on its passage. If three-fifths of the members elected to the second house vote to repass it, it becomes law notwithstanding the objections of the governor, and the presiding officer of the second house shall file it with the secretary of state. In no case shall a bill be repassed by a smaller vote than is required by the constitution on its original passage. In all cases of reconsideration the vote of each house shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against the bill shall be entered upon its journal.

If a bill is not returned by the governor within ten days, Sundays excepted, after being presented to him, it becomes law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the general assembly by adjournment prevents its return. In either case, it becomes law unless, within ten days after such adjournment, it is filed by him, with his objections in writing, in the office of the secretary of state. The governor shall file with the secretary of state every bill not returned by him to the house of origin that becomes law without his signature.

The governor may disapprove any item or items in any bill making an appropriation of money and the item or items, so disapproved, shall be void, unless repassed in the manner prescribed by this section for the repassage of a bill.

EFFECTIVE DATE AND REPEAL

If adopted by a majority of the electors voting on this amendment, the amendment and schedule thereto shall take immediate effect, and existing sections 4, 6, 7, 9, 11, 14, and 16 of Article II, and sections 8, 15, 17, 18, 19, and 25 of Article II shall be repealed from such effective date.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Let's say you're in four spades and West leads a heart. East cashes the A-K and returns the nine. West ruffing your ten and returning a low diamond. You go up with the ace and need the rest of the tricks. It would seem at this point that the contract depends solely on a successful club finesse.

However, there is an excellent rule to follow in situations of this sort. Let's assume for a moment that there's a 50 per cent chance of East's having the king. Starting with this as a base, your first obligation is to look for a line of play other than the finesse that will raise your chances of success to perhaps 60, 75, or conceivably 100 per cent.

In the present case, if you study the matter closely, it becomes evident that you can elevate your prospects well above 50 per cent by simply allowing for the possibility that West had only one or two trumps originally.

In line with this, after winning the diamond at trick four, you play a low trump to the king and lead the queen of hearts. As it happens, West has no more trumps and this permits you to discard a club from dummy.

The rest of the play is easy enough. You cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in dummy, return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and ruff your last club to bring home the contract.

Note that if, when you lead the queen of hearts, West produces a trump, having been dealt three or more trumps, you overruff in dummy and still have the club finesse to fall back on. It doesn't cost a thing to play the hand this way.

Hormone Shots Spur Growth

Our 11-year old boy, Bill, is one of the shortest boys in his class. Even though he is well coordinated in sports and is in the top of his class scholastically, his height presents many burdens to him. Are there special shots that can be given to stimulate his growth?

Our other children had the same problem, but later had a spurt of growth. This does not encourage Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G., La.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. G.:
You are wise to inquire about the possibility of hormone injections to stimulate Bill's growth. The fact that something is actively being done will encourage him.

In Focus

Charlie Pensyl

Erich von Daniken has two books out now that are causing much comment: CHARIOTS OF THE GODS? and GODS FROM OUTER SPACE. These books touch on areas we have been kicking around for years through articles in SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN and other scientific periodicals. We think friend Erich would have done well to have read some of those writings, however, his books are most entertaining and are a springboard for the reader who wishes to delve into pre-history. After reading von Daniken's books the next step should be Donald W. Patten's THE BIBLICAL FLOOD AND THE ICE EPOCH. Patten's book has been very popular here at the shop and we have sold many more copies since the two von Daniken books have become so popular. We have other of Patten's books as a follow-up after you finish the flood-and-ice one.

In the area of good books, have you read yet NONE DARE CALL IT CONSPIRACY? Ezra Taft Benson, former Secretary of Agriculture, has said: "I wish that every citizen of every country in the free world and every slave behind the Iron Curtain might read this book." And from Dr. Medford Evans, former Chief of Security Training for the Atom Bomb Project, this book describes "the way in which our nation and other nations are actually governed... For the reader who is intelligent but uninitiated in the literature of super-politics, I can think of no better introduction to the field." And to that let me add that when you finish with NDCIC you are ready for THE NAKED CAPITALIST, by W. Cleon Skousen.

The first week in May we go back to school at CKFN. You wouldn't believe the programs we have set up for this series. You won't want to miss any of them.

The male sex hormone, androgen, is given to further the development and growth of adolescent boys. A variety of other closely related hormones have been tried, with excellent results, in carefully selected cases.

Before any injections are given to a boy of Bill's age, doctors perform careful studies of the hormonal balance in the blood.

Specialists in endocrinology undertake treatment only when they think a deficiency is present.

A good indication of growth potential is determined by X-rays of the ends of the long bones in the arms and legs. A small area of bone known as the "epiphysis" is seen by X-ray, and followed throughout the period of treatment.

These physical considerations, coupled with the psychological and social ones, determine the doctor's decision to proceed or to continue with treatment.

Can you tell me what a "caloric test" is and when it is used?

Miss L. L., N.J.

Dear Miss L.:

The caloric test is used by ear specialists and by neurologists who are seeking more information about the hearing and the balance mechanism deep in the inner ear.

A small amount of ice water is placed in the outer ear canal and allowed to stimulate the eardrum and the equilibrium mechanism. Within seconds, a sense of dizziness occurs. This lasts for about 30 seconds, and then disappears.

The test can also be performed by rotating the patient in a specially designed chair and noting the degree and the duration of dizziness.

This response of dizziness, rapid eye motions, and a sensation of falling, is normal.

When the test fails to elicit these normal responses, they are very meaningful in the diagnosis of the patient's condition.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH...Don't use aerosol sprays in a small, confined and poorly ventilated room.

POW now wearing bracelet for MIA

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Someone slipped a bracelet to returned prisoner of war Air Force Maj. Cowan Glenn Nix during welcome-home ceremonies in Pepper pike Sunday.

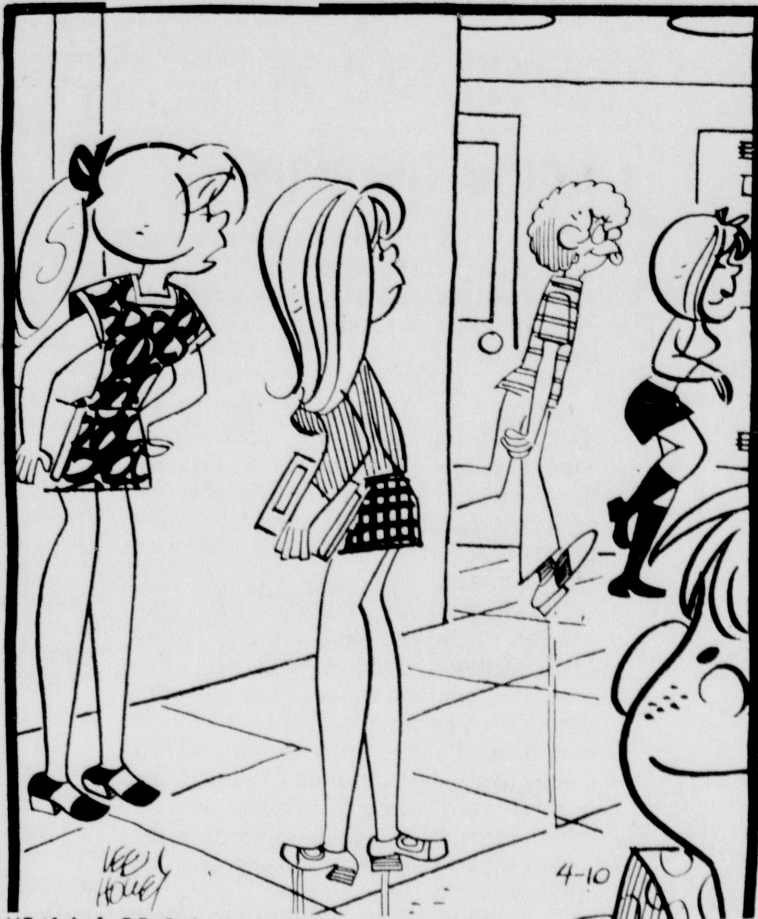

The bracelet, given Nix by an unidentified youth, bore the name of Navy Lt. Cmdr. Lee Nordahl, who is listed as missing in action in Vietnam. Nix promptly put the bracelet on his wrist and said he won't take it off until "I know the fate of this man." Nix said he didn't know who the youth was who gave him the bracelet.

The eggs of the swordfish are almost too small to see.

TB Association elects officers

Officers for 1973-74 were elected and a budget of $6,300 was approved at the annual meeting of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association Monday night following dinner in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

County Commissioner Ray Warner was elected to the board of directors for a three-year term, and Mrs. Tran Del Ponte, A. C. Heer and Miss Mary Frances Snider were re-elected.

Mrs. George Finley was elected president to succeed William C. Allen; Mrs. Russell Hatfield, first vice president; Clyde Cramer, second vice president; David Six, treasurer; Mrs. Paul Cox, secretary; Joseph Peters, representative director; William C. Allen, alternate representative director; Frank Grubbs, consultant.

A budget of $6,300 for the 1973-74 year, submitted by Six and Miss Snider, was approved.

SIX NOTED in the financial report for the last year that $10,129.84 was spent by the association and said this included $4,270 for respiratory therapy equipment installed at Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Doris Douglass, county Health Department tuberculosis nurse, reported four new tuberculosis cases in Fayette County were recorded last year. She also reported that 5,029 students, school personnel, food handlers, industrial workers and the general public had been given the tuberculin skin tests last year and that 840 received X-rays when the state mobile unit was in the community.

She also noted that free tuberculin skin tests are available between 9 and 11:30 a.m. each Friday at the Health Department. The general skin testing program will be resumed in May, she said.

Mrs. Robert Goodson, executive secretary, reported Christmas Seal contributions last year totaled $5,943.42. She said the association's program for the coming year will be about the same as this year.

Larry Russell and Robert Lucas, respiratory therapists at Memorial Hospital and their wives were introduced along with County Commissioners Warner and J. Herbert Perrill and their wives, Mrs. Getchen Witherspoon, supervisory nurse of the Health Department, Dr. William Covert, the health commissioner, and Miss Pat Gray, field counselor of the Ohio Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

He also explained the blood gas analysis unit, which was purchased for the hospital by the local association. He said more than 6,000 tests have been made with the unit.

Mrs. Goodson presented certificates of appreciation on behalf of the association board to Mrs. Dennis Hagler, president of Beta Omega Chapter and Mrs. Glenn Smith, president of Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority; to Joseph Peters, representative director; Robert Lutz, of WCHO, the Fayette County Health Department; Mrs. Gretchen Witherspoon; Mrs. Doris Douglass; Howard Harper, of The Record-Herald; Miss Marian Osborn, of Channel 3 TV; Mrs. Orley Varney Jr.; Mrs. Joann Baughn and Mrs. Mander Boggs for their help in the association office; to Miss Frances White, Miss Helen Slavens, Miss Mary Frances Snider and Larry Lehman for their work on the steering committee for reorganization and to Girl Scout Troop 747 for their volunteer work.

Jury frees 2 defendants in weapons trial

A Common Pleas Court jury deliberated about 25 minutes Monday before returning not guilty verdicts in the trial of Judy L. Stewart, 29, of 720 Dayton Ave., and Robert L. Thompson, 34, of 1121 Lakeview Ave.

Judy L. Stewart was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and Thompson was charged with aiding and abetting the carrying of a concealed weapon.

The couple was indicted by the grand jury in January on charges which stemmed from an alleged incident in the Buckeye Bar, 216 E. Court St.

The trial was opened Friday, recessed for the weekend, and completed Monday.

The defendants were represented by attorney William Abraham, of Columbus. The state's case was presented by Prosecutor Otis R. Hess Jr. and Assistant Prosecutor Robert Simpson.

Two children implicated in home burglary

Charges are pending against two Washington C.H. sisters, aged 11 and 12, in connection with the theft of three rings from a Washington C.H. home last week.

Officers said the two had admitted their part in the theft of the rings, valued at $90, from the residence of Mrs. Edward Orihood, 420 N. Fayette St. Charges against the sisters are expected to be filed in Juvenile Court after consultation with the prosecutor, officers said.

Police became aware of the connection of the two with the theft when Mrs. Orihood discovered one of the girls in her basement Monday morning. Officers were called to the scene and took the two into custody. They were questioned at police headquarters and released to the Child Welfare who later returned them to their parents.

The three rings were recovered by officers.

Two necklaces apparently stolen from Buckeye Mart also were recovered by police at Rose Avenue School while investigating the ring theft.

Principal Lewis Parrett said he had taken the necklaces away from a boy who had been attempting to give them away. Police questioned the youngster who admitted taking the jewelry and also implicated another boy.

The necklaces were returned to the store where they were taken and the two juveniles, both 8 years old, were not charged.

JOHN BANE, manager of the Oakland Avenue swimming pool, reported the theft of tools and other items, valued at $890, from the pool storage building.

Bane said the theft occurred sometime between Oct. 1, 1972, and March 1. Taken in the theft was a gasoline - powered water pump, four cases of soft drink syrup, an electric drill and accessories, and two electric sump pumps.

Police said they could find no signs of forcible entry at the building.

Mary Groves, of 346 W. Court St., reported the theft of her daughter's bicycle from the Washington Junior High School building Monday. She said the theft took place sometime during the day.

A motorcycle license plate reported stolen Saturday was recovered in a ditch along Rowe-Ging Road Monday by Union Township employees. Sheriff's deputies said Kenneth Leath, Rt. 1, had reported the plate stolen from a motorcycle parked at Miami Trace High School. The plate was returned to its owner.

Annual Cancer Society event

Dessert smorgasbord scheduled Thursday

Nearly 400 men and women of Fayette County will gather in the Mahan Building by 7:30 p.m. Thursday for the ninth annual dessert smorgasbord sponsored by the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society. It is open to everyone and all free.

The wide assortment of desserts will range from common pies and cake to honey-dipped strawberry fritters — and some items not even named yet! The desserts are donated by members of the unit board and other volunteers.

Unit President Robert E. Minshall explains that the dessert smorgasbord started nine years ago when the education committee considered plans for holding a public meeting featuring a speaker or other type program to help reduce the rate of death by cancer. To encourage attendance free food was offered — not just plain food — all desserts!

And that's what a dessert smorgasbord is all about — tables piled high with tempting desserts. "Although there will be special dishes for those counting calories," Minshall said, "we just pretend for one evening that calories really don't exist!"

MRS. MARION L. WADDLE, education committee chairman, said this year's program will differ somewhat from past years when out-of-town speakers covered specific subjects related to cancer. In answer to many requests, the program this year will consist of a question and answer session covering all phases of cancer. The questions will be answered by a panel of local physicians, Dr. Byers W. Shaw, Dr. Ralph Gebhart, Dr. Robert A. Heiny and Dr. Joseph M. Herbert.

Mrs. L. C. (Sonny) Johnson, Mrs. Bart Mahoney, and Mrs. Wesley Cox, co-chairmen of the smorgasbord, suggest an early arrival, for local merchants have been generous with gifts which will be awarded in various ways under the direction of Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. William Heinz.

Travelog presented at Kiwanis meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer N. Reed took the Kiwanians on a visual trip to New Zealand Monday night following the club dinner in the Lafayette Inn. Mrs. Reed prefaced the color slide sequence with a brief history of the country which they visited last year.

Mrs. Reed pointed out that New Zealand has a population of around 2.5 million, a mixture of British, Scotch and native Polynesians, called Maoris.

New Zealand is comprised of two islands and that three-fifths of the population and two-thirds of the industry are on the North Island. The livelihood of the people, Mrs. Reed said, depends primarily on agriculture. Sheep and mutton are the principal exports.

Mrs. Reed said one of the highlights of their trip was a flight in a small plane to one of New Zealand's famed glaciers and landing on it.

Richard Maddux, program chairman, introduced Reed, an Armo industrial engineer, and Mrs. Reed, who retires this year as a teacher in the Belle Aire School. The meeting was conducted by the president, the Rev. Gerald Wheat.

James Steele and Mike Campbell were guests of Gerald Begin. Delegations from two Columbus Kiwanis clubs attended the meeting. The group from Westgate club was headed by President Ron Sparks and included Dave Williams, Mack Mason and Karl Wirtz. The Dublin club group included President Paul Gallo, Clayton Rose, R.G. Masew and Hugh Hayden.

The livestock handled each year by Canada's meat industry would fill 200,000 freight cars.

Judge fines two on check charges

A variety of criminal cases were aired in Municipal Court Monday afternoon before Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

Jaqueline Williams, Bloomingburg, pleaded guilty to two counts of check fraud and was given a $50 fine on each charge. The complaints were filed by Ordeta Bolen, of Bolen's Market on March 22.

Judge Winegardner suspended the fine on one count pending payment of the two checks, one for $51.75 and the other for $14.23.

Paul E. McDaniel, 35, Columbus, was also found guilty of a check fraud complaint and fined $50 and costs. McDaniel was charged in a warrant filed by Martin Lightle, manager of the Emerald Inn, S. Fayette St.

Judge Winegardner also ordered McDaniel to pay Lightle for the $20 insufficient funds check.

McDaniel had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Russell L. McConaughy, 53, of Piqua, arrested by police on an intoxication charge, was fined $35 and costs. He was arrested Friday at the Sohio station at Court and North streets.

Joseph Warner, 18, of Tampa, Fla., was fined $25 and costs for discharging fireworks in the city. He was apprehended by officers at Meyer Court after setting off firecrackers throughout the city Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty.

Sheriff under fire

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A state auditor's office inspector has blamed Cuyahoga County Sheriff Ralph Kreiger for making "very little effort" to locate welfare cheaters indicted by grand juries.

Driver cited after two-car city accident

A driver was cited in one of two traffic accidents investigated overnight by city police.

Officers charged John L. Tatman, 17, of 929 Millwood Ave., with failure to yield right of way in a two-car mishap at the intersection of Delaware and Gregg streets at 7:58 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said Tatman pulled from the stop sign on Gregg into the path of a northbound car driven by Michael M. Williams, 35, of 366 Ely St.

Damage was moderate to both cars.

A two-car collision occurred on Court Street just east of North Street at 2 p.m. Monday. Police reported a car driven by Gary E. Saum, 28, Leesburg, was pulling from the Sohio station lot and collided with a car driven by Steven A. Alspaugh, 18, of 1005 Lakeview Ave., eastbound on Court Street.

Neither driver was cited in the mishap which caused moderate damage.

Highway Patrol officers cited a Wheelersburg man following a two-car front-to-rear crash on at the U.S. 35-Ohio 753 Interchange at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Patrolmen said Buford R. Whitt II, 29, was cited after his car rammed the rear of an auto driven by John F. Wilt, 24, of Dayton. The Wilt car was stopped for a stop sign at the time of the crash, officers said.

Damage to the front of the 1972 model Whitt car was extensive. Neither driver was injured in the crash.

Woman injured in rural crash

A Fayette County woman was treated at Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning after her car was involved in an accident on U.S. 62 at Rowe-Ging Road, Highway Patrol officers reported.

The Sheriff's Department also investigated four accidents Tuesday morning, all minor, as falling snow and falling temperatures created hazardous driving conditions.

Janyth M. East, 38, Rt. 4, was treated at Memorial Hospital for a chest injury and a bruised hip after her car spun out of control into a fence at 8:50 a.m.

Patrolmen said her car was south-bound when she swerved to the right to avoid an approaching truck she thought was in her lane. The car spun out of control into the right ditch damaging 20 feet of fence owned by Henry Tackett, Rt. 2. Her 1968 model car was moderately damaged.

Police cited Wilma M. Rulon, 49, of 1122 Nelson Pl., for failure to yield the right of way in a two-car crash at Temple and Forest streets at 9:53 a.m.

Officers said the Rulon car pulled from the stop sign on Forest and collided with the right side of a west-bound car driven by Russell W. Jordan, 32, Rt. 3, Sabina.

Damage to both cars was extensive.

Picasso rites to be private

VAUVENARGUES, France (AP) — The body of Pablo Picasso was brought today to a chateau he owned near Aix in Provence for burial.

No date was announced for the funeral, but informed sources said the family wanted a private service.
